SPAULDING -- SHORT GENEALOGY

Children (5) probably all born Killingly, Conn.

DAMARIS^{5}, b abt. 1721-died So.Killingly, 31 July 1802 (in her 82nd yr. g.s.); married Pomfret, Conn. 28 Oct.1741 William Short, b 1711-died Killingly (So.) 7 June 1793 (in his 82nd yr. g.s.) son of EDWARD SPAULDING^{3}, father of Jacob Spaulding ^{4} above, and son of John^{2} Spaulding (Edward ^{1}) and Hannah Heald; married 1st at Chelmsford, Mass. 27 Nov. 1683 , Mary Bracket, who died at Plainfield, Conn. 8 Dec.1704, dau. of John Bracket. Edward 3 died at Plainfield, betw. 3 Apr. & 13 Sept. 1725. Edward (3) married 2nd, at Concord, Mass. 23 Oct.1705, Dorothy (Hayward) Barker , b. Concord, Mass. 23 Jan. 1673/4 -died Plainfield, Conn. 20 May 1755 (aged 81 , g.s.) dau. of Joseph Hayward and Hannah Hosmer, and widow of William Barker who died Concord, Mass. 17 Dec.1703 .

SHORT Cemetery Inscriptions in old South Killingly Cemetery.

William Short died 7 June 1793 in his 82nd yr., g.s.
Mrs. Dameras Short, wife of William Short died July 31st, 1802 in her 82nd year

Siloam Short died 10 June 1835 (in 83rd yr.g.s.) (Rev. War Vet.)
Mary, his wife, died 16 Oct.1836 in her 78th yr, g.s.

Seth Short died 21 Sept. 1849 aged 93 (Rev. War Vet.)
Chloe, his wife, died 4 Aug. 1829 (in her 74th year, g.s.)

Ebenezer Short died 9 Oct. 1832 (aged -1 years)
Mary, his wife, died 4 Sept. 1866 aged 79 yrs. 16 days.

I copied all the above myself, many years ago when copying Killingly Cemetery Inscriptions.

Killingly Vital Records from Barbour Collection
William Short and Damaris
Daniel, born 24 March 1744
Elisabeth, bprn 17 Oct.1746 (possibly married 30 Aug. 1770 Edmund Paul.)
Rebecca, b. 6 Jan.1750/51
Silvan (maybe misread for Siloam ??), b. 10 July 175XX(88)XX1752
Zerviah, b. 7 Dec.1754.

Note gaps where children could have been born : between marriage and 1744; 1748, 1752/3. 1756.

My thought was that possibly your SAMUEL SHORT, b. 8 Apr. 1762-65 might be a younger child of William and Damaris, but if he had a brother Amasa born 7 July 1772, that knocks that theory out.

Land records and probate records might help, but the probate records are very sparse. Another possibility is that Daniel could be the father of Samuel and Amasa. Coming from the So. Killingly section they might have attended the Killingly 'Breakneck' Church in the New England Register. Vol.66 : 129, 337.

Went to State Library this morning and checked Vol. 66 of NEHGR. where Wm. Short and wife Damaris were members neginning in 1747.

Still cannot answer the problem yet, but we do have three more children for Wm. & Damaris Short. Oliver, Simeon and Damaris, the latter b. or bpt. in 1765.

An Abel Short and wife Polly had a son Benjamin Syevens Short bpt. 1787. in So. Killingly.

Also children for Siloam who I am positive now is the Silvane Short, as the age now fits.

Found an Edward Short of Stnington, Conn. who had two sons b. 1735 & 1739 respectively. Also Thomas Short of New London who died 27 Sept. 1712 He left a son and Dau. The son Charles married and had several children.

No probate record for William Short 1792.

Hi Helen,

Found this interesting. Is it possible that this Samuel was illegitimate? The entry looks like parents of Samuel here might be Abagail and her father. Could this be the Samuel who married Mercy Collum in Salem, MA, in 1719? If our Samuel illegitimate he wouldn't have had a very easy life and would probably have left home ASAP.

On the lighter side will enclose "Disorder in the Court."

Hope you aren't as tired of the cold weather as I am.

Ciao,
Helen

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SAMUEL SHORT, Sr., b ca 1690s. Resident of Killingly, purchased Lot 15, 48.5 acres in Glocester, RI, deed w 28 Mar 1734, r 27 Sep 1734. Freeman's Oath administered to Samuel 27 Apr 1739 in Glocester.

Possibly Samuel, Sr., the Samuel and Mary who sold Lot 15, 47.25 acres, to John Short in deed w 23 Nov (1759?), r 16 Apr 1760. Possibly the Samuel who requested permission 1 May 1762 to move he and his family to Johnstown; may have gone to live with a daughter and son-in-law there.

Two known children; Samuel Jr., and John. Both b ca 1720s.

SAMUEL SHORT, JR., b 1720s. Samuel m Hannah Barrett on 5 Dec 1751. Freeman's Oath administered to Samuel, Jr., 17 Apr 1751. No early record of land purchase; possibly lived with parents. Deed w 11 Apr 1761, r 15 apr 1761 John Short to Samuel Short, ten acres from Lot 15. The first deed for Samuel, Jr., if this was Samuel, Jr., who bought the land and not Samuel, Sr.

Note: Samuel & Mary sold Lot 15 for 1400 pounds; Samuel bought 10 acres from Lot 15 for ?200? pounds from John Short.

Possibly John older than Samuel. Perhaps John named after his grandfather (old naming patterns - first born), or possibly a first Samuel d.y. and Samuel, Jr., b after John. Note that John marr earlier then Samuel, seemed to have more money, bought land before any record of Samuel, Jr., buying land. If John were the older brother perhaps he benefited from primogenitor. This might explain the sale of land by Samuel & Mary, as parents of Samuel, Jr., & John; and small purchase of part of Lot 15 may have been by Samuel, Jr., who had lived with his parents and had little money.

Could Samuel Short, Jr., be the Samuel who served in the RW from Glocester? Severe injuries during the war might explain the assistance he received from the town of Glocester, but why so much later in time? John, b 1720s received assistance in th town, but in the form of being paid for taking care of orphans. Two totally different types of assistance.

28 Aug 1792 - some necessaries to support Samuel Short delivered by George Brown.
01 Apr 1793 - George Brown reimb 1 lb 8 sh 8 p in silver money for sundries delivered to Samuel Short.
25 Dec 1793 - Col Stephen Windsor 16 shillings 11 pence for sundries to Samuel Short.
07 Apr 1794 - Col Stephen Windsor 1 pound 11 shillings 9 pence payment for sundries delivered to Samuel short 12 Jan 1795 - Stephen Windsor 4 lbs 7 shilling 4 pence for sundries for Samuel Short.
13 Apr 1795 - Ezekiel Brown 1 lb 16 shillings for 1200" of boards to cover a house for Samuel Short. Samuel to live there as he can free of expense to this town

JOHN SHORT, b ca 1720s. John m Zerviah Utter on 27 Sep 1748. Freeman's Oath administered to John 16 Apr 1755. John m 2d Hannah Curtis on 15 Jan 1763, m 3d Sarah Curtis on 18 Oct 1764.

Two known children of John & Zerviah: John, b 1751; Asa, b 1754.
Possible ch: Samuel, b 1762; Zerviah, b unk; Amasa, b 1772; Benoni, b unk; Jonathan, b unk.

John bought 30 acres for 24 pounds (quite a difference in price than that of the sales of acreage of Lot 15 earlier). Deed w 16 Feb 1749, r Sep 1750.

John bought 22 acres for 200 pounds in old tenor in deed w & r 22 Aug 1755.

John bought 100.5 acres for 450 pounds in old tender in deed w 4 Apr 1755, r 13 Sep 1755.

John & Zerviah QC (in deed w 16 Feb 1755, r 24 Mar 1756) for 100 pounds old tenor to his bro-in-law, Wm Morey, 120 acres in Killingly (land of late Samuel Utter of Killingly). Samuel d intestate and his estate equally divided by probate. Do not believe John & Zerviah inherited 120 acres and all land previously purchased by John was in Glocester.

John buys from Samuel & Mary 47.25 acres, Lot 15, for 1400 lbs in old tenor in deed w 23 Nov ?1759?, r 16 Apr 1760.

John sells 10 acres, part of Lot 15 orig owned by Sam Sr, to Samuel Short for ?200? pounds.

John Short sells ?45? acres to Asa for 40 pounds in deed w 26 Aug 1772, r 27 Jan 1780. Asa's first purchase of land? Deed written four years prior to Asa's m and recorded two years after m. Probably sale from father to son.

On 11 Jun 1778, Sarah Short files a statement in Glocester Town Hall relinquishing all interest in real and personal estate of her husband, John, to John Short (presumably this latter would be John b 1751). On 24 Feb 1779 in the Killingly Town Hall Sarah acknowledges the preceding document, and John Short assigns everything to Wm Irons. I do believe that this was a jointure and the 1778 statement was in preparation of her husband's death and settlement of his estate in which Wm Irons played some role; that John, b 1720s, died ca Feb 1779.

It seems as if some of the following transactions are in anticipation of the death of John, b 1720s, and would think that perhaps the following transactions are by his sons, John, b 1751, and Asa, b 1754.

Asa Short in deed w & r 12 Jun 1779 sells 60 acres for 300 pounds to Wm Irons. Because Wm Irons is involved it seems that this may be preparation for settling the estate of Asa's father's, John, estate.

John Short sells 41.75 acres in deed w 31 May, r 1 Oct 1779 in Killingly for 700 pounds. Seems as thought this would be John, b 1751, but where did this Killingly property come from?

In deed w 4 Sep 1779, r 1 Oct 1779 John Short (prob b 1751) and Stephen Bowen sell to Wm Irons 48 acres in Thompson for 800 pounds.

John Short to Asa Short for 40 pounds ?40?/?20? acres in Glocester in deed w 26 Aug 1772 r 27 Jan 1780.

Since it is possible that John, b 1720s, has died by now I will pick up on the cast of characters.

JOHN SHORT, b 1751. Wife possibly Jean. Marr ca 1772. Known children:

David, d 25 Nov 1842, 68y11m3d
Esther, 24 Jun 1776 - 2 Oct 1829
Reuben These last two mentioned in Bradford Co PA History as brothers of David.
Abel

ASA SHORT, b 1754. Documented as son of John and Zerviah, brother of John, b 1751.
Marr Olive Burrell. Known children:
Benoni, mentioned as brother of John, 1790, in Tioga Co., PA History
Basheba, ca 1778 - d aft 1850 census
Asa Jr, b ca 1787 - d Sep 1869
Anna, b ca ?1786? - d aft 1850 census
John S. Short, 7 Jul 1790 - 30 Oct 1885
Olive Short, b ca 1794 - d aft 1850 census
Mercy, b 1799 - d aft 1850 census

The 1777 Military Census for Glocester, Providence, RI:

Benoni	16-50A	(pgs 13/3)	b ca 1727-1761
John, Jr.	16-50A	(pgs 14/3)	b ca 1727-1761	(b 1751?)
Jonathan	16-50A	(pgs 14/3)	b ca 1727-1761
John	16-50A	(pgs 19/9)	b ca 1727-1761	(b 1720s?)
Samuel	50-60A	(pgs 22/12)	b ca 1717-1727	(b 1720s?)

It seems all males b by 1758 should be included above.

A military census for Killingly such as Glocester had would be helpful.

Daniel, son of William Short settled in Adams, MA.

SAMUEL SHORT, b 1762
AMASA SHORT, b 1772

A duo, because the only facts we have is that they say they were brothers (possibly stepbrothers?) and they claim Killingly, CT, as their birthplace and residence. Their birthdates throw a ringer, as far as I know John b 1720s was never a resident of Killingly, and his son John's residence in Killingly/Thompson was after 1772 to the best of my knowledge. Nowhere do we find anything on residence in Glocester on them. This seems to be belied by the QC r 20 Apr 1786 r 28 Aug 1786 in Killingly in which Samuel renounces interest in the estate of John Short.

It seems to me that the Samuel on the 1790 Glocester, RI, census would be Samuel, Jr., b ca 1720s, as Samuel's, b 1762, pension info refects he was b in Killingly, enlisted there lived there until age 26 then to Hancock MA two yrs then to Otsego Co NY. Could he be on the 1790 in MA or NY?

1800 Census Otsego Co., NY

Sarah Short 1 F 26-45 (Sarah, widow of John b 1720s, or a dau of John, b 1720s & Sarah?); 2F 45+ (could this be Sarah, widow of John 1720s and their dau Zerviah and one dau, name unknown?)

Most confusing between the Samuel on 1790 RI & 1800 NY. Are they related?

Were either Samuel or Amasa on the 1790 Otsego Co NY Census? I don't have that index. Were either of them with John & Sarah on the 1790 RI? Poss all w/David Short.

BENONI SHORT. He served in the Rev War. The name Benoni carried down in the family, so I think it is possible he was a son of John, b 1720s. LDS Film #091487: Providence, Glocester, Probate Records 1731-1796, pg 171. Whereas Mr. Benoni Short of Glocester...departed this life 20 Dec 1779, intestate, Stephen Windsor appointed admin of estate. Could it be that he was severely wounded in RW, came home to Glocester, the other family members were in MA, he died. A Benoni served in RW from CT and a Benoni d in Glocester. Two Benonis, or one?

JONATHAN SHORT. The only records we have on Jonathan are: At a Town Council Mtg he was among those who were unable to provide themselves with a fire arm. His name on the 1777 military census for Glocester. At a Glocester Town Council Meeting held 30 May 1795: There was a request from a number of respectable inhabitants of this town to this council to have a guardian appointed over the person and estate of Jonathan Short. Randal Angell appointed. No further record on him.

ZERVIAH SHORT. Document w 1 May 1786 r 4 Sep 1786 in which Zerviah Short of Glocester relinquishes all claim to the estate of her father John Short, late deceased of Glocester. On the 1800 census for Otsego Co., NY, a Sarah Short is listed before Samuel Short, b 1762 and Amasa Short, b 1772. Sarah's household contains no male, one female 26-45 and two females over 45. Could one of the females be Zerviah who has never m?

Could it be the reason the 1786 QC's to John (1751) from Samuel and Zerviah weren't accomplished until then because they were waiting for Zerviah to reach legal age? Bet legal age for females older than males. If b in1765 she would have been 21 y, and if b in 1768, 18y. Samuel recorded his QC just a few days after Zerviah.

1774 Census of Glocester, Providence Co., RI

Samuel Short: 2M 16+ 0M -16 1F 16+ 2F -16 (could this be Samuel, Jr.?)

2M 16+ = Samuel and perhaps Jonathan; 1 F 16+ Hannah his wife? 2F -16 = ??

John Short 2M 16+ 3M -16 2F 16+ 2F -16 (John b. 1720s)

2M 16+ = John and Asa; (son John, b 1751 marr and on his own)

3M -16 = Benoni, Samuel (b 1762), Amasa (b 1772)

2F 16+ = wife Sarah, possibly dau Zerviah

2F -16 = ??

Possibly Sarah had children from a previous marr, but I would gamble that she was young and unmarried when John married her.

BENONI SHORT. He served in the Rev War. The name Benoni carried down in the family, so I think it is possible he was a son of John, b 1720s. LDS Film #091487: Providence, Glocester, Probate Records 1751-1790, pg 171. Whereas Mr. Benoni Short of Glocester...departed this life 20 Dec 1779, intestate, Stephen Winsor appointed admin of estate. Could it be that he was severely wounded in RW, came home to Glocester, the other family members were in MA, he died. A Benoni served in RW from CT and a Benoni is in Glocester. Two Benonis, or one?

JONATHAN SHORT. The only records we have on Jonathan are: At a Town Council Mtg he was among those who were unable to provide themselves with a fire arm. His name on the 1777 military census for Glocester. At a Glocester Town Council Meeting held 10 May 1795: There was a request from a number of respectable inhabitants of this town to this council to have a guardian appointed over the person and estate of Jonathan Short. Randal Angell appointed. No further record on him.

ZERVIAH SHORT. Document w 1 May 1786 r 4 Sep 1786 in which Zerviah Short of Glocester relinquishes all claim to the estate of her father John Short, late deceased of Glocester. On the 1800 census for Otsego Co., NY, a Sarah Short is listed before Samuel Short, b 1762 and Amasa Short, b 1772. Sarah's household contains no male, one female 26-45 and two females over 45. Could one of the females be Zerviah, who has never m?

Could it be the reason the 1786 QC's to John (1751) from Samuel and Zerviah weren't accomplished until then because they were waiting for Zerviah to reach legal age? But legal age for females older than males. If b in 1765 she would have been 21 ½, and if b in 1768, 18½. Samuel recorded his QC just a few days after Zerviah.

1774 Census of Glocester, Providence Co., RI

Samuel Short: 2M 16+ 0M -16 1F 16+ 2F -16 (could this be Samuel, b ?)

2M 16+ = Samuel and perhaps Jonathan; 1 F 16+ Hannah his wife? 2F -16 = ??

John Short 2M 16+ 3M -16 2F 16+ 2F -16 (John b. 1720s)

2M 16+ = John and Jr. (son John, b 1751 marr and on his own)

3M -16 = Benoni, Samuel (b 1762), Amasa (b 1772)

2F -16 = ??

Possibly Sarah had children from a previous marr, but I would gamble that she was young and unmarried when John married her.

1790 Census, Providence, Glocester, RI
John 2M 16+ (John, father; David son); 2M -16, Reuben & Abel (mentioned in Bradford Co PA History); 5F, wife (Jean?), 2 unknown daus Asa 1M 16+, Asa; 3M -16 Asa Jr, John & Benoni (Benoni mentioned in Tioga Co PA History; 5F Olive (wife); Basheba & Anna, daus; 2 unknown daus (believe daus Mercy & Olive b after 1790).

Samuel 1M 16+, 3F Which Samuel? Samuel b 1762 or the Samuel (poss Jr. b 1720s).

RW Pension Abstracts says Samuel b 1762 at Killing, lived there at enl & lived in CT til age 26 (1788) then moved to Hancock MA for 2 yrs (1788-1790) then moved to Otsego Co, NY. Do you have a deed with a written date indicating when Samuel arrived in Otsego Co? I believe in the bio sketch on his brother Amasa that his son Cyrus said Amasa moved to Otsego Co in 1794.

This Samuel on 1790 RI could be Samuel b 1720s with wife and daus. The Short men seemed to have more daus, but it could be that the females stronger than male infants and more survived. Families of a dozen children common in early times and small families the exception.

Gen. James Cudworth was a noted man in the affairs of the Colony, distinguished alike for his modesty, patriotism, and freedom from bigotry. He fell under the displeasure of Gov. Prince, and the Court of Plymouth, for the stand which he took in favor of toleration, especially toward the Quakers. He was past seventy when he took the field in Phillip's War. Deane gives six interesting pages to his life and service.

CURTIS.

An ancient English family (spelling their name Curteis) sett. in counties of Kent and Sussex. Stephen Curtis was of Appledore, Kent, abt. 1450, and several of his descts. were Mayors of Tenterden, a town from which some of the first settlers, of Scituate, came.

In 1590, William Curteis was Bailiff, of Tenterden and, in 1597, Thomas Curteis was Bailiff. From 1600 to 1700, the office of Mayor, of Tenterden was filled for fully twenty years by persons of the name of Curteis; and, from 1700 to 1800, for more than twenty years, said office was filled by persons of the same name. Miss Alice Marian Curtis, dau. of John Curtis (70), visited Tenterden in 1898, and we quote from a letter to her father, in which she describes it as a "high town, wide streets with trees and grass, and very pretty old houses setting back from the street. An old stone church, built in 1100 or thereabouts, and in the church yard lots of Curteis'. There is one tomb, where the sexton told me there were one hundred of the family. In the chapel were brass tablets,—in the wall, marble monuments, and slabs in the floor; all Curtis' or Curteis', different branches of the same family."

William Curtis came to New England in the Lion, in 1632, and was of Boston in that year, and afterwards of Roxbury. He was the ancestor of George T. and Benjaman R., Esqrs. of Boston. It is said that William m. a sister of John Elliot, the apostle to the Indians. Richard, William and John Curtis were of Scituate in 1643, and Thomas in 1649, who was of York, Me., and who returned there. John left no descts. on record. Deane says that this John had a house near Curtis Hill, which was burned by the Indians in 1676. (This house probably stood on Washington street in Hanover, near the end of Silver street, or between that and East street). A few of the descts. of Thomas are in Scituate and elsewhere, and more of the descts. of Richard. The descts. of William are quite numerous in Scituate, Hanover, and other towns in Massachusetts. When Hanover was incorporated, no family was so largely represented or owned so much of the territory as did the Curtis family.

1. William, (bro. of Richard and John) was in Scituate in 1643. We do not know the name of his w. or the date of his death. Resided on North river, next south of the Wanton farm, and was a member of the Second Church of Scituate.

Dear Helen,

Don't know why you should feel stupid about Demaris marrying Wm Mors. The surname was entitled Spaulding, Spalding, Spaulden, and could have been a different Demaris. Demaris probably a fairly common name for girls. Annoying though to have misinformation, if that Spauling gen you have, was.

Expect the computer glasses might be an answer. I probably should check into them when I get around to making an appointment to have my eyes checked. In the meantime I have found that if I prop whatever document I am answering, copying, etc., up against the bottom of the computer I can read both document and screen. At least for now!

It sounds like you made out like a bandit on your programs, Bargains always fun. I leave the program buying to Dick. All I am interested in is my gen program and a simple WP program.

Will look forward to a visit from the two of you, if and when you are in the mood. Be nice if you could park in our driveway, but verboten at Canadian Lakes. They have security patrols and if residents even leave their RVs in their yard or driveway they are right on top of it. The nice thing is that everyone maintains their property nicely. I've always thought it was really rough for people that took pride in their home and yard to live next to people who didn't. I don't care for the yards of two of our neighbor's. They are well kept, but too much in them for my taste. Our nearest neighbor wasn't real happy to hear that I plan on cutting all the trees next to our garage, and I could care less. I'm not about to put up with all the fallen leaves, chance of the trees coming down on our garage in a storm, and having to mow around them. We have a bunch of poplar trees and they are junk trees. Doubt that she will be thrilled to learn that I like the natural look in our back yard and have no intention of having the fallen (from a storm two years ago) trees removed. Tough nookums, I say. She can do what she wants with her yard and I'll do what I want with ours. Suggested to Dick before we moved in that I prefer to be over the fence neighbors and not become close friends to immediate neighbors. It saves a lot of problems. In AR moved to get away from neighbors. Like friends, but at a bit of a distance.

Hopefully there is a tourist info place where you cross into MI, as they are doing a lot of road work and it would be best to stop and find out the status of the route you plan. Dick's twin, Bob, and twin son, Rob, came up this weekend and caught a blurp on the TV about the road work and several of the main arteries were one lane due to construction. Nothing like the orange barrel special to make for a memorable trip. When we left Russellville, Dick put the pedal to the medal in the rental Ryder Truck and it began shimmying more than a hula dancer. He pulled off at a rest stop and was all set to repack the truck. I had to advise him that it was US 40, not the van, and to keep it down to the double nickel. Once we departed US 40 he could drive 70 until we reached lower western MI and the highway there comparable to US 40 for a stretch.

Have you had some of the hot, humid weather we are having? Neighboring Barryton (Barr ah ton, by the locals) has scheduled their lilac festival for ca 20 May, and think by then they will have bare bushes. Reminds me of the time some of Dick's "kin" went to the Holland tulip festival a bit late and referred to it as the stem festival, as all the blossoms were gone. Had thought I could put off Dick on AC until we saw how much hot weather we had, but after the last few days he wants air. Since our son and heir is allergic to heat maybe we can have it installed before he arrives on the 18th.

Are there any Shorts on the 1790 CT census? Be interesting to find Samuel and Amasa pre NY. Does seem like there should be a military census for CT similar to the 1777 RI census. I really need to see if I can find any annotation for that pre 1790 CT census that I found at the Little Rock, AR, library. When it comes to disorganized, I take the cake.

Dick printed a map of the area surrounding Salem, and it looks like Peabody the nearest town, followed by ?Scotswood? (don't have the map handy) and then Lynn. If it was our Samuel who married Mercy, perhaps they lived in one of these before relocating in Killingly. Have a feeling that if they did, Samuel wouldn't have been bothered with recording birth of any children.

Those head lots bordering on the Colony line are apparently a pain in the neck even today. Like you, I wouldn't be suprised to learn Short property straddled the line.

Yes, very possibly John and Benoni could have served from both CT and RI. Interesting that Asa served in RI and MA, but not CT. Also interesting he isn't shown on the 1777 RI mil census.

I looked up Dower Rights and it read an interest in all personal and real property, however, I wonder what the Dower Rights entailed in colonial times, as I think Asa sold some property without Olive's release on the deed you sent me in which Asa sold John 20 acres. I found this deed interesting in that it states that Asa bought the property from Samuel. We have no deed with Samuel selling the property to Asa, and I think if you saw one you would have copied it. Because their wasn't a release from a wife on all the deeds I wondered if perhaps the dower rights only pertained to the main property.

I'm not going to go into the deeds right now. Every time I do I spend hours on them and I just don't have the time at present. I feel like I am swimming upstream against the current at present between trying to keep up with genealogy, the yard, and the house and losing the battle.

I agree with you that probably the mortgages were to obtain cash to pay taxes. In one of the Glocester Town Minutes there was a discussion about a tax collector who was so demanding that people were selling their land at a loss to pay their taxes which bothered them.

Okay, lets go back to Henry Short. The reason I don't like it is: He was too young. He married in 1729, so his sons (providing they were his first born and daughters kind of proliferated in later families) would not have been born before 1730. Husbands usually older than their first wife and Zerviah b. Jul 1729, so if John the older seems as though he would have been b ca 1727 and brother, Samuel, ca 1728 or vice versus. Samuel, b 1704, came from a family that was moderately well-to-do, the children were educated, and I am willing to bet they were active in civic affairs. Our Samuel probably came from less well-to-do people. He had to take a mortgage on the small property (48 acres) he bought. He never increased his land holdings. There is nothing in the records to indicate he played any active roles in the town affairs, nor did his children, He never recorded any VR, and he was probably illiterate, as I would bet John, Asa, and siblings were. I believe the reverse is true of Samuel, b 1704. My cousin, Melva, in PA advanced this theory some time ago - will enclose a copy of her conclusions, as well as some other less than helpful ino. The births of Samuel's (1704) children are recorded in Amesbury church records. I think it is going to take a lot of luck or some serendipity to ever discover the progenitors of our Samuel Short. I find it particularly annoying that we are unable to substantiate the parents of Samuel, 1762, and Amasa, 1772. That's a ten year gap, seems like there should be children in between - Zerviah, Benoni, Jonathan?????? I did send you copies of the Wills for the Newbury, MA, Shorts, didn't I?

Okay, lets go back to Henry Short. The reason I don't like it is: He was too young. He married in 1725, so his sons (providing they were his first born and daughters kind of got lost in later families) would not have been born before 1730. Husbands usually older than their first wife and Jervis b. Jul 1729, so if John the older seems as though he would have been b ca 1727 and brother, Samuel, ca 1728 or vice versa. Enclosing a copy of a portion of Cousin Melva's letter in which she advanced the same theory re: Samuel of Amesbury as you did, plus some othe trivia including the blurp on the early Westerly, RI, Short. Know that somewhere John (b 1790) bp was referred to as Westerly, and for that matter another referred to Stamford.

I can believe how long you worked on this letter to me. You can't began to guess how long I worked on my last letter to you with Cast of Characters and answers (or attempted answers) to all your questions. Everytime I tackle the deeds I spend hours to no avail. Are we masochists when it comes to our Shorts? Melva (PA cousin) reports that she is in contact with another lady interested in tracking down our Shorts. I find it suprising that there are so few Short researchers considering how many off spring there were in the 1800s.

If the Shorts pall, would you like to tackle my Hacketts? I haven't done anything with them. My gg grandfather was John Hackett and his wife Betsy McFarland. Their daughter, Thankful, marr my g grandfather Lovel Short. John Hackett, according to oral family history, accidently killed a man (Mosher?) in a fight. Fearing retribution he hid in in a swamp in Little Marsh, PA, and his wife, Betsy, brought him food before he fled to Canada to join his son/brother?, Ashley Hackett. Betsy Hackett marr second to John Short, b 1790, to Asa and Olive Short. His first wife d 1727, so assume the marr ca 1727/8. Cousin Melva's mother attached Betsy McFarland Hackett to an illustrious McFarland line from MA. Unfortunately, the Betsy from this line was alive and well with her documented husband on the 1850 census. The Hackett line is elusive as the Short. I believe the basic problem is that these people were just not well-to-do enough to leave any record of their passing. I don't even have a census for John Hackett. Unfortunately, Betsy and dau, Thankful d in 1858 in one of the epidemics so frequent in early times. PA enacted legislation requiring VR be kept in courthouses in 1850, however, courthouses kept records for varying lengths of time and then stopped. At any rate it is interesting that by the marr of Betsy to John Hackett and her dau, Thankful, to his brother Lovel they were not only mother and daughter, but sisters-in-law. I think in early times that the people didn't bother with divorce before remarrying.

On that cheery note will end this lengthy epistle.

Cheers,
Helen

What did you think re: my theory that QC's by Samuel & Zerviah awaiting her majority?

Thanks for the great photo of you two.

NOTE: I checked the genealogy record in in Judge Samuel Sewall's Diary and believe it to be almost certain that the Samuel referred to in this will to be none other than the good judge himself, who married Hannah Hull, daughter of John Hull of Boston. Hannah d. 19 October, 1717; Judge Sewall died 1 January, 1730. He was a brother of Anne Sewall Longfellow Short; another brother, Stephen Sewall was named the guardian for four of Anne's (SHORT) minor children including Samuel. The executor for this estate was a Benedict Arnold.

Vol. 17 Cemetery Inscriptions in Burrillville and Glocestor Cemeteries (as collected by James Arnold and on file at the Knight Memorial Library in Providence). Found no Short's but note was made of alot of un-named graves with field stones.

* Unfortunately no James in our early lines.

From Cousin Melva

I wish that I had some system of keeping track of what I've sent to other folks-- you already may have this, bu this is mainly what I have on the Callum family(the Haverhill vital records give Kilham, Callim, Kellom, Killum as alternative spellings):
Town Clerk at Salem. Mass., verified the marriage of Samuel Short and Mercy Callum in Salem on 9-18-1719 but said there was no record there of the births of any of their children.

According to Deed Book 6 page 4, Glocester, Providence Co., R.I. a Callum owned land in that county in 1755.

From Haverhill, Mass. Vital Records (for Callum;I have sent back for the K's) Deaths:John Callum,husband of Elizabeth) d. 2-25-1693-4. Marriages: Hannah Callim and Cornelius Mansise int. 3-24-1792; Callum: Joanna and John Webster,2nd m., 3-2- 1731-32.; John, and wid. Eliz(abeth) Gutterson, 11-17-1670. Births: Joanna Callum, d. of John and Eliz(abeth), 5-3-1672; ----------, child of Joanna, "wh she charged upon A.H.,"8-14-1689.

Vol. 6 Pg. 203 Records of the Oaths of Freemen, Allegiance in old Norfolk Co., now at Salem: Haverhill, 11-28-1677, John Callum. This is also listed in Savage.

Vol. 77 Pg. 38: At Salem,Mass, Mary Gavet, baptized 11-20-1720, married on 1-24-1747 David Callum b. 12-15-1700, son of John and Elizabeth (Beans) Callum.

Vol. 123 Pg.149: Vital Records of York, Maine. Albion Ramsdell of York , Maine aged 22, m.(1) Annie Harris age 18, born Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, daughter of George and Elizabeth Callum(her first marriage) on 2-20 -1881 in York, Maine.

I got a run down on Charles Short, President of Kenyon College; Dave found him on the Internet, and I had written to Harvard. He was born in Haverhill in 1821 and is a descendant of Joseph b. 1702. If you'd like it, I can send it to you. Why is it we find all these other folks' pedigrees but not our own? G-r-r- !
I had some welcome company on Saturday afternoon;my dear sister Ila and her son Tony, who is now living in Williamsport. I had written to Tony to ask him to check at the Court House there for any deeds to Asa Short that might have been recorded in Lycoming County's Tioga Twp. before it became a county in 1804. (Remember, Asa is assessed for 100 acres in 1812 ?) . He said there wasn't a sign of a Short there, but that there were no deeds at all recorded for Tioga Township, Lycoming Co. from 1795 on, and he said the girl that helped him check it was mystified as to why there would be this gap. My guess is that an old book is lying around somewhere at the Tioga County Court House, or maybe (Tony thinks maybe,)the deeds were made up in Conn. and recorded there?) When I get to Wellsboro again, I"m going to check for any deeds recorded for some of the other people who were assessed for 100 acres at that time (1812)--there were several.

Ila is well

Is this Sampson Short's sister's husband? No! Interestingly, one of my college roommate's mother was one of those Close's. Ernest Close's History of the Close family (Newbury) was also in the file – it has no dates, just names but still pretty impressive.

Looked for Mead, but no file.

* This is where erroneous linkage to Newbury, MA, Shorts originated,— from Wm Button's gen in the 1960's. Have a letter from him stating "some surmise" on Samuel. He attached our line to the 3d Samuel b ca 1699— that is a more probable birthdate for our Sam than 1704 which seems late to me.

Calaman will graduate with a 3.3 grade-point average, despite a heart condition that forced her into brief hospital visits twice while getting her degree.

A Sabinsville native, Calaman skipped the first- and second-grades and entered school in the third-grade. She graduated from high school in Westfield at the age of 16.

After earning her bachelor's degree in education in 1939, she moved to Harrisburg to work for the state civil service. Before her retirement in 1979, Calaman advanced to the position of supervisor of the employment counseling section of the Harrisburg office of the Bureau of Employment Security.

At the age of 27, she married John Calaman, who died after the couple were wed 20 years. The couple had four children. In 1966 Calaman earned a master's degree in education from Shippensburg University.

Music has always been an important part of Calaman's life. She took private piano lessons as a child and as a college student while earning her first degree. For years she has given piano lessons. She also has played the organ for several churches.

"I feel sort of satisfied that I really sort of legitimized it all by getting a degree. I never realized how much I didn't know about music," she said.

believe him, our..

Should be good for a little while yet. When it dies (if it goes first), think I'll get a bicycle!

Isn't it fun to get these old wills and deeds? What do supposed happened with Henry Jr's son Henry? I have sent for vital records of Newburyport which at that time appeared to have its own records (now it and Newbury share the same Zip Code.) I'd be surprised if he had a son Samuel since Samuel seems to have been part of the Sewall heritage, but who knows? – Have you ever thought about Samuel of Amesbury (d. 1754) as possibly having been the same person as our Samuel of Killingly and Glocester? When you check the dates of the meager information we have on pedigree – he lists sister Annis' Chil Longfellow & Short. He does not show though he would have known,

Samuel of Glocester it seems entirely possible that he could have married Mercy Callum in 1719, gone to Killingly to stay with relatives (whom?) without buying property, had a couple of Children (or maybe just John, since there's no documentation as to just who Benoni was), that Mercy died prior to 1729 when he married Mary Ring and had Mehitabel 1730 (a Sewall name) and Samuel b. 1734. I've noticed that the same births deaths and marriages some times show up in two or three different places (am I right?); if so, Samuel and Mary could have been living in Conn, at the time Samuel & Mehitabel were born in 1730 & 1734, We don't know how long they had been living in Amesbury when he died in 1754 - maybe check of deeds there would show? He was a freeman in Glocester in 1750 and I think that's the last we know of him in Glocester - no death record, - I've been trying to find a copy of the deed (from the ones you sent for and assembled) from Samuel and Mary Short to John Short (the homestead of 48½ acres) Book 3, pg. 523-4 but can't locate it, I'm wondering if the date written could have been 1734 instead of 1759? - Not much to go on, but maybe it's worth thinking about.

Strange weather every where! We had March-like blustery winds and four inches of ~~sto~~ snow yesterday, but it's above freezing and sunshiny now. Seems so good to know that Spring is Certainly in the offing.

I do appreciate the stamps that you've been putting on your letters and am saving them all (the whole envelope) for some future stamp gatherer,

Will close for now am going to Westfield for some Groceries.

Love,

substance, as it serves to form the basis of glass, which is composed of this mineral melted with an alkali and oxide of lead. In plate glass it is united with potash of lime.

On the old road leading to Thompson, in the westerly part of the town, is a ledge of rocks, where one part turns around so decidedly as to get the name of "Elbow Rock." From the road the ledge is so slanting that it is easily ascended to the highest point. The back side is nearly precipitous many feet. On the ground far below are two large rocks having the form of coffins.

On the so-called Eber Phetteplace farm, now owned by Mr. Benoni Lewis, is a very large balance rock, barrel-shaped, weighing many tons. It is situated on the slanting side of a small ledge of rocks, the bottom of this rock touching on the ledge only in a few places. To the first look it would seem that a slight wind would make it roll down. Several years since, Mr. Phetteplace took some half-dozen of his workmen, with iron bars and wedges, to try to roll down the large rock. At first the task looked an easy one, but after hours of all the skill and strength they were able to use, no change could be made. There the rock still remains, and is spoken of by persons who have visited the notable rock on the east shore of Lake Memphremagog, as about an equal curiosity.

After spending some time in looking around for the most comfortable place to build a log house for his home, he selected a place near where the house of the late Urania Smith stood. The above votes were carefully sealed up and directed to the General Assembly, to meet by adjournment at East Greenwich, there to be opened and the opinion of the people of this town made known in regard to the adoption of the new constitution of the United States.

Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1789, was appointed as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer throughout this State, by Gov. Greene, and from that time until the present there has been but one omission of the above appointment by the Governor or Deputy.

Gov. Daniel Owen was one of the State's committe to draft a letter to the President of Congress stating the rejection of the constitution by this State.

Freemen from this town who voted in favor of the new Rhode Island constitution:

Benjamin Wilkinson, Jonathan Harris, Eleazer Harris, William Ross, Stephen Blackmar, Simon Smith, Thomas Owen, David Richmond, Jesse Brown, William Steere.

Ten voted for the constitution, and 227 against it.

The political affairs at this time called very decidedly for immediate active exertions of our freemen. A convention was called to meet at East Greenwich, in February, 1790, to again discuss the merits of adopting the new constitution, Hon. Daniel Owen and Stephen Steere, Esq., representing this town. An adjournment of the above meeting met at Newport the following May. Hon. Daniel Owen was chosen president of the convention. After much discussion and some amendments were made, the constitution was adopted May 29, 1790. With this act the existence of Rhode Island as a sovereign State ceased.

The convention at its close presented their thanks to President Owen for the candor and impartiality with which he had discharged the office.

The following letter was written by the Hon. Daniel Owen, president of the State Convention that adopted the constitution, to the President of the United States:

NEWPORT, May 29, 1790.

HONORED SIR:—I have the pleasing satisfaction of informing Your Excellency that the constitution of the United States of America was this day ratified and adopted by the convention of the people of this State, agreeably to the recommendation of the General Convention assembled at Philadelphia and the consequent resolution of Congress thereon.

The lower House of the General Assembly of this State, at their session the former part of this month, passed a resolution requesting His Excellency, the Governor, in case the constitution should be adopted by the convention, to call the Assembly together, by warrant, as soon after the adoption as might be, for the special purpose of electing Senators and taking measures for a representation of the people of this State in Congress. I can, therefore, assure Your Exellency that in the course of a few days, not to exceed sixteen, the Legislature will be assembled, either by special warrant or pursuant to their adjournment, on the second Monday in June, when, I have not the least doubt, the Senators will be immediately appointed and the State represented in Congress agreeably to the constitution, as soon as the elections can be accomplished.

The ratification of the constitution will be made out and forwarded by the way of the post office with all possible expedition.

Col. William Barton, who is a member of the convention, will have the honor of delivering this letter.

With the highest sentiments of esteem and respect, I have the honor to be

Your Excellency's most obedient servant,

DANIEL OWEN, President.

To the President of the United States.

There was still a great love for England and some had the hope that the Articles of Confederation might be revised in some way so as still to be under the protection of the mother country.

About this time a tax of 301 pounds 10 shillings and 7 pence, lawful money, was assessed on this town to be paid into the general treasury.

Slave trade in 1774 was disapproved of by the government. Still some persons bought and sold the African slave until forbidden by law in 1787.

The following advertisement was taken from the Providence Gazette, October 18, 1777:

"Run away from John Fenner, of Glocester, a negro man named Yockwhy, about 28 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches high, marked on both cheeks; had on and took with him a light cloth-colored homespun coat, with wooden buttons, breeches of the same color, blue serge jacket, pair of good leather breeches, a fine Holland shirt, a fine tow shirt, a new pair of thread

the smallest; a few of the 480 species of the humming bird, hawks, woodpeckers, warblers, the white-winged cressbill, wax wing and cedar bird, sparrows, bluejay, kingfisher, robins, woodcocks, partridges, quails, shelldrake, red-breasted merganzer, auks, snipes, red-winged cressbills and owls.

BOTANY.

Much wood is yet burnt for fuel. Coal is used more in the villages. Lombardy poplars, chestnuts, several kinds of oak, maple, ash, willows, walnut, birch, cedar, pines and hemlock; many fruit trees, and bushes bearing berries; high and low laurel, wild cherry, swamp cheese bushes, juniper, witch-hazel, butternut; many medicinal plants and wild flowers; sumach, sweetbrier, dogwood, wild roses, rhododendron or rose tree, a shrub or small tree with evergreen leaves and large brilliant flowers.

In the herbarium of the late Riley Phetteplace, about three hundred of the different species of plants classed were collected in his father's garden and on his farm of about three hundred acres. The old, large and beautiful elm in the house-yard of the above farm was finally split in the centre, though much was done to save it; it is now gone. The late Doctor Usher Parsons called it the largest and finest tree in the State.

GEOLOGY.

From Jackson's geological survey of the town, some years since, we learn that about two miles west from Chepachet, near the turnpike, there is a variety of compact, thick-bedded gneiss quarried, and is known as "Pine Orchard grit." Eastward from this place is a large bed of black mica, associated with a little granulas quartz. It is on the roadside. The road is cut through a granite vein. The rocks are of a primary class, consisting of gneiss, mica slate and granite.

Quartz is found in various forms in this town, and it is capable of being used in different ways. It is a very valuable substance, as it serves to form the basis of glass, which is composed of this mineral melted with an alkali and oxide of lead. In plate glass it is united with potash of lime.

On the old road leading to Thompson, in the westerly part of the town, is a ledge of rocks, where one part turns around so decidedly as to get the name of "Elbow Rock." From the road the ledge is so slanting that it is easily ascended to the highest point. The back side is nearly precipitous many feet. On the ground far below are two large rocks having the form of coffins.

On the so-called Eber Phetteplace farm, now owned by Mr. Benoni Lewis, is a very large balance rock, barrel-shaped, weighing many tons. It is situated on the slanting side of a small ledge of rocks, the bottom of this rock touching on the ledge only in a few places. To the first look it would seem that a slight wind would make it roll down. Several years since, Mr. Phetteplace took some half-dozen of his workmen, with iron bars and wedges, to try to roll down the large rock. At first the task looked an easy one, but after hours of all the skill and strength they were able to use, no change could be made. There the rock still remains, and is spoken of by persons who have visited the notable rock on the east shore of Lake Memphremagog, as about an equal curiosity.

caused it; so in case of good fortune, the Great Spirit was the author. They never asked their deity for anything, but returned thanks for favors received, saying that he is the best judge of what is best for them. It was against the law of the colony to sell liquor to the Indians, but this law was broken.

In a very few years many persons seeking a new home joined the Williams colony and purchased what they called home lots. The government of Providence was at first purely democratic, but laws were soon found necessary to govern the colony. A general meeting was called, and a committee of five were chosen, called "disposers," who were invested with the partial control of affairs. The inhabitants later saw and felt the necessity of a patent from their mother country to secure to them a better title to their lands, and protection in case they were attacked by the Indians. Protection was asked from England and granted. The first patent for Providence was written in 1644, in which Robert Earle, of Warwick, England, was made "Governor-in-Chief and Lord High Admiral of this Plantation," a distinct sovereignty under the protection of the English government. The charter acknowledged the Indian title of the colony, and that the land was purchased of them and confirmed to them by the Crown of England. The "Freeman's Oath" was the first paper printed in New England. It was printed at Cambridge, Mass. It certified that before any member of the colony could exercise the right of suffrage or hold any public office he must be made what is called a freeman by the General Quarterly Court, or Assembly; he was to show evidence that he was a respectable man, and take the oath of affirmation required by the law of the colony against bribery and corruption in the election of officers.

In 1647 there was an organization of the colony under the Parliamentary patent, and a charter granted by Charles Second, King of Great Britain. The first seal adopted was a sheaf of arrows bound up with the motto "Amor vincit omnia" engraved upon a leash.

July 8, 1663, the royal charter was obtained—its symbol an anchor, and its motto "Hope." In this year the colony received from Charles the Second, King of Great Britain, a charter which, up to November, 1842, was the written law of this State. The government was at first colonial, then under the charter, and finally under the constitution.

When the town of Providence was incorporated (1649), the committee chosen by the General Assembly under the charter were Gregory Dexter, William Wickenden, Thomas Olney, Robert Williams, Richard Waterman, Roger Williams, William Field, John Green, John Smith and John Lippitt. Years before the town of Glocester was set off from Providence, home settlements were made here; sheep and herds of cattle were sent here to graze, with shepherds and herds men to take care of them. For several years the Indian pathway or trail served the white settlers as thoroughfares to drive their cattle, and to transport their families and household goods to the places where they were to build their log houses. These emigrants going forth to live in these wild lands, often took possession of many acres for each family. The man of means could pay for his lands and for having them cleared. Others with their own hands must use the axe to fell the trees and build their humble dwellings, often encountering wild animals and the cruelty of Indians. Many of the Indians did not understand why their lands were taken from them.

To go forth into the woods where dangerous wild animals lived required men of enterprise and courage. Most of the early settlers of Providence were from England, some unused to hardship, others staunch yeomanry, farmers, merchants, mechanics, blacksmiths, fearing God, honest and independent, and if right and reason were followed, a race would be produced far better than one descended from pensioned lords. Some of the settlers were discouraged and returned to their homes in England; others returned and brought their families, with their household goods, and sought a home in the wilderness, where for some time their humble dwell-caused it; so in case of good fortune, the Great Spirit was the author. They never asked the deity for anything; they returned thanks for favors received, saying that he is the best judge of what is best for them. It was against the law of the colony to sell liquor to the Indians, but this law was broken.

Years before the town of Glocester was set off from Providence, home settlements were made here; sheep and herds of cattle were sent here to graze, with shepherds and herdsmen to take care of them. Many of the Indians did not understand why their lands were taken from them.

To go forth into the woods where the savage and wild animals lived required more of enterprise and courage. Many of the early settlers of Providence were from England—not accustomed to hardships, strict Methodist economy, farmers, merchants, mechanics, blacksmiths, [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible], etc. If right and reason were followed, a race would be produced far better than one descended from pampered lords. Some of the settlers were discouraged and returned to their homes in England; others remained and brought their families, with their household goods, and sought a home in the wilderness, where for some time they battled with ings had to be guarded from the barbarous Indian and wild beasts. Many bullets made by the Indians have later been found in the centre of large trees.

John Smith, from Providence, early settled in the northern part of Glocester, and many of his descendants are owners of home estates in that vicinity. Edward Salsbury early purchased land and built a house; he was a soldier in the French war. The Williamses, Tourtellotts, Eddys, Watermans, Evanses, and others, were pioneers and held landed estates. There were many families settled here before the town of Glocester was set off from the county of Providence; generally very respectable citizens, some of them with their silver-topped canes and silver shoe and knee buckles. In many cases there was wealth enough for general comfort; life was frugal, limited to modern ways. They had no daily or weekly newspaper;* the news was communicated from neighbor to neighbor, though in many cases they lived a long way from each other; carpets were rare; the white maple floors for the summer were very cool; they had braided and husked rugs; after awhile the parlor floor in some houses was marble-painted; the kitchen floor, after breakfast, swept and sanded to take the dust from the shoes of the workmen. Families of similar tastes would sometimes meet for social intercourse. In quite early times the expense and trouble to get spoons sufficient for family uses to eat their Indian meal pudding and milk, and other uses, was very great. In this dilemma they were relieved by the family getting a spoon mould, melting the pewter and lead white hot, turning it into the mould, and when cold the mould was opened and a good spoon taken out. Candles for a long time were run in candle moulds—also candles were dipped in a large kettle of hot tallow by having several candle-wicks strung on a stick; these wicks were dipped in the tallow, then hung on a rod to cool; then dipped again, and the dipping kept up until the candles were large enough.

*The first newspaper in the State was published in the year 1732, by James Franklin, in Newport.

"Necessity is the mother of invention." When candles could not be obtained, pitch knots were burned in the fire-place to light up the dwellings.

Until saw-mills were set up, most of the dwellings were made of logs. The early frame houses were generally built one story, with small windows, sometimes gambrel-roofed; others two stories in front, the roof slanting back so far down as to have but one story on the back side. Early in the eighteenth century there were many large two-story framed houses built in different parts of this land by well-to-do families. In these houses there were generally two rooms in front, with a door and entry between them; two rooms back; a large chimney in the centre, the chimney often serving for the smoke and draft for five fire-places. The kitchen fire-place, with strong, large, iron andirons, held a large quantity of wood. Children could sit in the corners of some of the fire-places, look up the chimney and count the stars. Some of the houses were painted red, a few were painted white, and many not painted at all.

In 1716 there was a great snow storm; it snowed one day and one night, with a very high wind; the snow was knee-deep; the drifts were ten and twelve feet high.

The pioneers learned of the Indians to make succotash by boiling corn and beans together. They also learned how to bake cakes made of Indian meal and water on hot stones under the ashes. These were cooked so as to make agreeable and wholesome food. The meal at first was made by cracking the corn as fine as might be by pounding it on a hollow stone, a kind of mortar hammered on the top of a rock, with a small stone for a pounder. For Sunday mornings, pork baked with beans made a good breakfast. Boiled Indian pudding, with a little salt, if they could get it, was another favorite dish, sometimes with milk, sometimes with maple syrup, and sometimes without anything. Bean porridge was a dish much liked for breakfast. For meats, there were many kinds—wild game in abundance and fish in the ponds. Household industry in the manufacture of wool and flax for clothing was very decided. The feathers of geese and birds were carefully preserved to make warm beds for the cold winter nights.

On the 25th of August, 1727, George Second was proclaimed King of Great Britain. The proclamation was read from a balcony in the second story on the west end of the Manufacturers' Hotel, Market square, Providence, now taken down. The proclamation when George Third was created King of Great Britain was read there in 1760; also the Declaration of Independence, July 5, 1776.

The town of Providence petitioned the Legislature in February, 1731, for a division of the town. The petition was received and granted. Three new towns were made and called by the names of Smithfield, Scituate and Glocester. They were incorporated out of the lands in the western part of the town of Providence. Glocester was set off about eleven miles square in the northwestern part of the State.

The committee appointed to examine and report in regard to the necessity of a division of the town of Providence were Mr. Samuel Clarke, Mr. Francis Willet and Mr. William Robinson. The land had been surveyed and boundaries settled by the county surveyors. It has been handed down that the name Glocester* was first suggested by some English residents from Glocester, England, already freemen, living within the limits of the new town; also in honor of the Duke of Glocester, Frederic Lewis, son of King George Second. This town was formerly spelled Gloucester. The first settlers had been trained under the laws acknowledged by Roger Williams and his associates.

An act was passed by the General Assembly giving power to ordained elders of every society and denomination of Christians to join persons together in marriage.

*Glocester, a city in the southern part of England, capital of the county of the same name, on the Severn, thirty miles from its junction with the Bristol channel, is a fine city. It is the See of a Bishop, and returns two members to Parliament; contains a cathedral built in 1047, one of the finest in England; has a square tower 223 feet high; contains the tomb of Edward Second, and Robert, Duke of Normandy.

A town meeting was called March 16, 1731, to organize the town of Glocester, including the territory of the present town of Burrillville (which was taken from the town in 1806). Elisha Knowlton was chosen moderator, and also clerk; Zachariah Eddy was chosen town sergeant; Capt. John Smith, town treasurer; Zachariah Eddy, Jr., John Barnes, John Inman, Obadiah Jencks, Solomon Smith and Zebedee Hopkins were chosen town councilmen; Elisha Knowlton and Walter Phetteplace were chosen assistant deputy governors to the General Assembly. The deputy governors and assistants were the judges of the highest judicial courts of the State until 1747, when chief justices were appointed.

When the town was incorporated it contained 2,504 inhabitants. Permanent settlements were made about 1700. Major William Smith, Capt. Richard Waterman and Lieut. Elisha Knowlton were surveyors appointed by the Assembly to decide the boundary lines of the town.

The town had the same privileges as the other towns in the State, to choose their own officers, to send deputies to the General Assembly, to send one grand and one petit juror to the superior courts, to control their proportion of the interest of the bank money appropriated for the use of the towns of the colony according to the sums that the land lying in the town was mortgaged for, and what money the town treasurer of Providence had advanced for the land before the division was made, be repaid out of the whole interest money. Before the division, to defray the expenses of surveys and laying out of roads, money paid for portions of this land had to be mortgaged to meet payments.

Gov. Ward says, in 1741, "that the colony of Rhode Island first purchased, then settled, and hath at all times depended on its inhabitants at their own proper costs and charges as well against natives in former times as against foreign enemies in later times." Great sacrifices were made by the town to assist the mother country in her foreign wars from 1710 to 1740. It was necessary to keep some vessels of force cruising on the coast of New England for the safety of trade.

LAND ADVERTISED TO BE SOLD IN THE WESTERN PART OF GLOCESTER.

Colonel Resolved Waterman's estate, of Smithfield, deceased. Apply to John Waterman, of Providence, or John Smith, of Smithfield.

The valuation of property in this town in the year 1777, as was estimated by the assessors of taxes, was about $360,000. The town had to be often looked over to see what persons were able-bodied, as there was constant need of fresh supplies of soldiers while the British warships were in our waters. During the recess of the General Assembly, members of the council of war had power to act in military matters. Bills of credit had often to be issued to aid in supporting the soldiers, etc. As the enemy's warships were in Rhode Island waters, all the available militia of every town had to be ready at this time to be called forth, which greatly prevented carrying on necessary husbandry, and many other things. The women in this town not only had their families and farms in many cases to care for, but to spin wool into yarn, to weave blankets, and knit stockings for the soldiers. The women, as a rule, were very frugal in the necessaries of life, especially in beef and grain. Taxes were very much increased. This year was a very trying one for this town, there were so many calls for men, provisions and blankets. Daniel Owen and Andrew Brown were the committee of safety from this town. In May, sixty-eight men were called for from Glocester as her proportion to fill up the State brigade to be raised for fifteen months. Six pounds bounty was given for non-commissioned officers and privates, but for a part of their bounty their clothing was allowed if they were willing to receive it in this way; also ten barrels of beef, twenty pairs of good woolen stockings, and over three hundred weight of iron. Asa Kimball was appointed to procure the blankets.

Elijah Armstrong was Ensign in Captain Allen's company. In one company in the brigade, John Eddy was Captain; Stephen Olney, Lieutenant; John Bowen, Ensign, taken from the first company of militia in this town. Capt. Asa Kimball and Nathaniel Blackmar were appointed recruiting officers for the town to raise men to fill up the aforesaid battalion in the State. Mr. Kimball was also appointed to open subscription in Glocester for the Continental Loan office. Yarn stockings to be furnished in October, forty pairs; and in December, eighty pairs; making one busy year for the women of the town, while the men wearied in their watching, marching and counter-marching, but buoyant with hope that they soon should be free to aid in making their own laws.

In 1777, in consequence of the British having possession of the island of Rhode Island, many of the inhabitants left the island, some going to distant parts not to return, while many came to the mainland and had to be supported for the then present time in the towns where they were scattered.

The same year Col. Chad Brown, of Glocester, was chosen field officer for the State from the county of Providence, and John Colwell, Jr., Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel of the third regiment of militia in the county of Providence. At the same time, in council, was read and approved the return of the officers chosen to command the company of Light Infantry in this town, viz.: Timothy Wilmarth, Jr., Captain; David Richmond, First Lieutenant; Martin Smith, Second Lieutenant; Caleb Sheldon, Ensign.

December 18, 1777, was a national day of thanksgiving and praise. In one place of prayer in this town Rev. Joseph Winsor presided.

Prices of labor, wares and merchandise were regulated by law. Farming labor in the summer for men was not to exceed three shillings and sixpence per day, other seasons of the year in the usual proportions; mechanics and tradesmen about the same as heretofore; good wheat not to exceed seven shillings and sixpence per bushel; rye, four shillings and sixpence per bushel; corn, three shillings and four pence per bushel; wool, two shillings per pounds. The best grass-fed beef, three pence per pound, and so on. The prices of most articles for food and raiment for the people were also fixed by law.

July 5, 1776, Congress adopted a Declaration of Independence. The Rhode Island Assembly being in session, approved the resolution. Mr. Richard Steere and Col. Chad Brown were appointed deputies from this town.

The colonial period closed May 4, 1776. Rhode Island was the last of the thirteen original States that adopted the constitution, which she did, May 29, 1790, by a majority of two votes.

All persons able to bear arms, from 16 to 60 years of age, were expected to join regiments, unless for good reasons excused.

Members of the Society of Friends were exempt from enlisting in any company by producing a certificate from the clerk of the Monthly Meeting, to the commanding officer within the district in which they lived. This year the test oath was administered to all persons suspected as Tories.

In May, 1778, forty-six men were to be furnished for the army, and 120 pairs of yarn stockings. The June following, 34 soldiers were called for. Caleb Arnold was appointed to pay the bounties allowed by the State.

Ratable property as taken in the town by an appointed committee: Value of the town land, 181,389 pounds 7 shillings; slaves, from 10 to 50 years old, 5 pounds; trading stock votes for the proposed constitution or against it. Notices of the above meeting were set up in the most public places, and to make it sure that all saw and understood it, the town sergeant and constables were required to go to the residences of all the freemen and freeholders in the town, and give in person the notice of the above meeting. If very stormy, the convention would adjourn from day to day. The convention was held and the vote stood: yeas, 9; nays, 228.

The above votes were carefully sealed up and directed to the General Assembly, to meet by adjournment at East Greenwich, there to be opened and the opinion of the people which is to be raised by the sale of the tickets, and that no expense be given to the State."

At the session of the General Assembly in January, 1790, "it was voted and resolved, that the Hon. Daniel Owen, Nathaniel Wade, Esq., and Mr. Seth Hunt, be appointed a committee to settle the account of Messrs. Stephen Winsor, Arnold Smith, Martin Smith and Jesse Smith, who were the directors of the said lottery for building a meeting house in Glocester, and that the expense thereof be defrayed by the said directors without any expense to the State."

The account was settled. Other lotteries were subsequently made.

VILLAGES.

Chepachet. The site of the village of Chepachet has been the centre of public business in this section since its first settlement. As the population increased, business in various departments was quite extensive for a small place. In 1813 there were in some dozen stores for groceries, dry goods and farming utensils, several clerks. Much business was done here from towns around, reaching into Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Two public houses were formerly kept here; now there is but one. A post office was established here in 1806; and on that day Amherst Kimball was appointed postmaster. The following persons succeeded Mr. Kimball: Cyrus Cooke; Horace Kimball in 1845; Job Armstrong in 1849; Horace Kimball in 1853; William Hawkins in 1861; Walter A. Read in 1866, and Robert H. Wade in 1885.

The village is pleasantly situated on both sides of Chepachet river, and is healthy. The climate is somewhat colder than in Providence. The large elms beautify the village.

In 1830 there was a great temperance movement; liquors in all the stores were given up, and much less cider was made. A large temperance society was formed which exerted a healthful influence on many persons.

There were great turnouts when shows of wild animals were brought to the village. In 1825 a fine, large elephant was brought here, and room for a canvas tent on the ground of the Central Hotel was hired to show the animal. When the owners were leaving at twelve o'clock at night, and passing the bridge in the village, the contents of an unerring rifle entered the brain of the poor elephant. He fell and died. The perpetrators of this fearful deed were afterwards taken, tried and damages assessed.

The village of Clarkville is in the northwest corner of the town. A tannery was here in the early part of the present century, and was continued for many years; also a saw-mill. In 1818, Arnold Brothers put up a building to manufacture cotton yarn. The mill has several times been burnt and rebuilt and run as a shoddy mill. For several years it was in the hands of Horatio Darling, but now T. R. White & Co. run the mill.

West Glocester is a small village near Clarkville. This is a manufacturing place for carpet warp and heavy woollen goods, conducted by the firm of Hawkins & Houghton. A post office was established here in 1862, with Mr. Keach as postmaster.

Williamsville is about two miles south of Clarkville. It has a few houses and a grist-mill of long standing.

Harmony is in the eastern part of the town. It has about 200 inhabitants. The village has two stores, several mechanical shops, and a post office. Mr. Randall is postmaster. There is also a hotel here.

Spring Grove is a village of several houses about a mile east of Chepachet. Here Smith Mowry and his two sons, Scott W. and Brown, about 1836, purchased the Spring Grove mill and successfully carried on the manufacturing of cotton goods for about sixteen years. This mill then passed into several hands, until in 1868 it was purchased by T. R. White & Co. to manufacture shoddy goods.

HILLS.

The range of hills in the western part of the town extend to the Green Mountains in Vermont, and the views from the tops of some of them are grand. These hills were early known as the great rendezvous for deer; also rabbits, squirrels and sparrows; consequently venison and other kinds of game were abundant. The deer and the bucks fled from the hunters to the hill-tops, hence the name "Buck Hill." In 1728 a law was made to protect the deer. The deer chase seemed English and homelike to some of the settlers, but to kill a deer in certain portions of the year was punishable with a heavy fine.

Here a band of counterfeiters found a very secluded cave, where they counterfeited the Spanish milled dollars in 1786. They made them of two kinds; one was plated, the other mixed. Many persons were found implicated in several towns, and some out of the State. After it was discovered, a settlement was made with the town and State. The penalty was very severe when actual proof of the counterfeiters could be proved.

"Cooper's Den" is quite a curiosity, and for the early settlers it was a good hiding-place. Absolona hill is about two and a half miles east of Chepachet. Matony hills run southeast by east some miles, and the turnpike crosses these hills near the south end of the range, about three miles southeast of Chepachet village. Swamicut valley is west of Matony hills, running north and south. The town is hilly and rocky.

From the top of Winsor's hill, Wachusett mountain, in Princeton, Mass., is seen in a clear day. The mountain is 3,000 feet high.

Pine hill is in the southwestern part of the town. From the Sayles Brown hill, on the great road that formerly led from Chepachet to Killingly, are fine views. Pine Orchard hill, and some others, are very suitable sites for dwelling-houses.

RIVERS AND PONDS.

Chepachet* river rises in the western part of the town, on the farm of the late Judge Richard Steere. It is a durable stream for manufacturing, and has been long used for various mills. The river runs through Mill pond, where there is a saw-mill and various kinds of excellent fish for cooking; then, in about three-fourths of a mile, it passes through Keech pond, the largest natural division of water in the town. The river, after having run some miles, passing through the village of Chepachet, unites with Clear river and forms Branch river which flows into the Blackstone.

Suker stream runs into the Chepachet river northeast of the village. Early iron ore was obtained from Sea Patch river in this town for a forge in Woonsocket.

Ponaganset pond is near Pine hill, in the southwestern part of the town. This pond has had great attractions in the summer for its pond lilies. Ponaganset river flows from this pond and unites with the Moswansicut river to form the north branch of the Pawtuxet river.

Poquanatuck river flows from Ponaganset pond. Place reservoir is in the northwestern part of the town. Part of Killingly pond is in the southwestern part of the town. There are many small streams and brooks. The rivers and ponds have been of great use to the town.

In the Keech and Saw-mill ponds formerly there were more fish than at present. There were many pouts, shiners, eels, pickerels, perch, etc.

Waterman reservoir and the Smith and Sayles reservoirs are preserved for manufacturing purposes.

made a body corporate to hold property, to buy and sell not to exceed ten thousand dollars.

The Ponagansett Reservoir Company was incorporated in 1856 by a number of mill owners as an outlet for occasions of Ponagansett pond.

The Society of Domestic Industry was formed in 1820, and for the first few years held their annual meetings at Pawtuxet. A number of persons from this town were interested in the society and patronized its yearly exhibitions. Jesse Tourtellott and Chad Brown were among the members of the standing committee from this town.

GRAVEYARDS.

Families at first lived some distance from each other, and the death of one of their number was deeply lamented. To have their remains deposited near by was a comfort in sorrow. The pleasantest spot of land near their home was the consecrated place for the dead. Later, families connected would join in a burial place. Not always were even rude stones put up to mark the last resting place. It is well known that the Quakers did not erect gravestones.

There are a great many small burying grounds scattered over the town. Some have been kept in good repair, so that the places of deposit of mortal remains are less forbidding. The following are among them: The Armstrongs, Browns, Irons, Sweets, Tourtellotts, Winsors, Wades, Potters, Steeres, Aldrichs and Waldrons. The Chepachet burying ground, north of the village, was consecrated about one hundred years since, and contains the remains of a large number of early settlers. Its care has been much neglected. Recently the Evans lot has been much improved. Some other owners of lots are intending soon to renovate theirs.

In early times the funerals of most of the families were so far from each other that they were great events. The people from all around were present. If a clergyman could not be present, some Christian brother would read a portion of Scripture and offer prayer. Sometimes it was the silent prayer of the Friends. When the way was rough to the graveyard, the dead had to be carried on the shoulder bier; if the way was long, rests were made and bearers changed.

The Chepachet Cemetery Association was formed in the year 1844, on the petition to the Assembly by John T. Fiske, Scott W. Mowry, Jervis J. Smith, Amasa Eddy, Otis Sayles, Brown Mowry and Frederick A. Squires to be incorporated. Said corporation has power to hold land not exceeding ten acres, to have a stock of $3,000, divided into three hundred shares at ten dollars per share, etc. The above cemetery is pleasantly laid out on Acote Hill, south of the village.

THE FRIENDS.

About 1643 there was a change of rulers in England. Episcopacy was abolished for a season, and Presbyterianism was established. There were many Dissenters, and among them was George Fox, the first public preacher of the so-called Quakers by their opponents. Fox took strong grounds against drunkenness, the vices of the times, the established mode of public religious worship, and rejected the sacrament; he gave his testimony against oaths, against salaried ministers of the gospel, against tithes, and some other religious requirements. Their numbers rapidly increased; they used the singular pronoun when addressing only one person, and refused to raise their hand to touch the hat when meeting persons of their own or higher standing.* Their society is governed by its own code of discipline. They are strong advocates of the Holy Scriptures; they believe in the resurrection of the just and the uujust. Great persecution followed the Independents throughout England, especially this

*A delegation of the Society of Friends called on Victoria, the Queen, soon after her coronation. They wore their broad-brimmed hats, which they never removed in honor of any person. But according to custom, on entering her presence their heads were uncovered by the "yeoman" of the guard, and as they were non-resistants, they submitted.

SOME FAMILY HISTORY.

Hacketts and Shorts Have Many Docendants in Tioga County.

Lovell Short, who died Jan. 8, 1886, was born Aug. 22, 1801. His father moved from Rhode Island in 1807 to Chatham township, Tioga county, Pa. Lovell Short married in 1830 Thankful Hackett, youngest child of John and Betsy MacFarland Hackett. She was born June 9, 1814; 12 children were born to them, eight living in 1835. Mr. Short moved upon the farm which he owned at his death, which was at that time nearly all a wilderness. Game was very plentiful and he killed eleven panthers during his hunting days.

One time riding a three-year-old colt through the woods near the Winthrop Beach place, a panther leaped upon his horse and inflicted a severe wound upon his hip and flank. Mr. Short was unarmed but by putting his horse to its utmost speed, he succeeded in reaching some log heaps which were burning. The fire light frightened the panther, and Mr. Short thus escaped. He kept that colt until it was 34 years old, when it died.

This panther had lost one of its feet, having been caught in a trap. This saved Mr. Short's life. Mr. Short tracked the panther many times but a thaw or snowstorm obliterated the tracks. Later the animal was killed in a trap on Pine creek by Mr. Furman, who was a great hunter. Mr. Short offered Mr. Furman $50 bounty which was paid by the State at that time. He also offered to buy the hide but Mr. Furman refused to sell it.

Lovell Short made his first payment on his land in bounties on wild animals, panthers, Lennox, wildcats and wolves.

During the years when deer were very plentiful he killed two deer at one shot nine times, making 18 deer with nine shots. At Kettle Creek, Clinton county, he trapped eleven muskrats and one mink and caught many a string of trout. Thus the old landmarks are passing away. Surviving him are 8 children. His wife Thankful died March 11, 1858.—Clipping from an 1886 issue of the Agitator.

asa – Lovell Short Sr., of Rhode Island removed to Chatham township Tioga county Pa., with his wife Olive Short, and their son, Lovell Short, Jr. He was born Aug. 22 1801, died Jan. 8, 1886, He married Thankful Hackett, born June 9, 1814, daughter of John Hackett and his wife, Elizabeth, usually called Betsy MacFarland Hackett.

Betsy MacFarland was born in Worcester, Mass., and died at Shortsville Tioga county, Pa., Sept. 30, 1858 aged 73 years. She was a daughter of James MacFarland who served as town officer in Worcester, Mass., for 43 years served also at the time of the Revolution. His descendants therefore are eligible to join the D. A. R. or the sons of the American Revolution on his record for patriotism.

His wife was Elizabeth Moon, born with her arm off at the elbow with only a thumb there and a little finger. Tradition says she was born on the ocean.

Lovell Short Jr. and his wife had 12 children, 8 living at the time of his death.

The aforesaid clipping was given me by Olive Short Burrell born Aug. 22, 1835, died Feb. 10, 1919 on the farm in Chatham township, Tioga county, Pa., where her grandmother on coming from Locke, Cayngo county, N. Y., was a pioneer settler which is still in the possession of his son, Wallace Burrell. Olive Short married Jas. Burrell. She cut the clipping from the Agitator and preserved it all these years. Lovell and Thankful Short were her parents. She gave me the clipping for my Edward Hackett decendants genealogy, which I have for years made a research of, and expect to have published.

My grandfather and Olive's grandmother were brother and sister. I have made research back to our Revolutionary ancesters, Edward Hackett, many of his children, were pioneer settlers when Tioga county was a wilderness. He has hundreds of decendants in Tioga county. Nearly every family in Tioga are married and intermarried in the branches.

The Hackets, Southworths, Ackleys, Booths, Chamberlains, Cummings, Hawleys, Niles, Shorts Leachs, Guiles, Burrells, Carpenters, Rices, some of the Roberts, all pioneer descendants from him and many others to numerious to mention. Many of these younger generation are not aware they decend from a soldier of the Revolution with such a fine war record. I have the lineages of the various branches, I have quoted above almost to the present generation, who they married and their children and many branches down to the present generation. I am a genealogist and have given many of their lineages and filled out their applications for membership to the D. A. R.

Then too there are many of his descendants of his daughter, Thankful Booth who married Seth Booth of Dartmouth, Mass., who resided in Potter county. Her sons, Seth Booth and Samuel settled in Harrison Valley and Sweeden Valley. The Kibble, Hamilton and Crittenton families descended through her daughter, Polly Pierce who settled in Ulysses. She married Alverious Pierce of Freetown, Mass. The Hacketts trace back their ancestry to Jabez Hackett, who removed from Lynn to Tannton, Mass., in 1644. William Hackett from Salisbury and Amsbury Mass., a famous ship builder is our ancestor. Letters from Congress authorizing him to build three vessels for the Revolution, are on file in the Hudson collection which is fireproof is in the 5th avenue and 42nd street Lennox Library in New York city. I saw them and saw his own signature in reply to the letters from Congress. He built the "America" which was commanded by John Paul Jones.

Betsy MacFarland married John Hackett. He went to Canada and died there. Betsy came with her seven children from Locke, N. Y., to Chatham township when it was a wilderness. Her husband, John Hackett was a son of Edward Hackett of Freetown, Mass., and Locke, N. Y.

Betsy MacFarland Hackett was the first doctor in Tioga county. She rode her horse hundreds of miles in the wilds of Tioag county. She brought 90 children into the world administering to the sick. She kept her horse "Nell" until she died. After she was too old to chew her foodd, she cooked porrige for her. After her Dr. Harvey Leach her grandson was the first practicing physician of Tioga county, Betsy MacFarland Hackett brother Dr. James MacFarland was a practicing physician of Worcester, Mass.

She was a remarkable weaver and spun the flax they raised. Some of her weaving is still in the possession of the family; also her weaving stool and carding wheel, spinning wheels are in possion of her great grandson, Wallace Burrell. She was the first woman to bring a carriage into Tioga county. The older generation spoke of her as a stately old dame.

Edward Hackett was a sergeant in the war of the Revolution. He enlisted and was at Freetown, Pierce's Company of Minute Men and responded to the first call known as the Lexington alarm, and on this memorable occasion participated in the opening act of the bloody drama under the leadership of Capt. Abiel Pierce, also at Concord and Ticonderoga.

He also served in the ninth Regt. Albany Co., Militia, N. Y. He removed from Freetown to Locke N. Y., where he cleared and built a cabin. His son-in-law, Seth Booth accompanied him there. Six months later in 1793, they sent for their families, Thankful Hackett Booth, wife of Seth Booth and his son, John Hackett with his wife Betsy MacFarland Hackett and children. They traveled in ox teams from Freetown to Locke, which took two weeks. They brought a straight back rocker with them that Gen. George Washington sat in which is still in the family at Locke, N. Y., in possession of a great great great grandson, and I have the bible that Thankful Hackett Booth brought from Mass on that trip which contains family records back to 1778

The Hacketts were very prominent in the New England states and much is given in the histories of them.

Edward Hackett had 12 children host of them were pioneer settlers in Tioga and Potter counties. Many of the younger generation settled in New York state, also in Idaho, Arizona, Washington, Ohio, Iowa and many others states. Mrs. Mary R. Wolcott genealogist.

1744; Elizabeth, born Oct. 17, 1746; Rebecca, born Jan. 6, 1750; Siloam, grandfather of Mrs. Potter, born July 10, 1752; Zerviah, born Dec. 7, 1754.

Siloam Short lived in the southern part of the town of Killingly, where he proved himself a successful farmer. His wife, Mary, was a daughter of Israel Day, and she became the mother of: (1) Polly married Abel Short, of Vermont, and lived in White River Junction, Vt. (2) Daniel went to New York State when a young man, locating near the lake section, where he died. His wife was a Miss Brown. (3) Rebecca, who married Samuel Titus, lived in Killingly. (4) Lora, who married a Mr. Young, lived in Sterling, Conn. (5) Lucy, who lived in Killingly, never married, and died at the age of ninety-two years. (6) Siloam, who married Rebecca Eaton, lived in Killingly, Conn. (7) Orilla became the wife of James Danielson. (8) Erastus, who was the father of Mrs. Potter, was born in 1800, and died in November, 1888.

Olive Day was the first wife of Erastus Short, and his second was Louisa Wood, whom he married Sept. 15, 1833. She was a daughter of Levi and Mary (Mason) Wood. To the first marriage of Erastus Short were born: (1) Harriet A., who died at the age of three years, and (2) Rhoda, who died when only six months old. To the second marriage were born: (3) Herbert D., born July 8, 1837, who died at the age of twenty-four; (4) Harriet N., born Jan. 3, 1839, who is the wife of Judge Potter, as noted above; (5) Levi M., who died in Virginia June 5, 1863, at the first battle of Piedmont, where he was severely wounded (he was a member of Co. K, 18th C. V. I.); (6) Daniel S., who was also a soldier, married Fannie R. Standish, and lives in Haverhill, Mass.; (7) Hiram A., who is a resident of South Killingly, and married Phila M. Young; (8) Linus E., who was taken prisoner at Piedmont, and died from starvation in Andersonville; and (9) Nathan A., who resides on the home place, married Minnie Young, and, after her death, Evangeline Easton.

Erastus Short was born in Killingly, and spent his entire life engaged in farming. In 1838 he represented his town in the General Assembly, which convened that year in New Haven. In early life he was a Whig, and later became a Republican. In the State militia he held the position of captain, and was usually called Capt. Short. In the work of the South Killingly Congregational Church he took an active part, and he was a working member of that church for many years. He was not officially chosen, but served as deacon of the church for a long period. As a farmer Mr. Short became quite prosperous, and was regarded as a man of most excellent judgment. His farm was first purchased by William Short, and then consisted of 200 acres. It is still in the family. Erastus Short added to the holdings, and greatly improved the place.

Aaron Wood, the maternal great-grandfather of Mrs. Potter, was born in Swansea, Mass., May 4, 1742. His wife, Freelove, was born April 25, 1745. Their children were: Nathan, Isaac, Innocent, Sarah, Elizabeth, Levi (the grandfather of Mrs. Potter), Polly, Aaron, Mercy and Noah.

Levi Wood was twice married, first to Mary Mason, and then to Sarah Randall, Aug. 4, 1816, in Foster, R. I. To the first marriage were born twelve children: Nathan B., born Oct. 9, 1794; Levi, born June 28, 1796; Polly, born June 25, 1798 (married Harry Wood); Wheaton, born Jan. 12, 1801; Delight, born March 5, 1803 (married William Wright); Olney, born July 4, 1805; Ira, born Jan. 26, 1808 (died April 20, 1880); Albert, born Feb. 10, 1810; Huldah, born Aug. 25, 1812 (married John Brayton); Louisa (the mother of Mrs. Potter), born Jan. 5, 1815 (died Nov. 30, 1868; she married Erastus Short); Minerva, born Aug. 7, 1817 (died when twelve years old); Hiram, born Aug. 5, 1820.

Previous to 1650 there had come to New England from Great Britain the following named Potters: In Massachusetts, Anthony, who located at Ipswich; Humphrey, at Salem, who had an only child, Ann; Inigo, at Charlestown, of whose children there is a record of three sons and three daughters, but not of the marriage of any of them; Nicholas, at Lynn; Robert, at Lynn, later of Boston, and who still later returned to England; and Vincent, of Braintree and Roxbury. William Potter was at Portsmouth, R. I. In Pennsylvania, Nathan was at Philadelphia, and in that city were later settled descendants of George Potter. In Connecticut, John and William Potter were at New Haven, and they signed the Plantation Covenant there June 4, 1639. George, Nathan and Robert Potter were at Portsmouth, R. I. George was admitted an inhabitant of the Island of Aquidneck in 1638, and his son, Abel, was of Portsmouth, Providence and Warwick; Nathaniel was admitted an inhabitant of Aquidneck in 1638, and died before 1644; and Robert, who came from Coventry, England, in 1634, was made a freeman of the Massachusetts Plantation Sept. 4, of that year.

Robert Potter is mentioned first as a farmer of Lynn, and as probably removing soon after, being made a freeman of Roxbury. He went finally to Portsmouth, R. I., where in company with Samuel Gorton he purchased a tract of land called the "Shawmut Purchase." He married first in 1643, and again later. He died in 1655. From this Robert Potter are descended a number of men of distinction, among them Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter, D. D., LL. D., late a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the diocese of Pennsylvania; Rt. Rev. Horatio Potter, D. D., LL. D., sixth bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the diocese of New York; Major Gen. Robert B. Potter; Hon. Alonzo Clarkson Potter; and Rt. Rev. Henry Codman Potter, the seventh bishop of the diocese of New York.

born March 15, 1780, a daughter of Gideon and Phœbe Wade, of Newport, R. I., Nicholas Potter moved to Sempronius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., where he died at the age of eighty-nine. His widow survived him several years. They had the following children: Nicholas, who lived and died in New York; Barnum, who went West; Amy, who married Daniel Austin, a carpenter in Rhode Island; Calista, who married a Mr. Kimbell, and lived in Cayuga county, N. Y.; and Stephen H., who was the father of James H. Potter.

Stephen Hazard Potter, father of the Judge, was born in Glocester, R. I., and was married at Foster, R. I., to Esther Burgess, a daughter of Gideon Burgess. The father died in Killingly, in 1866, at the age of seventy-seven. The mother died in Killingly at eighty-one years of age. The remains rest in Bartlett's cemetery, in East Killingly. Stephen H. Potter spent the greater part of his life in Killingly, Conn., where he was extensively engaged in farming though for a short time he was engaged in farming in Cayuga county, N. Y. In early life he was a carpenter in Killingly, and in Cayuga county followed this trade in connection with farming. He returned to Killingly in 1834. In politics he was a Jacksonian Democrat, and later became a Republican. These were his children: (1) Amy married Amasa Hardy, and lived and died in Cayuga county, N. Y.; (2) Phœbe died young; (3) Julia married Harvey Horton, and lived in Killingly, Hartford and Providence, where she died; (4) Maria D. was the wife of Erastus Young, of Danielson, Conn.; (5) Sabra was the widow of Charles P. Card, of Sterling, Conn.; (6) Adaline married William Fisk, and lived in South Killingly, where she died; (7) William B. married Mary Ann Chase, who lived in Killingly, and died at the age of forty-two; (8) Nicholas lived in Killingly, and died at the age of forty-six; (9) Charles A., a farmer of East Killingly, married Phœbe Chase; (10) James Hopkins; (11) Erastus E., a resident of Port Oram, N. J., where for thirty-two years he has been a teacher, married Henrietta Himes (he enlisted in Co. K, 18th C. V. I., and served three years; was at Winchester, where his regiment was captured; was at Piedmont, and in many other engagements).

James Hopkins Potter was born at Sempronius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., July 17, 1833, in a log cabin. During the first year of his life his parents removed to Killingly, where he grew to manhood, securing his education at the district school. When he was about nine years old he began working in a cotton mill. In the boyhood days of Mr. Potter there were no laws determining the number of hours a child should labor, nor any laws requiring attendance at school. Children not over eight years of age were often obliged to work twelve or thirteen hours a day, entering the mill at the first peep of day in summer, and working by candlelight in the fall and winter. Half an hour each was allowed for dinner and for supper, and they were obliged to work until eight or nine o'clock in the evening. Mr. Potter has many times heard the nine o'clock bell ring in the Danielson steeple while on his way home from the mill where he was employed. When he was eighteen Mr. Potter gave up mill work to take a position in the general store of Judge Paine at East Killingly. His district school education was supplemented by five terms in the West Killingly Academy under the able instruction of F. Harrison and a Mr. Peak, of Yale; Sprague, of Amherst; R. C. B. Frost, of Brown; Perrin, of Dartmouth, as well as others. There Mr. Potter won the highest prize for English composition. He paid his way through the academy by money he had earned while teaching in the district schools of Killingly, and for fourteen years he successfully followed the profession of school teaching. For twelve years he taught in Killingly, and for two years was engaged in teaching in New Dover, Morris Co., N. J. While engaged in teaching Mr. Potter studied law, and on retiring from the school room he entered the law office of the Hon. E. M. White, of Dover, N. J. For two years he was there actively engaged in legal practice, and, returning to Killingly, was admitted to the Bar in October, 1875.

During most of his life, since arriving at mature age, Mr. Potter has held some town office. In 1862 he represented his town in the State Legislature. He is still actively engaged in the practice of his profession, and success has crowned his career. His appearance before the Supreme court has been almost always successful, and several of the cases which he carried there were of unusual importance. Mr. Potter devotes himself closely to his profession, and enjoys a substantial practice. Mr. Potter is a Democrat, and for the last four years has held the office of probate judge, being a Democratic official in a Republican town. His services as assessor, justice of the peace, and in other town offices, were honorable and creditable. In 1900 and in 1902 he was the candidate of his party for the Lower House of Congress, making a sturdy canvass against Hon. Charles A. Russell. While a representative in the General Assembly in 1862 Mr. Potter served as clerk of the committee on Sales of Land, an important committee at that time.

Mr. Potter was married Oct. 10, 1861, to Miss Harriet N. Short, of Killingly, a teacher both before and since her marriage in Killingly and the borough schools. Mrs. Potter is a daughter of Erastus and Louisa (Wood) Short. She belongs to the Westfield Congregational Church of Danielson, while her husband usually attends the Baptist Church. He is a member of Moriah Lodge, No. 15, F. & A. M., and Aetna Lodge, No. 21, A. O. U. W.

William Short, who was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Potter, was a resident of Killingly, Conn. By his wife, Damris, he had these children: A child, born Jan. 20, 1742; Daniel, born Nov. 24, with few exceptions, and the file number. Continental (Conn.), or other state in parenthesis, means that the service was in the Continental Line and the veteran a resident of the state named. Continental and Connecticut, for instance, with no parenthesis, means that the service was rendered in both the Continental and State Regiments and the veteran a resident of Connecticut. When the service was rendered in the sea forces the designation on the envelopes are Navy, State Sea Service, Privateer Service.

In regard to the file numbers—S., W. and R. preceding numerals mean, respectively, Survivor, Widow and Rejected claims, as, "(S. 4963, W. 451)," "(R. 7304)." The abbreviation, Dis., means Disability, for which the veteran was pensioned. B. L. Wt. means Bounty Land Warrant. For example—B. L. Wt. 145-100 means that 100 acres of bounty land was granted on warrant No. 145 prior to March 3, 1855, and "(B. L. Wt. 145-160-'55)" means that 160 acres of bounty land was granted on warrant No. 145 under the act of Congress approved March 3, 1855, and "(B. L. Reg.-'55)" means Bounty Land Register and that the claim for bounty land under said act was rejected. When a veteran and his widow both applied for pension all papers pertaining to both claims are in the same envelope. When a veteran's claim was admitted and his widow's claim was rejected an R precedes the file number, her application being the last adjudicated. When the words "No papers" appear on the envelopes it means that the application papers were burned in the year 1801 or 1814.

This index bears the caption on each envelope.

The author of this Preface in the Quarterly had long been intimately familiar with the pension records and was dedicated to the cause of their preservation and of making them more generally accessible to the researcher. It may be appropriate to record here, in a form more permanent than its original ephemeral mimeographed form, the statement issued by The National Archives on June 24, 1949 at the time of her retirement:

> The National Archives loses by retirement on June 30 Mrs. Margaret M. H. Finch, one of its most valued and most widely known employees, Dr. Robert H. Bahmer, Acting Archivist of the United States, announced today. Mrs. Finch leaves the Government after more than thirty years service.
> Mrs. Finch was appointed clerk in the War Department in 1919 and was transferred in the following year to the Bureau of Pensions, then in the Department of the Interior. In 1927 she became Chief of the Revolutionary and 1812 War Sections, a position she held until 1940. In this position she had immediate charge and supervision of some 80,000 Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land files and of an almost equal number of similar files relating to the War of 1812. These records were transferred to the National Archives in 1940 and with them came Mrs. Finch and several employees who had worked with her. Since coming to the National Archives she has continued her work on these old records and in recent years has been in charge of the Veterans' Records search room where visitors seeking information from pension and bounty-land files are given access to them. Her personal contact with genealogical and other research workers from all over the country and her affability and devotion to her work have made her a host of friends. . . .

crash that splintered it into kindling wood. When it fell it reached almost to the road, which those who have been by there will remember, is a good way from the house. The house was covered anew, and the porch built to it. A few years later it was offered to the town, upon condition that they would keep the outside in repair. The inside is a curiosity. There is a lofty pulpit, above which is a painting representing cherubim, but a most rude and shabby daub. The pews are square pens, with seats on the four sides; a third of the congregation sitting with their backs to the speakers. Perhaps there is no building in our town so heavily built. The timber is massive, and its appearance will give us some index to the character of Burrillville forests an hundred years ago.

CHAPTER IV.

OLD PLACES.

On the margin of Round Pond, in Buck Hill Woods, is a cave, where a nest of counterfeiters once worked. They called the place Newport, when they talked with each other before strangers. It was only a new port on the shores of the round frog pond. The members of the gang lived in the region now called Burrillville, and in the adjacent towns. Silver money was rare then. They made old Eighty-six, and Spanish milled dollars.

The cavity in the rock that led to their den was hidden behind the tr[illegible]se of a large rock birch, and covered by a flat stone. Parts of the forge and a pile of cinders were lately to be seen there. The aperture where the smoke came out was about thirty feet from the door.

They made two sorts, plated and mixed. The plated were easily tested. If suspected, a knife soon cut through the thin silver coat and revealed the copper on the amalgram. One of the gang went one evening to a hotel at Brandy Hill. He became very tipsy and having the ready in his possession, he lavished it freely and spent several silver dollars in treats. The large crowd stared. Where did he get so much specie? The thriving farmers around could hardly find enough to pay their taxes with, and how could the idling swaggerer be so flush? The rumor of a swindling game gained credence. The bar keeper looked at the dollars and found them all of the same date.

The man was arrested, and when charged with the crime, confessed it. Several of his confederates were taken and brought before a justice at Chepachet. The cave was searched. The tools were found and produced in the court room. The old "bogus" was produced and the chief of the gang brought forward for examination. He was cool and cunning and evaded the questions.

Critical mechanics had examined the modus-operandi of the counterfeiting apperatus, and it was suggested to the court that the key that pressed the die must be struck fairly and squarely or one side of the coin would be thicker than the other. The court would know whether the chief was an expert or not. The ordeal was known only to a few who were conducting the prosecution.

The prisoner could only see the game by his quick shrewd musing, when the hammer was put into his hand. The dies were placed in the "bogus," the prisoner was asked to strike the key, and the adroit schemer did strike a blow, that, to use his own language as he told it afterwards, "brought the dollar clean to an edge on one side."

Some were satisfied that the bungling specimen before them was the work of an innocent man. But others knew the craft of the chief, and the examination went on. Soon a witness said that one of his neighbors, who was a clothier, had promised his cloth screw to the counterfeiters. This clothier was son-in-law to the justice. He looked around the court room, and saw sympathy for the prisoners, for already many of the first families for miles around had been implicated. The rigor of the questioning was abated and the accused soon discharged.

In later years, common report linked one and another with the plot, but no legal process was used to bring them to justice. The visions of wealth grew dim, that had lured men from the path of honest toil, to secure ill-gotten gold—the bubble burst, and left them poorer than ever. A stain was upon their reputation for all their after lives.

Among the natural curiosities of this town, one of the most singular is a cave sometimes called "Cooper's Den." It is located on the road leading from Glendale to the old Stephen Cooper house, now occupied by John Paine. There is a high jagged ledge just in the verge of a wood. We remember ten years ago, standing on the summit of this precipice, with Calvin S. Keep, an old teacher of Burrillville. We dropped a stone while Calvin held his watch, to see how many seconds it took for it to fall, that he might thus calculate the distance. We have forgotten how far it was, but it is the highest rock in Burrillville. A few days ago we went there again, to explore the cave. Climbing half way up the cliff, by clinging to the rocks and bushes, we found a narrow opening through which we crawled and soon found ourselves in an irregular room about 8 feet wide, 12 high and 30 in length. There are apertures where the light can enter. It looks as though the rocks had been violently cleft asunder by some tremendous subterranean convulsion. It was a fearful looking place. It was twilight when we entered, and the dim shadowy appearance made us shiver; we remembered the rumors we had heard of snakes, our fancy made frightful forms of every jutting crag, and we were glad to emerge into sunlight. The rocks were so poised as to seem in momentary danger of falling. There is a tradition that here too silver money was coined. It was when all this region was forest, and the lonely cavern afforded a secure retreat to the company. No one would be likely to find them, unless some hunter might chance to stumble upon them in pursuit of game that should run into this ledgy covert.

The place is sometimes called 'The Forger's Cave.' Standing outside, the frowning rocks seem propped by the chesnut trees that lean against their sides. Large fragments appear to have been broken off by the frost, and rolled down the hillside.

Parties picking berries often come to this locality and merry shouts peal among the rocks. The broken echoes rustle down the valley startling the timid hare in the brake and causing the crows to make their way farther into the rooky wood.

On the farm of Smith Battey, are found beautiful specimens of chrystalised quartz. They are regular in form, and although not so dense as some diamonds, they will make a slight mark on glass. They are translucent, some of them are delicately tinged with purple hues, while a few of the smallest are yellow.

Lapidaries find them too minute to work to advantage while they can get those of the same quality from the Old World in large blocks. Some of the jewellers of Providence obtain stones of the am e sort at Bristol R. I., which they set in gold rings.

A few years ago, Dr. Chandler, Dentist, of Pawtucket, paid a visit to Burrillville, and examined the diamonds on the Battey farm. He has made some experiments with them, as a material for the manufacture of mineral teeth. They worked well and he has already composed several complete sets.

In the same locality we found shining particles of earth resembling silver, which an analysis proves to be decomposed isinglass. A little to the northwest of Smith Battey's residence, on his farm, is a large rock upon which an excavation is to be seen which will hold several quarts, and it is rumored that it was made by the Indians as a sort of mortar in which to pound corn. It is evidently artificial. The position makes it improbable that it could have been made by the action of water. Perhaps this was the red man's grist mill, when the Nipmucks ruled lord of the ascendant in the forest of the Shining Brook.

In the valley of "Muddy Brook," about half a mile from its source, was once a bark mill. Unlike the mills of our time, the bark was ground between stones, and by horse power. One of these stones is now the curb-stone of a well near by. The mill was small, about a hundred hides a year being tanned, besides the woodchuck and squirrel skins that the boys prepared, to make whip lashes and money purses. It is about thirty years since it was used and it gradually crumbled away, its moss grown roof fell in, and it assumed an aspect altogether interesting in the eyes of the antiquarians.

A little below the bark mill is the site of the turning lathe of Shadrach Steere. Here were made spinning wheels, the piano forte of our industrious grandmothers. Those solid, oak, high backed chairs still to be found in the farm houses of Burrillville and the adjoining towns were mostmade here. Heavy old men who would break down in the light fancy chair of modern times were safe in the old substantial seat of the quaker pattern. At last hoe handles, scythe-nibs and bobbins were turned here.

The little mill has rotted down, the dam is gone and the speckled trout play undisturbed in the crannies of the pool where the old floom once stood.

A few moments at the "Old Paul Place" and we close our cursory glances, at old places.

Not far from the centre of the town, is a house, fast crumbling down, which has long been known by the above title. It was originally the residence of an ancient family of Ballous, a common name in this town. A little to the east of the old castle are four graves where they were buried.

It was afterward occupied by Paul Smith. The old man met with many misfortunes which gives the place a romantic interest. His wife was insane for many years. She was confined in a lonely room, and with none of the appliances with which modern science and philanthropy sooth and improve the stricken mind, she sank into hopeless idiotcy. One of the sons, an athletic young man, was engaged in a foot race at Slatersville, when he burst a blood-vessel and died in a short time.

CHAPTER VI.

GLOCESTER AND ITS DIVISION.

From 1636 to 1730, the territory which forms our town was included within the limits of Providence. In the latter year an act was passed by the General Assembly of His Majesty's Colony of Rhode Island "to incorporate the outlands of Providence into three towns." A Committee had been sent out by Roger Williams, to survey the parts north of the city, and when they looked from Solitary Hill, near Triptown, over the barren lands, they returned and made their report, that "no one would ever settle" beyond that point.

But after the lapse of almost a century, there were inhabitants enough to warrant new towns, and Smithfield, Scituate, and Glocester, were formed; because "the prudential affairs of Providence had become heavy, and burdensome."

The original town of Providence extended from Seekonk Plains to Douglas. The act of incorporation gave us the liberties and privileges of other towns of the State. The franchises and protection of the Charter were ours. We could elect our officers; we could send two deputies to the next General Assembly; we could send one grand and one petit juror to the superior courts; and we could have our proportion of the interest of the bank money appropriated to the use of the towns of this colony, according to the sums that the lands, lying in our town, were mortgaged for." The expense of surveys, roads over our rocky hills, money paid to the Indians, for the poor, of which there were more than at present, and the many burdensome taxes that oppressed the colony prior to the Declaration of Independence, had compelled the town to mortgage their lands.

In 1806, Glocester was divided. Since the jurisdiction of Glocester extended over our territory for a period of seventy-six years, her archives must be searched, that we may form proper ideas of the condition of public affairs at the time we commenced our corporate existence.

In 1798 the British currency was employed, and pounds, shillings and pence, were the familiar terms of financial parlance. A little prior to this corn seemed to be a standard of value, and we find the town treasury filled with it. December 10th, 1787, licenses were granted by the town council, in these words: "To the six above named persons to keep a tavern in the house wherein he lives for one year from this time, provided they maintain good order and rule, and pay into the town treasury each the sum affixed to their names, viz.: "No. 1, six bushels of corn; No. 2, four bushels," and so on.

The corn was used for the support of the paupers. Persons were made poor by the the poison extracted from corn, and when a citizen had been at expense for their maintenance the council voted him a compensation in corn. A large part of the earlier council records consist of allowances of this kind.

A little later we find a portion of the currency consisting of silver dollars. Some who had been dilatory in application for license, were allowed to sell, "till the remainder of the year on the payment of three shillings."

In 1791, from nine to eighteen shillings was the price of license.

In 1800, the council voted that a special license be granted to ———, on payment of fifty cents, to sell spiritous liquors by the gill on Wednesday next. It does not appear what day Wednesday was, but we may presume that it was town meeting or training day. Neither is the result of the speculation recorded.

The number of persons licensed the first year of this century was seventeen.

In 1805, Gloucester began to post her drunkards, but the same year licenses were given to twenty-six persons, and they paid $75 into the Treasury, as their contribution towards the support of the poor, with which the township might be burdened.

Gloucester, at this date, was twelve miles square. The people thought it too far to go to Chepachet to Town Meeting, so on the 27th August, 1805, it was voted, "That Messrs. Zebedee Hopkins, Seth Hunt, Abraham Winsor, Daniel Tourtelott, Bazaleal Paine, Joktan Putnam, and Edmund Waldron, be, and they hereby are appointed a Committee to draft a petition to the next General Assembly, to divide the town by an east and west line through the middle of the town, free from expense, to said town, and signing the petition in behalf of said town.

On the 16th April, 1806, they instructed their deputies "to use their utmost influence for a division of said town."

The influence of the Deputies resulted in the passage of the following Act:

An Act to divide the town of Gloucester, and to incorporate the north part thereof into a town by the name of Burrillville.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly, and by the authority thereof it is enacted, That the town of Gloucester, in the County of Providence, be divided into two towns, by a line drawn westerly through the middle of said town to the line of the State of Connecticut; and that the northern half of said town, thus divided and set off, be incorporated into a township by the name of Burrillville, and that the inhabitants thereof shall have and enjoy the like benefits, liberties, privileges and immunities, as the other towns in this State generally enjoy, and are entitled to.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the freemen of said town shall, and may assemble in town meeting on the third Monday in November, A. D. 1806, to elect their town officers, and transact all other business which by law a town meeting may transact; and that Simeon Steere, Esq., be authorised and directed to issue his warrant to any constable in the said town of Burrillville, to warn the freemen of said town to meet in town meeting for the purposes aforesaid, at such place, and at such time on said day as he may in his warrant appoint.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That Messrs. Joshua Bicknell, Joseph Rice, and Thomas Mann, be, and they are hereby appointed a Committee to make an equal division of the poor, now supported at the expense of said town of Gloucester, between the two towns, and also of the debts due or owing, and money belonging to the town of Gloucester, and of the debts due from the said town, which said division shall be settled and made in proportion to the last tax assessed in said town.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That said Committee be authorised and empowered to run the division line, afore-described, to set up monuments and boundaries thereon, and to report to the General Assembly at the next session.

On the 27th October, 1806, the town of Gloucester

Voted, That Jesse Tourtelott Thomas Owen, Esq, and Col. Elijah Armstrong, be and are hereby appointed a Committee in behalf of the town of Gloucester, to attend the State Committee, to see to the division of the Poor, Taxes and Debts between the towns of Gloucester and Burrillville.

The following Report was submitted at the February Session, 1807: The subscribers being appointed a Committee by the Honorable General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, at their October Session, A. D. 1806, to divide the town of Gloucester, in the County of Providence, did on the tenth day of November last, agreeably to our appointment, proceed to make the division as follows: Began at the southeasterly corner of said town, and measured the easterly line of said town to the south line of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which we found to be ten miles one-half and seventy rods; then began on said easterly line, five miles one quarter and thirty-five rods from said southeasterly corner, and there erected a monument, it being south eighty degrees, west twenty-three rods and eighteen links from the northwesterly corner of Benjamin Waterman's dwelling house; from thence we ran a course north eighty-six and a half degrees west, making monuments and marking trees, to the easterly line of the State of Connecticut, and there erected a large monument with stones: which course makes the dividing line between the towns of Gloucester and Burrillville.

We then proceeded to make an equitable division of the poor, supported at the expense of said town before said division between the two towns, and also of the debts due or owing, and money belonging to said town of Gloucester, and of the debts due from the said town, which said division we made in proportion to the last tax assessed in said town, which proportion is as five hundred and forty-eight dollars and seventeen cents, to one thousand dollars, for the town of Gloucester, and four hundred and fifty-one dollars and eighty-three centy for the town of Burrillville, of which division of said poor, and the debts due to and owing from said town, we made a particular statement and report, and lodged with the town clerks of each of the said towns. All of which is humbly submitted by your Committee.

JOSHUA BICKNELL,
JOSEPH RICE,
THOMAS MANN.

April 20th, 1808, Gloucester Voted, "That Col. Elijah Armstrong and Jesse Tourtelott, Esq., be and are hereby appointed a Committee to settle all amounts, dues and demands which the town of Gloucester has against the town of Burrillville, and are hereby empowered to call on the town treasurer of the town of Burrillville, in order to close all amounts and demands existing between said towns.

The final legislation of Gloucester upon this subject, was in 1809. At the August town meeting of this year, it was Voted, "That the town of Gloucester be divided by a northerly and southerly line." This appears to have been done for Buncombe, as no action was ever taken upon this vote, which seems to be extending the jurisdiction of a town "to the fullest extent." But the inhabitants of Gloucester were always Democrats par excellence, and while the ruins of Acote's Fort frown over their capital, they will rather enlarge than lessen the right of the people.

CHAPTER VIII.

OLD MEN.

Within the memory of our elderly men there were open fields between Mapleville and Solomon Smith's. It is now thickly wooded. There was once an old barn at the brook in the woods. It was used to store the produce of the meadows that then stretched through the valley.

The Harrington house was a little way west of the Smiths. The old family burying ground is still pointed out, by the road side, just in the edge of the forest.

The family of Harringtons was very large, and they were a very thirsty set. One of their customs was to tap a barrel of cider on its arrival home and drink it all up before it was unloaded from the cart. A part of them died there, and the rest moved away. Rufus Smith's grandfather could discern that when he went by there "the air smelled sweeter."

The old house near Martin Smith's was occupied by this family. It has been lately torn down and moved away to Buck Hill. There are none of the name left. Seventy years ago there was a Physician by the name of Harrington. He lived in the Smithville district. Dr. Bellows, so long a resident in the Colwell neighborhood, was one of his students. Dr. H. was one of the great men of the by-gone generation.

We will briefly refer to one or two other men who will be remembered by some who are now living. Joktan Putnam was one of the old inhabitants of Rhodesville. Mr. P. was a great pursy man, fond of public employment, rather dictatorial in his manners, and a lover of good drink. He was for many years one of the assessors of taxes, and when men came to him to complain of the high rates, he said, to use his own phrase, he "always riz the taxes, and soon got rid of the complaints." He was chosen the moderator of the first town meeting in Burrillville, held Nov. 17th, 1806.

When they were nearly 70 years of age, he ran a race with Noah Arnold, and Joktan beat. So vigorous was the old age of our early settlers.

He was the owner of the plains at Harrissville, and a tract in Herring Pond wood, still called Putnam Pasture. In his political preferences he is believed to have been a tory. He become involved in debt in his old age, and bartered his premises at Rhodesville for wild land in the town of Sutton, Vermont. The land in the above State is still occupied by the heirs of Joseph Putnam, and Charles Taft, once a resident of Burrillville.

Another of the old school was William Rhodes. When a boy, he was poor. He learned the trade of a cooper, and went to the West India Isles to work. In his frequent voyages, he learned the art of Navigation, and engaging in the more lucrative occupation of a Privateer, intercepted many English vessels on their way to the West Indies, laden with sugar and molasses. He covered the wharves at Providence with his cargoes, and at one time felt so rich he "did'nt care for John Brown, Clark and Nightingale, nor the d——l."

He sold his prizes for continental money, and his wife urged him to invest it in real estate, but he refused. It became almost worthless. Capt. R. said it was the only time he thought his wife knew more than he did. He bought at Harrissville, then called Rhodesville, built the large house on the corner, and owned the Othniel Young farm, the Smith Wood farm, and much land beside. He used to ride to the city on horseback. He often took a trip to South Carolina, where he owned a store. As a mark of his activity, they tell of his standing upon a stick of timber thirty feet long, and going the length of it at three hops. There are many of our old people who well remember Capt. William Rhodes.

Every Spring, regular as the singing birds, a lone man walks through this town. For forty years he has made his annual tour, sometimes coming several times in a season. We hear of him at a distance. He goes to Unadilla, in New York, upon his circuit.

For many years he come with the same dress, a wine colored suit. Tradition says this was to have been his wedding costume, but he was disappointed, and the most marked habit of his sad life was the care with which he cherished this suit. He would enter a house and sit a long time musing, pensively and silently, never speaking unless questioned, living in a world apart, unmindful of all the present, his spell-bound memory was wandering back through the vista of shadowy years, to the halcyon days of his prime of life. He would ask for thread, and from what was offered him he would select the color of his wedding suit, and then proceed carefully and patiently to darn the threadbare places, and he thus at last acquired the name of "The Darned Man."

The children know him the country round, and he is seldom rudely treated by them. His visits among us will soon be over, for he is now an old man. The blighted genius, for he had talent, the true lover, the melancholy worshipper among the ruins of a broken altar, will soon go home. After the fitful fever of a love-lorn life, he will rest in Elysium.

Rambles in Rhode Island

by John W. Heisey

Your Ancestors

...and how to find them

Isn't it strange that a tiny state should have one of the biggest names? Just think of the official title this little area has carried for a long time: Rhode Island and Providence Plantation. Quite a mouthful, and full of history. This state is also filled with genealogy.

Scarcely had the ink dried on the Mayflower Compact (1620) than Europeans were trying to settle in what is now Rhode Island. The first settlement was made at Providence in 1636, followed shortly by small communities on the island of Rhode Island.

As the early settlers had come from Massachusetts, the eastern part of Rhode Island belonged to Massachusetts for some years. For this reason, any genealogical research on early Rhode Island families should include some searching in Taunton, Mass., town records.

When the colony of Providence Plantation was chartered in 1644, is the time we begin to really get Rhode Island records to check on. The new colony held to old English ways in many instances, such as primogeniture. This custom meant that the eldest son inherited the father's estate and it was followed here until 1718 and again between 1728 until 1770.

But enough of history. Genealogy is our reason for visiting this state now, so let's get started. Be sure to read Jane Fletcher Fiske's article, "Genealogical Research in Rhode Island," published in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, volume 136 (1982). This should get you in the mood for genealogy.

Now that you've gotten your feet wet, start looking for ancestors. Maybe you'd like to take a look at photocopies of Rhode Island naturalizations from 1787 to 1906 (found in the National Archives, Washington, D.C. and possibly in some Rhode Island libraries. There is also an index to these records.

Another fine source is the Genealogy Dictionary of Rhode Island, by John Austin, a reprint of the 1887 edition done in 1969 by the Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore. This should give you at least three generations for several hundred early Rhode Island families.

It's never too soon in genealogical research to look at censuses. Rhode Island has them all — from 1790 through 1880, 1900 and 1910 — available on microfilm at various libraries and institutions throughout the state and elsewhere. Census of 1790 and 1800 have been printed, and there are good indexes for all from 1790 through 1850 and 1900. There is also a manuscript copy of an index to the 1860 census through the 1880 one. This is in the State Archives at Providence. The State Library in that city has copies of the Mortality Schedules of the Rhode Island censuses from 1850 through 1880. Those from 1860 through 1880 have been indexed.

Another source of great value, a census "type" for locating people in the state, is the 1798 Direct Tax for Rhode Island (also known as the "Glass Tax"). A microfilm copy is in the Rhode Island Historical Society, Providence. (This tax list may be incomplete.)

Fortunately for genealogists, Rhode Island took periodic state censuses. Ones for 1689, 1708, 1777, 1782 and 1865 have been printed. Others at irregular times were taken up to 1936 and these are on hand in libraries. The one for 1895 has been lost, by the way, but there are plen ty of others to use.) Since 1865 they wer taken every two years which greatl supplements the decennial census lists of the federal government.

Coming down to the local level, many records have been maintained by towns. For instance, land and probate records are in the hands of the town clerk. County courts may also have some wills and other estate probate records, guardianships, etc. Early land records have been collected and published in Rhode Island Land Evidences. Volume I, 1648-1696, Abstracts (1921; reprinted by the Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore in 1970).

Vital records for the state are well preserved and readily available. The Genealogical Society of Utah Library (Mormons) in Salt Lake City, has some early records — Newport (1638-1808), South Kingston (1782-1840) and Warwick (deeds from 1669 to 1734), all microfilms, which can be borrowed from the main library and its many branch libraries.

Among excellent sources for vital records data are the following:

a. An Alphabetical Index of Births, Marriages and Deaths Recorded in Providence, (Providence: City Registrar, 1879-1940). This is a series of 25 volumes which cover the period from 1636 to 1935. Remember, this is an index, not the actual record.

b. Twenty-one volumes of vital records of Rhode Island from 1636 to 1850, compiled by James N. Arnold and published by the state (reprinted in 1973).

c. Rhode Island Vital Records, New Series, by Alden G. Beaman (East Princeton, Mass: 1975-77), in three volumes.

Before 1853, records of births, marriages and deaths were recorded by Town Clerks. Since that date, the state has kept the records. Divorce records, on the other hand, were not kept by the state until January 1962. Earlier, divorces were a jurisdiction of several bodies. Courts of trial handled divorces from 1663 to 1747, and the county supreme court issued such decrees after 1747.

Check the WPA Guide to Public Vital Statistics Records: Births, Marriages, Deaths in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation (June 1941) for availability of these records. Remember that this survey is quite dated by now. Many changes relocations of records may have occurred.

Don't overlook the many volumes of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, published since 1847 by the New England Historical Genealogical Society, Boston, Mass. You'll fin many references to Rhode Island fam lies in them.

Let's Organize That Notebook

by Linda J. Houyouse

Part II

In the process of filling out ancestor charts many valuable primary documents are accumulated. I compiled a Document Notebook for these. Each birth, death or marriage certificate is identified with the appropriate ancestor number from your key — the five-generation chart. This number never varies and is a constant upon which to base the order of the document notebook. You always be No. 1 on the ancestor chart and to determine ancestor numbers beyond those printed on the chart just double the number. Your father as No. 2, your paternal grandfather becomes No. 4, each male assigned an even number and the female an odd number. Primary documents are then placed in clear vinyl pocket pages to eliminate punching the expensive records and protect them from wear. Each page is then numerically arranged in the notebook. Copies of wills, estates, deeds, land patents, naturalizations, etc. can be kept in one place, and finding the information is by consulting the key of your work — the ancestor numbers on your chart.

My preference in organization of a genealogical notebook is to trace all descendants from a common ancestor. Index tab sheets divide the notebook into sections, each section comprised of all the information on family group sheets about the descendants of one child of this on ancestor. Secondary informat child and pictures of his famombstones, family Bible, etc.
ped behind the appropriate sheet. Following are fam-eets for each of his children, hildren interfiled. Order will about. I punch all correspondence and keep it with the writer's family group sheet. When I answer letters my research is right there for reference. Another time-saver is photocopying the title page and reference itself and inserting this copy among the family group sheets. These secondary documents can be invaluable in developing or proving ancestry.

When a more detailed identification scheme is needed there are three standard numbering systems to consider. They are needed in a published work as a logical or chronological order to your material. When you decide to trace all the descendants of a common ancestor, I recommend the Register System which is used by the New England Historical and Genealogical Register or the Henry System. To trace an ancestral line back in time you would use the Sosa-Stradonitz System defined in Write It Right, by Donald R. Barnes, C.G. and Richard S. Lackey, C.G. (Ocala, FL; Lyon Press, 1983).

Legibility, documentation and organization of your notebook will determine its effective use and the credibility of your research. A consistent pattern will help a reader who has no knowledge of your family to easily understand the treasure you will have left behind.

Back to Rhode Island

Part II

In case you missed reading the earlier column on Rhode Island research, cheer up. There are still more sources to come.

Among excellent lists to check are church records. There are quite a lot in this small state, but we'll look at only a few of the larger collections. For instance, the James Carter Brown Library at Brown University at Providence has many Quaker records.

The Rhode Island Historical Society, also in Providence, has records pertaining to Baptist, Unitarian and Congregational churches. The Newport Historical Society, Newport, also has some Baptist and Congregational records, as well as some for Quakers.

One compilation you should check is Guide to Church Vital Statistics Records in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation, published in June 1941 by the W.P.A. in Washington, D.C.

Cemetery transcriptions go hand in hand with church records and there are many referenced in the book A General Index to Rhode Island Cemetery Records, maintained at the Rhode Island Historical Society, Providence.

Military records abound for Rhode Island as that tiny state has been involved in all our wars, even those of colonial America. Check with local historical societies for military history and organizational rosters. The best source for the state's men in colonial wars is undoubtedly Howard Miller Chapin's Rhode Island in the Colonial Wars: A List of Rhode Island Soldiers and Sailors in King George's War, 1740-1748. (Providence: Rhode Island Historical Society, 1920), and his Rhode Island in the Colonial Wars: A List of Rhode Island Soldiers and Sailors in the Old French and Indian Wars, 1755-1762, (Providence: Rhode Island Historical Society, 1918).

For Rhode Island in the Revolutionary War there is Benjamin Cowell's Spirit of '76 in Rhode Island, (1901; reprinted by the Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore, 1973) which contains lists of Rhode Island soldiers.

It might be fitting here to mention that Rhode Island did not give any bounty land to veterans of the Revolution, so don't look for such information.

Revolutionary War pensioners of Rhode Island may be found by checking in 14 unnumbered manuscript volumes of pension payments. There are kept at the National Archives and list pensioners alphabetically under the appropriate pension act.

Rhode Island took an active part in the Civil War and supplied many soldiers. Rosters of these men are found in Elisha Dryer's Adjutant General's Report of 1865, (Providence: C. L. Freeman & Sons, 1893-95).

The Rhode Island Historical Soci Providence, has a microfilm index Union Army service records. This should be a good start for any Civil War serviceman's research.

From the National Archives, too, there are indexes available (seven rolls of microfilm) to the compiled service records of Union troops of the Civil War that pertain to Rhode Island. From those indexes you can find out the basic data you need to obtain the proper service record.

Also be sure to use the Special Schedule of Union Veterans of the Civil War which was part of the 1890 census. This schedule, on microfilm, will show the exact organizations to which each serviceman had belonged. The microfilm is usually available in the larger libraries.

Speaking of libraries, there are some very excellent ones in Rhode Island. The Free Library in East Greenwich and the Public Library in Westerly are two which have fine genealogical collections.

The Rhode Island State Archives and the Rhode Island State Library, both in Providence, should rank high on your list of places to visit and do research. Another repository in Providence is the Rhode Island Historical Society. In addition to much genealogical/historical material, they have published Rhode Island History since 1942. It often has useful genealogical data among the historical articles.

Since the Genealogical Society of Utah (Mormons) in Salt Lake City has so much genealogical material available, you should make use of their resources. Information in microform can be obtained through the Providence Rhode Island Stake (Branch Library), Box 285, Quaker Hills, CT 06375 (and through branch libraries in all states). At present there is no Mormon branch library in Rhode Island. This may change, however, as new "branches" are being added through LDS outreach programs.

Remember that Providence, as well as Newport and some small towns are, or were, seaports. Immigrants came into America through some of those ports, and U.S. customs and immigration records exist for various ports for certain times. The following will show some of the records available on microfilm from the National Archives, in case you wish to look for an ancestor's arrival.

Records of arrivals at Providence are the most voluminous. Customs passenger lists date from 1820 to 1867, but there are many gaps in these records. Immigration passenger lists through Providence are available from 1820 to 1831 (with some gaps) and from June 1911 to June 1943. Indexes for these lists also exist (1820 to 1831, and June 1911 to October 1954).

For Newport there are customs lists (1820 to 1875, some missing) and abstracts (1820 to 1857, with some gaps). There are also indexed immigration passenger lists from 1820 to 1831, some years missing.

Other ports through which people came into Rhode Island were Bristol and Warren. Abstracts of customs lists are on hand for 1820 to 1871 (many missing years) and there are immigration lists and an index from 1820 to 1828.

Although these lists are far from complete, they should not be ignored. However, follow the earlier suggestions for research first. Then, if you can tie into some really early family of Rhode Island you might be able to go on back to some other state, or to Europe.

Quite a goal, isn't it?

Genealogy Book Editor, P.O. Box 90, Knightstown, IN 46148

HISTORY OF EASTHAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS by Payson W. Lyman, repr. of original history, new index by Tilbe, 200pp, librarybound, 4¾x7¾. Price: $22 ppd. Order from: Heritage Books, Inc., 3602 Maureen, Bowie, MD 20715

Examination of early town records and manuscripts, and not previously published writings were resources of this author whose account was written in 1866. The historical portion of the book covers the usual topics of early settlement: Indian wars, civil, education, churches, business and industrial development, etc. The last chapter is genealogical in nature, a register of the families of Clark, Clapp, Lyman, Wright, Janes, Williston, Knight, Parsons, Ferry, White, Chapman, Pomeroy, Hannum, Phelps, Ludden, Wood, and Hendrick. Many more names are found, however, as they related to topics of earlier chapters.

The text is very descriptive and presents an excellent depiction of the lifestyle of the period. One account is about the development of a large button manufactory that turned out 1,200 which may pinpoint an ancestor of this period at a place. Names are in alphabetical order by unit (no cumulative index). Each unit's activity in the war is also traced.

The writers include information on modern-day units which represent the original soldiers in reenactment skirmishes. The page on reference sources may aid in further research. — ek

Dear Helen,

Although its early days yet, we are planning a trip in April 1988 to the east coast New England states,CT,Mass.,RI, NYetc. We are taking the trailer and plan on about six or eight weeks in that area. I have been re-digesting the SHORT/GRUMMON material and hoping to research at the Amesbury,MA library plus others, of course. Nick Marks from the Augustan Society is very familiar with this area (he's descended from 26 Salem witches) and recommends this library very highly; lots of New England material, large parking lot and easy access etc.

Have you researched in this location at all?? Is there any questions or problem material I can look for other than the usual; birth,death and marriages??

We will also be camping near Killingly, CT, going to check more on a John Short and Zeruiah Utter who married 27 Sept 1748 in Thompson, CT which i s just about 20 miles north of Killingly; also for a "Erastus __?__", since Samuel and Siloam SHort both named a son "Erastrus". That is an unual name and believe me, some of the SHORT given names are most unusal!!! This John Short came from Gloucester, MASS and might tie into the line of Henry Short of Newbury, Mass. who arrived in 1634 aboard the "JOHN & MARY", Second boat people, of course Ha!

Summer is our "stay at home" time since here at the beach, we don't have the heat or humidity. We are taking a few local camping trips but not planning on any long out of state trips until April. I flew to Bass Lake, Ind. in June for a reunion with my three brothers and sister; we had a fun time in the lake and playing poker all night. Hope you and Dave enjoyed a pleasant summer.

Going to walk to the post office in a little while so thought I'd get this letter off today just in case you or Linda had any research sugguestions or possibly further information on Amasa Short's parentage.

Sincerely with love,
"Cousin" Betty

pear to have been their principal preachers, or leaders. Varnum induced some of the people, over whom he had great influence, to move with him to Ohio, and there establish a pure and holy church, and enjoy a kind of Paradise on earth. The people, however, that went with him, were generally miserably disappointed; Varnum turned Shaker, and advised those over whom he had influence to follow his example, which was to some extent followed.

KILLINGLY.

Killingly was first settled about the year 1700.* An act was passed in 1708, granting the inhabitants the privileges and immunities of a township, which then included in its limits the town of Thompson. The land was purchased of the colony, and the grant was signed by Gov. Salstonstall at New Haven, Oct. 13th, 1709.

Among the early settlers, whose descendants inhabit the same spot, were Messrs. Joseph Cady, James Danielson, Sampson Howe, and Ephraim Warren. The first white person buried here, was a female of Mr. Cady's family, great grandmother to Mr. Nell Alexander, an aged man still living. The precise year of her death is forgotten. Her grave is still to be seen; but as it always happens in early settlements, the graves of that period were left without any inscription. The oldest date to be found is 1720, and marks the time of burial of an individual of the same family.

The first settlers were all athletic men, and inured to hardships; yet they made but little improvement, on account of the roughness of the soil and the depredations of the Indians. The aborigines of this part of the country, were a branch of the Nipmuck tribe, who were acknowledged to be less fierce and warlike than the Pequots: but though the lives of the settlers were not often endangered, yet they suffered great annoyance from their savage neighbors, who, being deprived of most of their game by the progress of the settlements, thought themselves justified in requiring the balance in the form of provisions, which the whites dared not refuse, notwithstanding the daily calls of their red friends. These sons of the forest sometimes travelled in companies of fifty or sixty, we are credibly informed, and took up their quarters at one house! They seldom showed violence to the inmates to obtain admission, yet they often employed artifice with wonderful success. For after three had been kept over night, eight or nine more would be found the next morning, whom they had contrived to conceal with their Pappooses, thus making their number apparently smaller than it really was, in order to gain admission more readily. While the whites and Indians in this manner had constant communication, and were on friendly terms with each other, they used to engage in favorite sports, by which they tested their comparative strength and agility. In this respect the whites were in no degree inferior to the red men. The savage is capable of enduring great hardships, but his strength is not great in proportion to his power of endurance. Indeed in most of the contests, the well clad and civilized European showed himself far superior to the almost naked and wild American, even in respect to bodily vigor. As an example we introduce only the two following circumstances.

Mr. Cady, soon after his arrival, was one day mowing brush at the foot of Mashentuck hill, when an Indian came from an adjoining wood, and expressed an earnest desire to try the skill of a white man at wrestling. Cady, without hesitating, dropped his scythe and off, but never fulfilled his promise." Varnum induced his followers, both male and female, old and young, to make a full confession of all their sins in public, without regard to any of the generally received opinions of propriety or decency.

* For the following account of Killingly, its history, traditions, &c, the author is indebted to Asa G. Alexander, A. B., of East Killingly.

with his savage friend, who struggled long and hard to throw him down. But knowing that by a display of strength and skill he might render the Indians less hostility, was determined not to be worsted in this encounter: he made a desper-, and finally succeeded in flinging his antagonist But unexpectedly the head of struck upon the sharp points of the stubs of the brush just mown, which, on of the violence of the fall, perforated the skull and killed him instantly.

sequently to this, in 1720, Mr. Jacob Spalding, who had emi- in 1715 with the first settlers to the south parish, had a similar ure. The particulars are related by his descendants of the fourth tion as follows:

one day purchased of an Indian a deer skin, for which he paid him a tenor bill. somewhat intoxicated, forgot soon after that he had received it, and asked for a second time. Jacob of course paid no attention to such an unwarrantable and the Indian went away muttering revenge. The next day, while shingling a saw him returning with two companions. He leaped from the roof, met them, again asked to pay the price of the deer skin. He refused to comply, till one of y, who appeared to be the sachem of his tribe, said he had come to see 'fair avowed it to be honorable for two Indians to contend with one white man. Jacob, imagined he would have rather a difficult task to accomplish; but plucking up he exerted himself to the utmost, and on the very first encounter, laid them both ground, and gave them a 'sound drubbing.' The other, who was looking on, was disposed to assist his brethren, and gave them no other encouragement th n poor dogs! me hope he kill you both!!' However, Jacob, after 'pounding short time, suffered them to escape. But the next day he saw them coming again, individual who imagined himself his creditor, bearing a rifle, which he was in the ading. But in thrusting his hand into his pocket to find the ball, he drew out the bill which he had received two days before! Conscience-struck, he said to Jacob, coming to meet him, 'Me believe, now, Jacob, you paid me de tenor bill!' After ession, Jacob addressed the person who had come to see 'fair play.' 'You,' said have come to see fair play, what do you advise us to do with him?' 'Tie him to and whip him,' was the reply, which was done accordingly. And here a circumstance which shows to what extent the Indians carried their principle of honor. The in question, after this humiliating treatment, became so dejected that he fled from and was never heard of afterwards."

of these Indians embraced Christianity, and became partially ed. The celebrated Sampson Occum, of the Mohegan tribe, bed among them a few times. But the continual wars they had other tribes, made it impossible to persuade them all to conform precepts of the Gospel. As already intimated, the aborigines quarter were less fierce and warlike than the Pequots; yet the s were not entirely unprotected in case of any sudden emergency, had some influence in keeping their savage neighbors at peace. forts were built at the north parish, and another at Danielsonville, ins of which latter are still visible.

occasion only were the whites in danger. A warlike tribe came from the country Killingly, with the intention of murdering the whole white population. They a plain a quarter of a mile north of Alexander's Lake, and encamped beneath an oak tree. But the settlers, being apprized of their arrival, were busy in preparation e. One of them, in the mean time, sallied forth alone to the spot where the red men embled. At the same moment the sachem was seen climbing the oak to reconnoitre ry. He had scarcely time to look, when he felt the bullet of the above mentioned who, knowing him to be the chief, had deliberately raised his musket, and given him ound. Though the individual who did this bold act was alone, yet the Indians, that more lay concealed, and being without a leader, gave up the expedition. The troops arrived from Massachusetts, and encamped over night on the plain which ns had abandoned. The next day, they proceeded in pursuit of the enemy, after buried one of their number who had died of sickness.

Though the Indians of this quarter did not greatly annoy the whites, yet they had frequent quarrels with other tribes. To illustrate this we will relate a remarkable event which is received from tradition.

The Narragansetts residing near Stonington by the sea shore, invited the Nipmucks about Danielsonville, to "come down," and attend a feast of "shell fish." The invitation was accepted, the latter partook of the fish, were highly pleased, and in return invited the former to "come up," and attend a feast of "lamprey eels," which was to be ready after the lapse of two moons. The Nipmucks returned home, and immediately busied themselves in catching fish for the occasion. At the appointed time, a considerable portion of the men belonging to the Narragansett tribe, leaving their squaws at home to cultivate the ground and prepare food for those of the warriors left behind to guard their possessions, proceeded on a journey of thirty miles through a wilderness, to share the hospitality of their friends at Killingly. They arrived in safety, and found the feast all prepared. Both parties seated themselves on logs. The squaws were then ordered to bring forward the fish in the kettles in which they had been cooked. A convenient supply was then provided for each of the guests, who, perceiving that they were cooked without dressing, were disgusted and refused to partake. As it was too late to remedy the matter, there was a pause. Ashamed and vexed to think they had spent so much trouble in inviting the Narragansetts to travel a distance of thirty miles to attend a feast which they could not relish, the Nipmucks proceeded to "hard words," which their guests retorted with too much spirit to be borne. The Nipmucks seized their weapons and attacked their guests, who were unarmed. Many Nipmucks fell: but of the Narragansetts all perished but two, who crossed the Quinnebaug and fled to their tribe, bearing the news of the massacre.

Not long after, the remaining portion of the tribe came up, armed with their bows and arrows, to avenge the slaughter of their countrymen. Their march was on the western side of the Quinnebaug in Brooklyn, till they arrived about half a mile below Danielsonville, where the Nipmucks were seen encamped on the east side in Killingly. The latter saw them coming, and hastened to give them battle; being warmly received, however, they dug a trench in the sandy soil on the bank of the river, and repelled the Narragansetts, who being unable to cross, entrenched themselves in the same manner on the opposite side. Both parties being greatly exasperated, continued fighting three days. The surviving Narragansetts, at the end of the third day, retreated, and left the Nipmucks to bury their dead. The entrenchments are still visible, as well as the skeletons of the Indians who perished. Both those who were slain at the massacre, and those who fell in battle, were buried in pits, which were filled with bodies almost to the surface of the ground. The space thus occupied is about a quarter of an acre. Many of their bones have been dug up and carried away by the curious. The tradition adds, that on account of the wickedness of this transaction, the earth around this spot was blasted by a curse, so that to this day not a blade of grass will grow over the bodies of those murdered Narragansetts!

By such petty contests and the treachery of the whites, the Indians of this part of the country gradually disappeared. Within fifteen years an aged and pious female, named Martha, the last lineal descendant of the tribe residing here, has gone to repose in the burial place of her fathers, and no red people have been seen here since, except occasionally in small bands for the purpose of fishing. Thus much of the Indians. We might entertain our readers with stories of witches, goblins and hobgoblins, if we had nothing of more consequence to place before them. There are however two remarkable circumstances, probably connected with natural phenomena, which we will relate. The first, which we gather from the lips of aged individuals still living, is as follows:

"The autumn before the American Revolution, the people of this town, who had long been expecting hostilities to commence, were one day alarmed by what they took to be the continued discharge of cannon and small arms to the northeast, in the direction of Boston. The noise continued all day and night, with scarcely any intermission. The sounds heard, it is said, exactly resembled those of musketry and field pieces. First would be heard a loud report and then smaller ones, 'slam bang, slam bang,' to use the language of those who relate the circumstance. The impression that the British were coming was so strong that most of the inhabitants mustered in a body to await orders for marching to Boston. In a few days, however, contrary to expectation, they learned that no battle had taken place, and that no discharge of cannon or small arms had been made between this town and Boston. Whether the sounds proceeded from the explosion of meteors or not, we are unable to say; but the persons who heard them, considered them as forerunners of the war, which actually began six months from that time."

The second circumstance was told us by an aged and respected man, Mr. Nell Alexander, who remembers it perfectly well, as also the remarkable sounds alluded to above. We give it in his own words:

"In the American Revolution, just before the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, I was returning from a visit to Providence, R. I. I had arrived in Killingly, and was within four miles of my residence at Alexander's Lake. It was a bright and clear night, without any moon. I think it was half past ten, when I accidentally looked up and saw a most brilliant sight. A very little south of the zenith, extending east and west in the sky, lay an arch composed of mounted cannon, with their muzzles pointed towards the south. Their color was that of the Aurora Borealis. I viewed them a long while and attempted to number them; but being in a wood, I was unable to discern those which lay near the horizon. I then hurried on to overtake a friend, whose attention I wished to direct to the phenomenon. My horse being fatigued, however, I did not reach him till the remarkable sight had disappeared. I related the event to every person I saw for a long period afterwards, but could find no one who had seen it besides myself, until I happened one day to be on a visit to my uncle, Mr. Levens, who is no longer living. In the course of conversation, without knowing that I had seen it, he related precisely the same circumstances which I have just related myself. He was in Killingly at the time, and but a few miles from the place where I was. He informed me that he took the trouble of counting the cannon, and as he was in a convenient situation for the purpose, he doubted not that he had numbered them all. The whole number was 64. They were removed at a small distance from each other, well mounted and in a regular line."

The first meeting house erected in Killingly, stood on a plain a quarter of a mile south of the present building at the north parish. It was subsequently removed to the spot on Breakneck hill, given to the town as a burial ground by Mr. Eliezer Warren. Afterwards it occupied the ground where the town house now stands, at the "Centre," at which place one of its pastors was Mr. Burroughs, father of the celebrated rogue. The present building, which stands at the north parish, is placed on the highest ground in Killingly, in view of Thompson and Pomfret meeting houses; it is very neatly constructed, and was erected in 1818. It belongs to the Congregational denomination. The first pastor of the Congregational church in this town was the Rev. John Fisk. It contained at its organization, Oct. 19th, 1715, eleven members. Besides this church, two others were subsequently organized, one at Westfield, and another at the south parish, both of the same denomination with the one already mentioned.

A curious fact is related of one of the first pastors of the north parish church, who was accustomed to keep credit of the presents made him by his parishioners. In reading the credits for one week, it was found they consisted of four lines, making an harmonious couplet with perfect rhyme and measure. It is curious, as illustrating the state of things in those days, and certainly deserves to be snatched from oblivion. We give it in the form current at the present day.

"Nell Alexander - - - - a few little fishes
David Copp - - - - - a goose
Sampson Howe - - - - - a junk of beef
J. Dean - - - - - - a pair of shoes!"

As connected with this denomination, one individual pastor of the north parish church deserves particular notice.

The Rev. Elisha Atkins, who was ordained pastor of this church in 1783, is still living, at the advanced age of 86 years. This individual's name deserves remembrance, inasmuch as he has spent a long life in unwearied diligence in the service of God and his country. He graduated at Yale College in 1773, and immediately entered upon his studies for the ministry. When the Revolution broke out, he entered the U. S. army, and served during the war as chaplain; was present at the taking of Burgoyne, and witnessed various other important occurrences where the division which he joined was engaged. He commenced his ministry here, as already intimated, at the close of the American Revolution, and remained constant in his duties of pastor till within about four years of the present time. Since then, his strength failing, he has officiated only occasionally. In spite of his advanced age, he even now possesses considerable energy both of body and mind, and a health for which he is indebted to the severe exercise taken in youth. He is universally beloved by the members of his church.

The Baptist meeting house was erected in 1807, and placed under the pastoral care of Elder Cooper. The old building still stands on Chesnut hill. The new one, which is just completed, (1836,) stands about a mile south of the old one, at that part of the hill where it is in full view of the villages along "Pleasant Valley."

Killingly contains an area of 57½ square miles. The surface of the country is much broken. The principal streams are the Quinnebaug or Assawoggo Quinnebaug, the Five Mile, which joins the Quinnebaug at Danielsonville, and the White-stone brook, which empties into the Five Mile. These are all excellent mill streams. The White-stone brook has its origin in Killingly pond, formerly called Mashentuck pond, a piece of water partly in Connecticut and partly in Rhode Island, which has lately been increased by building a dam at the outlet, in order to allow the water to accumulate in wet weather. In this manner it has become one of the most valuable streams possessed by any manufacturing company in the state. The other streams are the Quandeck and Kies branch, the latter issuing from a pretty piece of water, surrounded by forests, and called the Quinnebaug pond.

The most delightful portion of Killingly, in respect to scenery, is around a small sheet of water, with an outlet to the Quinnebaug, lying in the western part of the town, formerly known to the Indians as Lake Mashapaug, but now called Alexander's Lake. It received its present appellation from an individual of the name of Nell Alexander, who settled at that spot in 1720, and was himself proprietor of a great portion of the town. As this person gained his wealth in a manner which illustrates the antiquity of the propensity of the inhabitants of this state to the once honored, yet now despised employment of peddling, we will trouble you with a short notice of his history. He came from Scotland, with a great number of other emigrants, in a ship which was to land them at Boston. Just before leaving the ship he discovered a gold ring upon deck, for which he could find no owner. Thus fortunately provided, after his arrival he pawned the gold ring for small articles of trade, which he peddled in Boston and Roxbury. He was very prosperous, and finally became able to redeem the author of his success, and pursue his business without embarrassment. After a few years of constant activity, he acquired sufficient property to purchase a plantation of 3,500 acres in Killingly. The gold ring was transmitted as a sort of talisman, to his only son Nell, who transferred it to his only son Nell; who is now living at an advanced age, and has already placed it in the hands of his grandson Nell; and so it doubtless continue from Nell to Nell, agreeably to the request of the first Nell, until the last knell of the race is tolled !"

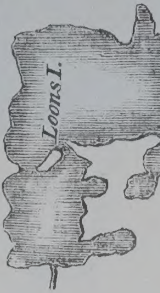
In order to view the scenery to advantage, the observer should station himself on an eminence north of the lake in question. The eye first meets a broadly extended surface of water, with a beautiful margin of sand and pebbles, skirted by woods of tall trees. A little further south appears a part of the lake smaller than the first, containing a beautiful little island, called Loon's island, frequented by all kinds of birds of passage at different seasons of the year. Eagles not unfrequently alight upon it in their passage north and south. The fullest extent of the lake is one mile. Its form is very accurately represented in the annexed sketch. Want of space will not allow us to be very diffuse in describing it. Its beauties seem to have struck even the rude early settlers with admiration. We have been favored with the remains of a poem, written in a moment of inspiration. It was discovered in an old garret, and bears upon it the marks of time. We could recover only the following fragment, not remarkable for preserving very correct rhyme and measure, yet valuable as affording a specimen of the quaint style of those times.



> "Betweene Five Mile and Quinebaug,
> Which sounding through rockye Vales loud and hoarse,
> From every Hill and Meadow Bog
> Receive Supplies, and onward bende theire Course ;
> Enclosed around by Groves and various Trees,
> With Shore of Sand and Skye of Blue,
> With Water gently ruffled by the Breeze,
> Lake Mashapaug douthe meete oure View !"

To account for the origin of this lake, a singular tradition has been handed down to us by the aborigines. It is as follows :

"In ancient times, when the red men of this quarter had long enjoyed prosperity, that is, when they had found plenty of game in the woods, and fish in the ponds and rivers, they at length fixed a time for a general powwow, a sort of festival for eating, drinking, smoking, singing and dancing. The spot chosen for this purpose was a sandy hill, or mountain, covered with tall pines, occupying the situation where the lake now lies. The powwow lasted four days in succession, and was to continue longer, had not the Great Spirit, angered at the licentiousness which prevailed there, resolved to punish them. Accordingly, while the red people in immense numbers were capering about upon the summit of the mountain, it suddenly "gave way" beneath them, and sunk to a great depth, when the water from below rushed up and covered them all, except one good old squaw, who occupied one of the peaks, which now bears the name of Loon's Island. Whether the tradition is entitled to credit or not, we will do it justice by affirming that in a clear day, when there is no wind and the surface of the lake is smooth, the huge trunks and leafless branches of gigantic pines may be occasionally seen in the deepest part of the water, some of them reaching almost to the surface, in such huge and fantastic forms as to cause the beholder to startle !"

As regards the other portions of the scenery there is nothing remarkable. The hills are still covered with forests ; but the vales, through which flow the principal rivers, are lined with factory villages. The population of the town is now about 4,000. The ancient forests are fast yielding to the axe of the farmer, who supplies the villages with wood. The game in the woods, and fish in the ponds and rivers, are not as plenty as formerly, to the regret of the old inhabitants, who look upon factories and other improvements as an evil. The soil is hard, but productive under proper cultivation. The animals reared upon it are robust and healthy. The same may be said of the inhabitants. This town, however, has possessed no very distinguished men "who have gone off the stage."

Yet it were injustice not to mention the name of one no longer living, who became celebrated in the chase. I mean Mr. Prosper Leffingwell, a respected resident of this place, who, though he followed the humble occupation of hunting, yet became so expert, and enjoyed a reputation so widely extended, that I might deeply wound the feelings of all his now aged companions in the same profession, who revere him as a superior spirit, were I to omit to notice him in speaking of this town. It were useless to attempt to detail all the events which marked the career of this famous sportsman. He was the terror of the foxes and rabbits for ten miles around. Many instances I might relate to illustrate the degree of skill to which he attained, but let one suffice. It is said that on one occasion, while returning home from hunting, he met three foxes advancing towards him "all in a row." As his gun was not loaded, he seized a stone, and directed it, as well as he was able, in a straight line towards their heads. Wonderful to tell, he brought them all down! He gazed a moment in astonishment. He found he had struck the first in the nose, the second in the hip, and the third in the forehead—all with the same stone! The first was not quite dead, the second was badly lamed, but the third showed no signs of life whatever. While chasing the second, the first recovered and scampered away. Had he sprung upon them the moment he saw them fall, he might have secured the three.

Killingly is the greatest cotton manufacturing town in the state. Of the cotton factories we give the following recent statement.

On the White-Stone Brook.	Spindles.	On the Five Mile.	Spindles.
Hon. Ebenezer Young's,	2,500	Killingly Factory,	1,628
Richard Bartlett's,	400	Ballou's,	1,500

A. F. Alexander's,	1,200	Dayville,	1,500
Thomas Pray & Co.,	1,200	Danielson,	2,800
Hutchins,	1,500	Williams's, on Quinnebaug,	2,500
Total	11,000	Total,	13,428

Total for the whole town,—24,428 spindles, with looms in proportion. The trade is carried on mostly with Providence, R. I. Besides these cotton factories, there are 3 woolen mills, 1 furnace, and 1 axe factory. There are but few other manufactories of much consequence.

"Pleasant Valley" contains the first six cotton factories enumerated in the list. The villages are all in sight of each other, and make a beautiful view from the top of Chesnut hill.

Dayville is a thriving little village. It is attractive for its neat appearance, and for a bridge composed of two finely constructed stone arches, each 25 feet broad and 12 feet high.

Danielsonville is an important village at the junction of the Quinnebaug and Five Mile rivers, 3 miles east of Brooklyn, 25 miles north of Norwich city, 43 miles east of Hartford, and 37 miles south of Worcester.

The following view shows the appearance of Danielsonville as it is entered from the west, upon the Brooklyn road. The four story building with a steeple, is the Danielsonville cotton factory, containing 1,800 spindles; between this building and the observer, the bridge over the Quinnebaug is seen.

As regards natural resources, Killingly abounds in them. Breakneck hill, a considerable eminence between the White-stone brook and Five Mile river, bears on its elevated surface numerous quarries of free stone. These quarries rise above the general surface, presenting ab-and in some cases lofty precipices to the east, and gentle slopes west. The stone is of a high order. It is obtained in slabs of every dimension, and is nearly perfectly even in structure, pre-g, if any, at least very slight inequalities. It is very hard, and fore little liable to break in removing it from the quarry. It has a m color, approaching to white. As the slabs of this rock lie in clined position, they can be detached with the most perfect facil-

There are other kinds of slate rock in Killingly, which have the rance of granite, but are quite soft, and consequently more easily ht for the purpose of building. The latter kind lies most abunbout Killingly pond. There is still another kind of slate rock sid at the south parish. Its composition is granular quartz, and it sses a color nearly or entirely white. It is a very valuable stone alks, inasmuch as it is quite soft and yielding. It is obtained in but is mostly below the general surface of the ground, and is not ular in its structure as the other kinds mentioned. When the ich and Worcester rail road shall have been completed, these will become a source of gain to the owners, who could easily port them to New York. Under present circumstances, however, at the distance of 22 miles from Providence, which is the near-port, the profit of traffic in this article is inconsiderable, and con-ntly but few stones have been taken away.

shentuck hill next deserves mention. It is a considerable emicomprising a circuit of two or three miles, terminating in an ab-steep at the southern extremity of "Pleasant Valley," and "bearn its back" a rich bed of porcelain clay, which has been pro-ed by competent judges to equal the best French or Chinese clay.
feldspar, too, accompanies it in a solid form, and is abundant. It discovered while digging a well. For a few feet below the surface ground the clay was mixed somewhat with vegetable matter;

THOMPSON.

MPSON was formerly a part of Killingly, and was settled about It was incorporated as a distinct town in 1785. It is said to derived its name from the circumstance of a considerable part of wnship being owned by a Mr. Thompson, of England. A part land was held in his name till about the year 1800. "It is diffi- ascertain who were the first settlers of the town. It was mostly ed by royal patents to Thompson, Saltonstall, Wolcotts, Hum- Davy, and others. The first old parchment deed is now in the um* in Thompson, dated April 10th, 1716, and is from Josiah ott, and Mary his wife, of Salem, Mass. to John Sabin, and is for or 500 acres in the centre of the town, and bounded on the above yal grants." The eastern part of the town was formerly called uc or Quanduck. Thompson forms the northeastern corner of ounty and state: it is bounded N. by Massachusetts, E. by Rhode d, S. by Killingly, and W. by Woodstock and Pomfret. The ship is nearly eight miles square, and comprises an area of 59 re miles. The Quinnebaug passes through the eastern part of the ; in its course it receives the French river. Thompson is a rich ultural and manufacturing town, and the inhabitants are dis- ished for their spirit of enterprise. The surface of the township its an interesting variety of hills and valleys; many of the hills quite elevated, but no portion of it can be called mountainous prevailing soil is a gravelly loam, strong and dry, well adapted to ulture of Indian corn, wheat and clover, and generally excellent grazing. There is a great supply of valuable stone for walls and ings. There are 4 houses of worship in the town, 2 for Baptists, ngregational, and 1 Methodist.

he following is a southern view of the Congregational church and buildings in the vicinity, in the central part of the town. The ge, which is situated on a commanding eminence, consists of about ell built dwelling houses, 4 mercantile stores, 1 bank, (the Thomp- bank,) and a printing office. At the time the following drawing taken, a new Baptist church was erecting. It is situated a few north of the Congregational church. This place is 14 miles from klyn, 34 from Norwich, 47 from Hartford, 27 from Providence and om Boston. There are in the town 6 or 7 cotton factories, which n extensive business. There are also two or three woolen factories. sonville, on French river, is perhaps the largest manufacturing e in the town, and is about a mile and a half from the centre. factory at this place was formerly called the "Swamp Factory," its being situated in a marshy spot. Fishersville is about a mile , on the same stream. The village of New Boston is situated in orthwest corner of the town, about six miles from the centre; the e is built on both sides of the Quinnebaug.

The museum of Mr. Davis, contains the largest and best collection in Geology of any country.

Thompson was a favorite residence of the Nipmuck Indians. Quinatisset, one of their chiefs, had a splendid wigwam near where the present Congregational church now stands ; their strong hold, however, was on Fort hill, about three fourths of a mile easterly ; the foundations of their fortress can now be traced. The adjoining forests, now covered with ancient trees, still display their corn fields, in rows and hills, as regular as the best farmer would now have them. The neighboring streams and ponds afforded them great supplies of fish. The Chargoggagoggmanchogaggogg Pond, situated partly in this town, and partly in Webster, Mass. is said to be sixty miles in circumference, if followed in all its indentations. It is studded with beautiful islands, and was considered the paradise of the Nipmucks and their women. There fish and game were in abundance, and there, they believed, were the enchanted islands and Elysian Fields, the abode of departed souls, and the residence of the Great Spirit.

Thompson was made a society, for ecclesiastical purposes, by the General Assembly, in their session in May, 1728. It was called Thompson parish, being then a part of the town of Killingly. The first sermon ever preached in the place was by a Mr. Wales, on the first Sunday in August of that year. On Feb. 25th, 1730, a church consisting of 27 members was organized, and on the same day the Rev. Marston Cabot, from Salem, Mass. was ordained their first minister. The attending clergy on this occasion were Mr. Coit from Plainfield, Mr. Throope of Woodstock, Mr. Fisk of Killingly, Mr. Hale of Ashford, and Mr. Williams of Pomfret. "Mr. Cabot was a man of great piety, and of most amiable and engaging manners, and a descendant of the famous Sebastian Cabot. He died in the midst of his labors, in his pulpit, from a fit, in 1755."

The next minister was the Rev. Noadiah Russell, from Middletown, who was ordained Nov. 19th, 1757. The clergymen present were

WINDHAM COUNTY AND PROVIDENCE.

The capital of Rhode Island and this northeast corner of Connecticut have held close and continuous relations. And even before there was a Providence or a Windham County, before a sectional boundary line had crossed the face of New England territory and its fields and forests lay open to wild beasts and wilder savages, these sections held continuous communication. The Narragansetts claimed right to territory east of the Quinebaug river. The great lake — Chan-bon-a-gong-a-monk (bound-mark) now in Webster—marked the bound between sea-board Narragansetts and inland Nipmucks, dwelling in Nipnet — the pond or fresh water country. The stronger Narragansetts held in close subjection the feeble clans or tribelets of Nipmucks. Tradition preserved but one instance of successful revolt, interesting to us as showing the early date of that peculiar Rhode Island institution—the original, aboriginal, perennial clambake.

The Nipmuck tributaries in the vicinity of Lake Mashapaug (now Alexander's) were invited to partake of a shore dinner of shell-fish, which it need hardly be said they devoured with great relish. But when their hosts in due time returned the visit, nothing was offered them but lamprey eels served without dressing. The daintier Narragansetts scoffed at this plain fare and a free fight followed, in which but two of the Narragansetts were spared to carry back the tale of insult and defeat. A band of warriors was straightway sent up to avenge their brethren, but were again forced to quail before the arrows of the entrenched and triumphant Nipmucks, and retired from the field, leaving their dead behind them. The bodies of the slain were interred in deep pits at the junction of the Quinebaug and Assawaga rivers, a spot still known as "the Indian Burying Ground," in Danielson, where many Indian relics have been unearthed. The name Aspinock, designating the Quinebaug valley near Lake Mashapaug, is translated by J. Hammond Trumbull—"an eating place," and may have received its name from this encounter, which surviving Nipmucks detailed to the first white settlers. The Narragansetts would doubtless have given a very different version.

After settlement by the whites, and particularly after the Uncas claim to Mohegan and Wabbaquasset countries had been allowed by the Government of Connecticut, the Narragansetts found it difficult to maintain their footing within Connecticut lines. Moosup, alias Pessacus, a war-like chieftain, brother to Miantonomo, affixed his name to the largest branch of the Quinebaug, and struggled manfully to retain the Quinebaug country now included in the towns of Plainfield and Canterbury, but according to Roger Williams, in 1668, the Nipmucks had then for a long time renounced allegiance to the Narragansetts, and the border-land between Connecticut and Rhode Island was but a patch of ground, full of troublesome inhabitants, sandy, stony, and scarce worth fighting for. During King Philip's war these inhabitants sought shelter at the headquarters of their respective tribes, and the barren patch was made more waste by ravages of roving bands, carrying off all the corn and swine that could be found therein. Its first white Providence visitants were a company under Capt. Nathaniel Thomas, who scoured the country far and wide in pursuit of the fugitive King Philip. The night of August 3, 1675, they reached the second fort in the Nipmuck country, called by the Indians—Wap-o-sosh-e-quash—Wabbaquasset, a mile west of the present Woodstock Hill. Capt. Thomas reports—"a very good inland country, well watered with rivers and brooks: special good land, great quantities of special good corn and beans, and stately wigwams as I never saw the like." These wigwams were built under the direction of one of the Apostle Elliott's Indian preachers, Sampson, and bear striking testimony to the success of his faithful labors.

Within ten years after the visit of Capt. Thomas and the close of the war the fertile fields of Wabbaquasset had been appropriated by our sharp-sighted sister, Massachusetts, and a flourishing colony from Roxbury had planted the town of Woodstock. Though bound by ties of allegiance and blood to Boston, these Woodstock settlers soon found themselves drawn to the nearer market at Providence, and one of their first public acts, after formal town organization, was a vote "To be at the charge of making a way unto the cedar swamp on the other side of the Quinebaug River for a road to Providence—Benjamin Sabin to do the work and Peter Aspinwall if he can't do it." Our friend Peter accomplished the work in the course of a few years, making a narrow way suitable for foot or horseback travel. The greater part of this way ran through the outlands of the distant town, as yet a barren wilderness, with only here and there the cabin of some hardy pioneer, furnishing food and shelter for man and beast.

As Pomfret, Killingly, and other Connecticut towns struggled into being, they too claimed the privilege of better communication with Providence, and selectmen from the new towns joined with those of Woodstock in petitioning Providence town council to help at their end of the work. Committees from Killingly, Pomfret, and Woodstock were chosen to meet at sun an hour high, October 3, 1710, "To state a place over the Quinebaug River most commodious for a bridge to meet the prospective highway," but ten years passed before road or bridge was accomplished. The southerly towns gained first the right of way. Travel from Norwich and Windham passed through Plainfield over the "old Greenwich Path," an Indian trail "trod out" by early Narragansett claimants.

The General Assembly of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations met this need by voting in 1711, that a highway should be laid out through Providence, Warwick, and West Greenwich to Plainfield. Representations were made to the General Assembly of Connecticut that travelers to the westward from Boston and Providence, met with great difficulty and were exposed to great danger for want of a suitable country road through Plainfield and on to the colony. The famous journal of Madam Knight, 1704, gives a most graphic picture of the condition of the roads, and the discomforts experienced in traveling from Boston to New York, through Connecticut and the Narragansett Country at that date. Our colony promptly responded to Rhode Island's suggestion. A committee was appointed; land was freely given by Plainfield proprietors, and a good and sufficient causeway was constructed four rods wide and eight rods wide at intervals for the convenience of loaded carts in passing each other. A safe and sufficient bridge was thrown over the Moosup, and canoes provided for transit over the turbulent and formidable Quinebaug. This improved and convenient highway became a popular thoroughfare, greatly facilitating communication between Boston and Providence and New York, called the best and nearest route that had then been opened between those business centres, and aiding much in the development of these towns and the intervening country. Eastern Connecticut now found in Providence her nearest market and base of supplies. The boundary quarrel that raged so fiercely in the vicinity of Pawcatuck river was confined to southern sections, and pleasant, neighborly intercourse was constantly maintained between Windham, Plainfield, and Canterbury settlers and their favorite market town.

The northerly road, through Pomfret and Killingly, was much behind time in construction, mainly because it was carried through by the towns apart from Government aid. Peter Aspinwall's bridle-path was long the only means of communication, even barrels of rum having to be brought up on horseback lashed on trees and dragged behind the rider. The road was finally accomplished under the supervision of Nathaniel Sessions, of Pomfret, who drove the first cart over it to Providence in 1721. His son, Darius, future deputy-governor of Rhode Island, then ten years old, may be said figuratively to have driven in the last spike—the youngster claiming the honor of conducting the oxen into the town. In the following year the long-coveted bridge was placed over the Quinebaug at the High Falls (now in Putnam) by Capt. John Sabin.

With these two important thoroughfares open to the public, intercourse between the inhabitants of the neighboring colonies became more and more frequent and friendly. Heavy carts laden with country produce; horse-back riders with pillion and saddle-bag; foot-travelers with packs, way worn and weary, were ever passing to and fro. Hartford might be the political centre of these Connecticut towns, but Providence drew them by the stronger ties of business relations and social affinities.

And yet from the outset there was a radical difference between a Rhode Islander and a Connecticut man. The Rhode Islander affected white corn; a golden yellow was the true hue for Connecticut. A Rhode Islander might go to church and build a house of worship if he fancied—the Connecticut man was compelled by law to build a meeting-house and go to meeting. It is a little amusing to read in some local town history the glorifications over these "good men who in their own poverty and scarceness made immediate provision for public worship, &c." Of course they did this, and in the majority of cases did it freely and heartily, and yet the truth remains that the law compelled them to do it, and they risked the loss of their township by failure. Woodstock, unable by the difficulties of Sir Edward Andros' administration to build their house and settle a minister promptly, felt constrained to make most humble acknowledgment for being in some respects "out of capacity;" and beg the General Court "that the great overturns that had been might excuse this omission." The patent of Killingly, granted in 1708, expressly provided "That no person now inhabiting on said land, or any other persons dwelling without this colonie who have purchased any lands within the said township, that shall not give due obedience to all the laws of the colonie for the upholding the worship of God paying of all public charges shall have no benefit by this act." The redundance of negatives makes this injunction more emphatic.

Trained from infancy to consider the stated establishment of religious worship as the first and chief duty of state and town Government, it is not surprising that our Windham County visitors and sojourners should be scandalized and grieved at Rhode Island's destitution. As this lack of ministers and meeting-houses became more apparent with increasing intercourse, their hearts were moved to missionary efforts in their behalf, and in 1722, the year that the Quinebaug bridge was erected, a petition was sent to the General Assembly of Connecticut, praying that a brief might be granted in several congregations, gathering contributions from such as were piously inclined towards introducing and carrying on the ministry of the Gospel in the town of Providence. The Governor and Council graciously granted this request and a brief was sent out, directed to minister or deacon of a number of eastern Connecticut churches, including those in Windham, Canterbury, Plainfield, Pomfret, and Killingly, empowering them to make collection for this purpose. This missionary movement in behalf of benighted Providence had been set on foot by some zealous ministers of Massachusetts, who addressed a letter to the deputy-governor and other eminent men of Providence, in which, after commending the peace and love with which religious societies of different modes of worship had been entertained in Rhode Island, and the freedom and safety they had enjoyed in preaching, they most humbly begged their countenance and encouragement if it should come to pass that a small meeting-house should be built in their town to entertain such as are willing to hear our ministers. Deacon Jonathan Sprague's reply to this humble request fairly makes our ears tingle. Genuine Rhode Island sauce has a very pungent quality.

In spite of this rebuff a Congregational meeting-house was built on the corner of College and Benefit streets, and served for many years as a beacon of Puritan orthodoxy among the Baptists, Quakers, and Independents of free-thinking Rhode Island.

With passable roads and suitable provision for Sabbath-keeping, emigration to Providence assumed a more permanent character. Young men averse to farming found employment in other lines of labor. Boys went to sea and found places in stores. Enterprising young men of better education, like Darius Sessions, tried their chances in the growing town. Some went back in time for the girls they left behind them. Others found wives in their new home. An elaborate entry in Thompson church records, in mammoth letters, with the blackest of ink, records the marriage, 30 September, 1739, of Capt. Nicholas Cook of Providence, to Mrs. Hannah Sabin, daughter of Capt. Hezekiah Sabin, first settler of Thompson Hill, and proprietor of its famous old red tavern in the centre of the common. As the bride was only eighteen we may assume that this honorary title was given her out of respect for the dignity of her own and her husband's social position, or, perhaps, with a prophetic sense of the honors that awaited her as the wife of a governor and mother of a dozen stalwart Rhode Islanders.

Capt. Sabin's successor in the tavern was a typical Rhode Islander, Benjamin Wilkinson, one of the class of roving Yankees described by Washington

Irving, whose idea of settlement in life is to set out upon his rambles. It is said that he kept tavern in every stand between Providence and Connecticut's north-east corner. When he brought up against Massachusetts line, on a beautiful farm west of the Quinebaug—now in New Boston—people thought he had come to stay, but destiny met him in the shape of a shabby old traveler who carelessly asked what he would take for the premises. Mr. Wilkinson named a high figure and thought no more of it till in a few weeks the shabby old man appeared before him with a bag-full of gold and silver ready to clinch the bargain. Amused at the incident, and always ready for travel, Mr. Wilkinson resigned the farm and purchased the tavern stand on Thompson Hill, where his energies found ample exercise. He hauled off the stones, dug out aboriginal tree stumps, and planted peach-stones by every rock and along the highway for public accommodation. Through all his wanderings he carried with him Rhode Island ideas and white seed corn, and while serving as committee for the standing society and opening his house to accommodate the Congregationalists in winter, he gave sympathy and building spot to the struggling Baptists. On one occasion only he came into collision with church authorities—that fatal Sunday when a grind-stone was heard in his door-yard, just across the road from the meeting-house, creaking rustily through all the services. A deputation of worthies was sent to remonstrate with the offender. Mr. Wilkinson promptly denied the charge. "But we hear it now," persisted the complainants. "See for yourself," retorted the smiling landlord, pointing out to the committee a pair of Guinea fowl, the first brought into the town and yet untrained in the strictness of Connecticut Sabbath-keeping, whose doleful croak, aggravated by homesickness, had subjected their owner to such reproach and visitation.

It was probably through Mr. Wilkinson's effective influence that a new business interest developed in the north-east town of the county. The first public attempt to trade with Providence was through a peculiar local institution known as "the Butter-cart," which ran about the town from house to house like the later peddler's cart, picking up such small products as housewives could spare, and bringing back in exchange those minor luxuries that husbands too often overlooked or refused to purchase. A small nutmeg cost a ninepence in those days, and as for pins, a single paper was considered a life-long supply. Stories are told of mothers bringing up a large family on four rows, and grandmothers exhibiting with pride the "great pins" that had formed a part of their bridal outfit. The "Butter-cart" was held in high esteem by wives and daughters, and its arrival and departure looked for with as much interest as if it bore the treasures of the Indies.

In the hands of Mr. Wilkinson's son-in-law, Daniel Larned, and his partner, John Mason, this primitive barter-trade expanded into a great commercial enterprise. A store was opened under the Great Elm, South Neighborhood, filled with all manner of tempting West India goods and useful articles. Carts were sent all over the country, picking up marketable products. Ashes were taken in for the extraction of potash and pearlash, pork and beef were prepared and packed for market; a shop was added for nail manufacture—all to be exchanged for West India goods in Providence—especially those most needful and desirable articles—rum and molasses. The arrival of the first hogshead of the latter article at "Larned and Mason's store" was made a day of special festivity—boys being allowed for the first time to revel unstinted in the favorite juvenile dainty of the period—hot roasted potatoes smothered in panfuls of molasses, and crammed all sizzling and dripping down the throats of the happy urchins. The candy of later days was far less positive in flavor.

The close of the French and Indian war was followed by a season of great commercial and maritime prosperity, shared alike by town and country. Business enterprises like this in Thompson were not unusual. Samuel McClellan, of Woodstock, engaged in this domestic and foreign traffic. The country village was in process of evolution. Store and shop were added to the small knot of dwelling-houses clustering about the hill-top meeting-house and tavern. The out-lying district first included within the limits of Providence township was now set off into the separate towns of Cranston, Glocester, Scituate, Smithfield. The great highways leading through them to Providence were more and more thronged with travelers and traffic. Substantial bridges over the Quinebaug had long replaced the primitive canoes. Taverns were in great force in those days of slow traveling and fast drinking. Eaton's tavern in Plainfield was now a famous place of resort and entertainment. The constant stream of travel made it very difficult to keep these roads and bridges in suitable repair. The need of better roads was vociferously argued in town meeting and General Assembly. Special orders relating to their renewal and maintenance were promulgated by both Governments. Plainfield and Canterbury were particularly burthened by highway demands and charges. In fact the road question was one of perennial agitation. The first mail carrier of whom we hear was Thomas Mumford, who carried the mail once a week on horseback to New London. The first public conveyance passing through Windham County was a weekly stage coach running from Providence to Norwich, in the summer of 1768. Mr. S. Thurber reports the first chaise-jaunt in 1776, when, after all the labor bestowed upon it, the road was so stony and rough that he could not ride out of a slow walk, and was near two days in going to Pomfret. Dr. Stiles, of Newport, future president of Yale College, makes statistical notes of his many journeys over the Providence road, which unfortunately give little more than date and distances. "From Uncle Abel's (Woodstock) to Browns of Killingly, 8 miles: thence to Larneds' store, 2 miles: thence to Woodstock, 7 miles; from Uncles' to Wilmots, 17 miles: from Woodstock to Providence, 34 miles: from Pomfret to Providence, 36 miles. Expenses at Prov. 3 shillings: at Foster's, 3s 3d: at Larned's, 5s 3d"—which shows that a great man may make a very dry record.

Among the reciprocal interchanges between Providence and Windham County we have to include criminals and refugees. The honored names of Stephen Hopkins, Resolved Waterman, William Rhodes, and other compassionate and large-hearted Rhode Islanders, appear upon a petition in behalf of the notorious Dr. Hallowell, who had "fled his country" upon conviction of criminal offence. An exile, destitute of everything but want and misery, he begged permission to return to an unhappy wife and seven unfortunate children, "who not participating in the guilt had too deeply tasted of the punishment." Fine and imprisonment alone he could have borne, but to sit upon the gallows with a rope around his neck, suffer public whipping and further punishment at the pleasure of the court, was thought by Dr. Hallowell and his Rhode Island sympathizers to be more than the laws of God did, or those of men should, inflict upon human offenders. Providence sent a noted refugee in John Aplin, an Englishman of learning and good address, who acquired a handsome estate by legal practice, but it being discovered that he had received fees from the opposing parties in an important case, "between two days fled his country" and found refuge in Plainfield. It need hardly be said that such refugees as were driven from home on charge of heretical or heterodox opinions, were received with open arms by the sister colony. The Rev. John Bass, who was dismissed from the Congregational church of Ashford "for dissenting from the Calvinistic sense of the quinquarticular points," was welcomed to the pastorate of the First Congregational church of Providence, upon the decease of its first pastor, Rev. Josiah Cotton. Rev. David Rowland of Plainfield, who had been made for a dozen years a bone of contention in that town, the church refusing to let him go and the town withholding his salary, found peaceful anchorage in the same church after the death of Mr. Bass. In place of writs, attachments, and noisy controversy, we are told by the newspaper of the day, December, 1767—that "young ladies, daughters of Liberty and industry, met at Mr. Rowland's with their spinning wheels, and at night presented him with 1,020 knots of thread."

The troubles with England, the shadow of approaching war, only made the intercourse between Providence and Windham County more intimate and continuous. Hitherto the tide of emigration had run eastward—now a reflex tide brought many worthy families to permanent establishment in Windham County. The Stamp Act excitement sent Godfrey Malbone, of Newport, to Brooklyn Parish, where he attempted something like the old Narragansett style of living with his three-thousand-acre farm, his scores of slaves, and church of his own order. But the great body of new-comers were families of moderate circumstances, who preferred to cultivate their farms and bring up their children apart from sea-board alarm and agitation. Chase, Congdon, Fisk, Bullock, Jackson, Hoppin, Randall, Thompson, Torrey, Tourtellotte, Wheaton, are among the many Rhode Island names thus engrafted. Others came as transient residents.

But Windham County did more than furnish a welcome refuge during this long period of distress and exposure. Perhaps her most noteworthy service was furnishing the colony a deputy-governor in full sympathy with patriotic sentiments and movements. Darius Sessions had continued to advance in influence and position. In 1762 he was chosen assistant; in 1769 he became deputy-governor and indirectly afforded much aid and comfort to those inclined to resist British oppression. His wilful blindness in regard to the "Burning of the Gaspee," called out much amusement as well as criticism. As the aspect of affairs became more threatening, Gov. Sessions purchased a country-seat in Thompson Parish—the "old Joseph Cady house" and farm. The reconstructed mansion became a famous place of resort during the war, entertaining many a noted historic personage. Pres. Manning, who, during college suspension made frequent visits in Windham County, speaks with admiration of Gov. Sessions' excellent farm and superior accommodations. The meanderings of the good president give us glimpses of many of these new homes:

"Left Providence, Thursday, April 29, reached Col. Abraham Winsors, 10 miles; 30. Traveled to John Brown's farm at Chepachet 6 miles; refreshed and proceeded to Capt. Corliss's, Killingly 12; road extremely bad; visited Mr. Jones; set out after dinner and visited Gov. Sessions. After tea traveled to Benj. Thurbers in Pomfret, 6 miles; roads better. Sunday A. M. Preached at James Thurbers; lectured at B. Thurber's at 5 P. M. house crowded; audience very attentive and affected. Monday. Visited Paul Tew at Woodstock, also at Mr. Cahoons, Thompsons, B. Lindsleys. Tues. Visited Col. Nightingales, Pomfret, dined. He lives most elegantly; has a grand farm; entertains hospitably. Thence to Jeremiah Browns and Captain Bowles's, Ashford."

town and barrack in the Court House & so it goes. 7. As soon as light got up & see the Continentals march for Tivertown; got some breakfast at Mr. Trips; very warm—I went to the New Light meeting-house & got a canteen, and about twelve we set out for Tivertown; marched through Pawtucket, into Seekonk or Rehoboth, and did lie in a meadow on the side of a fence. 8. Mustered about 2 or 3 o'clock, & marched into Swanzea & got a bowl of chocolate; and then over States Ferry into Freetown & ate dinner & very hot, & then over Fall River into Tivertown & I encamped by side of a haystack. 9. Had bowl of chocolate & went to Parade & fixed our guns for business; then rode over the ferry & landed upon Rhode Island; formed & marched up to the Fort & laid down in the great chamber 10. French did engage the English batteries with their ships and cannonaded very smart for 3 hours, and Jesse & John went to the lines scouting at night. I went upon guard to the bridge & did sleep on the road."

And that night came on that terrible Norther that drove the disabled French fleet far into the sea and blasted all the fruits of careful preparation—one of those fateful storms that again and again have changed the course of human history. Our poor Zeph gives his experience:

"11. Jesse & John fixed a little wall to break the wind & we have nothing to eat hardly. 12. Knocked about & built a stone house and covered it with hay and it rained very hard & the house leaked so we thought we could not stand it; went about a mile & got wet to the skin and found a haystack & almost chilled to death we rolled off some hay & did lie by the stack & were almost dead in the morning. 13. Crept out & came to stone house, found John alive & after a while I got dry & had a boil on my eye & did feel very poorly; our folks fixed up our barracks & got a little green corn & slept very well. 14. Got up and paraded & marched to the water & fired in platoons. 15. Not well, nor John either. All the brigades marched to the lines & we got our packs brought down & encamped in a huckleberry plain. I had a clean shirt and trousers & I felt very poorly; blind with one eye & not any tents; nor haint had but the Heavens to cover us. 17. Still very poorly; ate nothing. In the late storm one or two died and several were chilled so that many in our regiment are very unwell; cloudy & foggy ever since we came upon the Island.

19. A little firing on both sides. 20. They fire a little; are all the time entrenching and building forts; I wash my knapsack & feel some better. 21. Set out upon fatigue down the lines; had to dig in plain sight of the enemy; the ground was but just broken when they began to fire upon us very bad but received no damage. 23. Enemy fired hot shells & we begun the breast work for the great mortar. Jesse & John & I worked till noon & placed the great mortar. 24. Constant firing. 25. All paraded and went to headquarters; went three miles for rum. 26. Six or seven men killed; an 18-pounder split all to pieces & a brass mortar. 27. Paraded; took our cooking utensils & went to head-quarters & delivered them up, & marched through Portsmouth to Bristol Ferry & went on board a vessel & there was but little wind & that was wrong & we got along slowly & beat along almost to Conanicut Point & cast anchor and lay till light & then struck for Warwick Neck and landed and came along and got a good breakfast of wheat bread and milk and came through Pawtucket to Providence and Warwick into Smithfield to old Father Job Angells & got some victuals & I feel very poorly. Camp Middleton, Aug. 18, 1788." "Dec. 30, was paid $69.00 for soldiering on Rhode Island."

With this service our friend's military service closes, but the continued diary gives very realistic pictures of every-day life in this transition period. Zeph remains in the vicinity of Providence, picking up work wherever it can be found, digging stone, laying wall, fiddling, and dancing. When work fails in the winter he and his brother tramp round the country like young troubadours, dressing flax at farmers' houses on shares, making brooms, splitting rails, and fiddling. Again in Rhode Island in summer, working for Job Angell, Philip Sweet or Joseph Farman, running a farm for John Jenks, &c. Times are hard and the value of money fluctuating. He buys a scythe for $25.00, which he breaks in hanging; gives £59 48s for winter suit of coat, jacket, and breeches of light-colored cloth, and receives $81.00 for fiddling all night at John Smith's raisers' husking. Work is diversified by frequent frolic and dances; have two fiddles at some huskings, and drink without measure, for these were "high old times" in Rhode Island in spite of war and poverty.

As years go on our hero takes more note of public affairs. "March 6, 1781 Men gone to Newport for one month; news of peace: Reformation in the camp; Hear that fifteen tons of silver in French horn-pipes have come to Boston. March 14. Gen. Washington came into Providence from Newport. Sept. 14, 1782. This day died at Providence the Hon. Governor Cook (husband of our little Hannah Sabin.) March 31, 1783. A flag from New York says P. E. A. C. E; handbills say 'Peace;' April 25. A proclamation of Peace this day."

Zeph takes to himself a Rhode Island wife and tries hard to gain a livelihood. "June 16, 1784. Buy fifteen dozen cakes and liquor for Ordination Went to North Providence for Ordination and sold liquor and cakes and they danced all night." He fiddles at huskings and dances, but profitable work is hard to find. Times are still hard, and currency unsettled.

"June 24, 1788. Great rejoicings to-day on account of a new Constitution being framed and sent out to see if it will be ratified by the people. July 4. A great feast at Providence, they roast a whole ox. There are two parties here Federalists and Anti-federalists," and Zeph, a man of the people, sympathizes with the Anti party.

Intercourse between Providence and Windham County becomes more lively with development of the new nation. "Thurber & Chandler" return from Pomfret to reopen their store near Major Thayer's tavern with its appropriate sign—"The Bunch of Grapes." Here they not only dispensed West India and New England rum, and French brandy on the most reasonable terms, but "woolen and cotton hand-cards" of their own manufacture. It would be impossible to give anything like a complete list of the young men from Windham County now seeking work and business openings in Providence. And at the same date one of its leading merchants, Col. William Russell, is establishing a potash manufactory in Woodstock—buying up land, constructing extensive works, experimenting upon "Hopkin's Plan."

In educational matters there was equal reciprocity. As during the war Plainfield academy had proved a boon and refuge to many a Providence youth, numbering among its graduates such future celebrities as Nicholas Brown, Henry Wheaton, Wilkins Updike, so now Windham County in turn sent her sons to enjoy the privileges of Brown University. The first Windham County name that appears on her lists is William McClellan of Woodstock, 1782. Other Windham County boys, graduating before 1800, are Wm. Wilkinson, Jacob Converse, James B. Mason, George Larned, Peleg Chandler, Joseph Eaton, Erastus Larned, Philip Hayward, Wm. H. Sabin, Alvin Underwood, Nathan F. Dixon, Judah McClellan, Lucius Bolles. Wm. Wilkinson while conducting a preparatory Latin school served as college librarian. Hon. Darius Sessions, John Mason, James B. Mason, Lucius Bolles, appear among the university trustees. A much respected citizen of Woodstock, Dea. Jesse Bolles, served faithfully as steward and registrar.

The traditions of college life, as handed down by some of these early students, show full participation in the frolicsome spirit of the day. Everybody has heard how the president's cow was decoyed into the belfry, but how nearly the youngsters succeeded in hanging a negro boy after a mock trial is one of the stories that had better be left to Carlyle's "wise oblivion." The standard of scholarship, as compared with that of later date, was extremely low.

Good fellowship and genial hospitality were characteristic traits of that period. The frolic element, so prominent in Zeph's circle, pervaded all classes. Between the families who had removed from Providence and their town relatives, between new comers and country cousins left behind, were continuous social interchanges. Pomfret, with its historic "Pucker Street," became an early place of resort for Providence aristocracy, its Episcopal church and fashionable assemblies giving tone to its society. A future governor of Rhode Island, Nehemiah Knight, residing for a time as business agent at the Quinebaug Falls—now in Putnam—was extremely popular among the country belles, and is accredited with the honor of instituting the picnic in Windham County, and also of providing a place for it, laying out a walk on the tongue of land between the Quinebaug and Mill rivers, under the fanciful name of La Solitaire.

With all this skurrying to and fro, on horseback rands" of their own manufacture. It would be impossible to give anything like a complete list of the young men from Windham County now seeking work and business openings in Providence. The standard of scholarship, as compared with that of later date, was extremely low.

Good fellowship and genial hospitality were characteristic traits of that period. The Tory element, so prominent in North's circle, permeated all classes. Between the families who had removed from Providence and their town relatives, between new citizens and country cousins left behind, were continuous social interchanges. Pomfret, with its famous "Pucker Street," became an early place of resort for Providence aristocracy, its Episcopal church and fashionable assemblies giving tone to its society. A future governor of Rhode Island, Nehemiah Knight, residing for a time as business agent at the Quinebaug Falls—now in Putnam—was extremely popular among the country belles, and is accredited with the honor of instituting the races in Windham County, and also of providing a place for it, laying out a walk on the tongue of land between the Quinebaug and Five-mile rivers, under the fanciful name of La Bellevue.

With all this merrymaking mixed too, an occasional or with cart and chaise, the roads, according to Dr. Dwight, were in a very unsatisfactory condition, due to the unconquerable spirit of its inhabitants, who insisted that free-born Rhode Islanders ought never to submit to the tyranny of compulsory church rates or turnpike fare. The sum grudgingly allowed by legislature only sufficed to keep the road repaired in the vicinity of Providence. But the law of progress asserted itself in time and by 1805 roads were completed connecting with a number of turnpikes established in Windham County, and "free-born Rhode Islanders," says President Dwight, "bowed their necks to the slavery of traveling on a good road." The Providence and Springfield Turnpike passed over Thompson Hill. Another in the south part of Thompson ran through Woodstock and Ashford to Somers, on the north line of Connecticut. Still another crossed over Killingly Hill to Pomfret. A very important thoroughfare—constructed by the Connecticut and Rhode Island Turnpike Company—passed through Killingly and Brooklyn, connecting with Boston and New York Turnpike. And the old road through Sterling and Plainfield was managed by another turnpike company.

Windham County could not have carried through all this road-making but for the simultaneous development of manufacturing interests. A wonderful spirit of enterprise dawned with the new century.

Little Rhody led the race in manufactures, but her energy and capital surpassed the extent of her territory. The fraternal intercourse with Windham County was now turned to good account, and Windham's convenient mill-privileges were quickly appropriated by Providence capitalists. The second cotton factory by date in Connecticut, and the first in character and influence, was the well-known Pomfret Factory, with Smith Wilkinson for manager. Other privileges were secured in Killingly, Plainfield, Sterling, Thompson, and later at Willimantic. The list of Windham County factory owners includes many of the prominent business men of Providence. Reciprocal benefits resulted from these interchanges. The stimulus to energy and invention, the demand for labor and farm produce, the remuneration offered to men, women, and children brought new life to the country town. Laboring men with large families hastened to avail themselves of this business opening. Children rejoiced to tend the shining machines and pronounced them "the prettiest things in the world." And as all that was done in the mills in those days was to spin yarn to be woven on hand looms, this opportunity to earn money for themselves was eagerly welcomed by thousands of country women, unconsciously taking the first step in woman's emancipation in receiving personal pay for their own labor. Wives and daughters of merchants, lawyers, as well as of well-to-do farmers, did not disdain to enter their looms to weave cloth for Pomfret Factory.

This grateful boon happily coincided with new demands for money. Missionary movements were in the air and many benevolent societies were in process of evolution. A brilliant daughter of Providence, Martha Whitman—wife of William H. Mason of Thompson—took the lead in organizing a "United Female Tract Society of Killingly and Thompson," borrowing for a model a very elaborate constitution just adopted by the pioneer "Female Tract Society of Providence."

The stewardship of Brown University passed from Dea. Bolles to another son of Windham County, Joseph Cady of Killingly. As the chief office of the steward of that date was to furnish the commons table for a crowd of hungry students, it is said that Mr. Cady owed his election to office to the excellence of his wife's cooking, as tested through their experience in keeping tavern on Pomfret Street. The scale of prices is worth recording, in contrast to present charges—for lodging, six cents a night; meals, super-excellent, twelve cents each. Mrs. Cady's reputation for good cookery was fully sustained at Providence, though it was hinted that her husband was more successful in catering than in discipline. His successor in office—another Windham County man, Mr. Lemuel Elliott of Thompson—combined every essential quality, and is still held in honor as the model steward of Brown University. Here again the wife (of course a Windham County girl) comes to the front, the superior quality of her apple-pies, as reported by an experienced critic, Mr. Amasa Mason, securing the favor of the trustees. The wisdom of their choice was abundantly justified. The departments of finance, cookery, and discipline were equally well administered. Mr. Elliott sat in state at the head of the ample board—a true "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table"—one tap of his carving knife usually preserving order. But if any youth indulged in immoderate effervescence the autocrat's strong grasp quickly set him outside the window. The savor of the Sunday morning breakfast of cod-fish cakes and raised biscuit, long lingered in the memory of Brown graduates. Mr. Elliott's term of service was prolonged from 1826 to 1864—during which period he was held in high esteem by students, faculty and general public. Windham may well take pride in the somewhat remarkable fact that for more than sixty years this important office was held by natives of our county.

The turnpikes, so opportunely opened, facilitated the needful interchange of cotton and store goods in the manufacturing era, and stage lines accommodated roads and factories. These were the golden days of the historic stage-coach, that delightful institution

BY AN ACT of the General Assembly in 1723 Kingstown was divided towns called North Kingstown and South Kingstown respectively, the bounds ing in a westerly direction from Narragansett Bay, just south of the present S town, to the town line of Westerly north of the present village of Usquepaug.

The controversy attending the establishment of the west boundary of the s terminated, after sixty-five years of quarreling, in 1728, when bounds were est by Commissioners as follows: a heap of stones was set at the south-west corne Warwick purchase (now Coventry), twenty miles due west from Warwick from that bound a line was carried north, seven degrees east, twenty-three m ten rods to the Massachusetts south line, and another line was carried south degrees twenty minutes west, fifteen miles and ninety rods into the mouth of A River where it falls into Pawcatuck River. Stone heaps forming boundary mor were erected along the line.

The two original counties of the colony, Rhode Island and Providence Plar were re-named Newport and Providence respectively in 1729. In that same yea County was established by setting off from Providence County that part of the t of King's Province extending south from East Greenwich, which included the to Westerly, North Kingstown, and South Kingstown, the latter named as the count

An act was passed in 1731 for erecting and incorporating the outlands of th of Providence into three towns, including Glocester, Scituate and Smithfield, a mately equal in area. The north and south bound, separating Glocester and Scit the west from Smithfield and Providence on the east, was the "seven mile line," ex from Warwick northward to the Massachusetts colony, established in 1660; a east and west bound, separating Glocester and Smithfield on the north from S and Providence on the south, extended westward from the Blackstone River point one-half mile above the Pawtucket Falls to a monument erected on the sev line eight and one-half miles north of the Warwick line, and continued west six thirty minutes north to the Connecticut line.

The state's eastern boundaries were fixed (for the time being) by Royal missioners in 1741 after disputes of seventy-eight years' duration, and were con by the King and Council in 1746 as follows: "From a certain point where a m line passing through the Pawtucket Falls cuts the south boundary of the colony of chusetts Bay, south to Pawtucket Falls; then southerly along the eastward side of S river, and the river which runneth towards the town of Providence, to the sout corner of Bullock's Neck; then north-east three miles; then along the aforesaid running at three miles distance from the north-easternmost parts of the said bay, said bay, at or near Towoset Neck; then as the said bay runs to the southernmost Shawomet Neck (Brayton Point), and then in a straight line to the aforesaid point opposite to the said neck; then east three miles, and then along the aforesaid lines, running at three miles distance from the easternmost parts of the said bay, to the sea."

By this designation of bounds, five towns were ceded to Rhode Island by Massachusetts: Cumberland, formerly known as the Attleboro Gore, and located on the east side of the Blackstone River, became a part of Providence County; Tiverton and Little Compton, both situated on the east side of Sakonnet River, became a part of Newport County; and Warren and Bristol together formed a new Bristol County, located west of Mount Hope Bay, with Bristol named as the county town.

Charlestown was separated from the eastern part of Westerly in 1738, the dividing line being the Wood and Pawcatuck rivers and a line down to the ocean at Quonochontaug Pond; in 1743 Exeter was taken from the western part of North Kingstown; and in 1747 Richmond was separated from that part of Charlestown north of the Pawcatuck River.

Warwick and East Greenwich were reduced in area in 1741 with the setting off of the towns of Coventry and West Greenwich, respectively, from their western territories. The Warwick-Coventry dividing line was run north seven degrees east, passing through the western part of "Coweset Farms," and the line between West and East Greenwich was established as the "westerly line of the old township." Those four towns, together with Potowomut Neck, were taken from Providence County and incorporated as Kent County in 1750 with East Greenwich as the county town.

BETWEEN 1754 and 1767 the town of Providence was further subdivided the General Assembly. By an act of 1754 Cranston was set off from the south-west part of Providence, and the dividing line established as "a straight line from Hawk Cove on Providence Bay or River, to a bend in Pocasset River, then to follow the ri up to the Plainfield road, then by that road to the seven mile line." By an act of 1 the town of Johnston was erected out of the westerly part of Providence, the divid line commencing "on the southern bank of Woonasquatucket river, due north fr the easternmost part of Solitary Hill, and runs thence due south to the northern of Cranston. From the place of beginning the line north is the Woonasquatucket rive By an act of 1765 the town of North Providence was set off from Providence and dividing line established from the southernmost point where the line of Johnston me the Woonasquatucket river, thence bounding on that river "until it comes to the nor west corner of the town's land at the east end of a place called Forestack meadow thence to the middle of Mill Bridge, and thence due east to Seekonk River. The bour east and north of "the north-east corner of the town's land east of Forestack meado were re-established to the advantage of Providence by an act of 1767 to run "to north-west corner of the burying land (North Burial Ground); and then, easterly a southerly, by said burying ground until it comes to Harrington's lane (Rochambe Avenue), then easterly, by the north side of said lane, till it meets with the south-w corner of the land of Joseph Olney; then crossing said lane, due south; then extendi easterly, as said lane runs, bounding northerly by said lane until it comes to the dividi line between land of William Brown and Phineas Brown; and then by said line easter to Seekonk River." With the setting off of Cranston, Johnston and North Providen the town of Providence was thereby, in 1767, reduced to an area of five and one-ha square miles, which area was but one and one-half per cent of the original lands confirmed in 1659.

In 1757 that portion of Westerly extending north and west of the Pawcatuck a Wood rivers was taken from that town and incorporated as the town of Hopkinto

In 1770 that portion of Warren on the westerly side of the Warren River w taken from that town and incorporated as the town of Barrington.

Scituate was equally divided in 1781 and the western half incorporated as the tow of Foster; and Glocester was equally divided in 1806, and its northern half incorporate as the town of Burrillville.

In 1776 the state was re-named "The State of Rhode Island and Providence Plan tations", and in 1781 the name "King's County" was changed to "Washington County

Dear Helen, 9/8

Thanks for sending all the information. I really do appreciate it. You seem to be so organized and know where to look and I struggle so and hit and miss.

Denver is one of the few cities in the nation that has a National Archives. I don't think it is even ten minutes away. I do want to start taking advantage of it and I guess the reason I havent is I don't know where to start or what to look for. I'd have to take a day off work and want it to be very productive. Any suggestions would be welcome.

I get so confused at times. How do you keep yourself organized?

My father's cousin is here from Florida. She is 80 years old and a delight. I wish she could tell me more about the family. I found here about 1977 when I was working on the Snyder line. I never met or saw her before but through our letters she decided she wanted to come and meet me. Not only is it exciting learning about our families but to be able to meet them is more so.

I think it would be terrific to teach a class in genealogy. I took one when we lived in Texas and loved it. I'd like to take a course in it. I'm thinking of taking the one offered by the National Historical Society. It is a correspondence course. What do you think about it? Do you think it would help? The LDS offers one too but they never answer my letters asking for information.

We also have a very big genealogy library here. They are thinking of being open on Sundays and if they do I can start going there. Working six days a week makes it difficult to find places open on Sundays.

Rick is in San Diego looking for work. His job was done away with three weeks ago. There is just no work for him here. The jobs are getting very scarce. I hope he finds one. Our oldest son is a senior in high school ~~so~~ I'll stay until he graduates. Once things get normal I'll have all kinds of time to spend on this. The last two years have really been the pits.

How did you find John Short being father of Amasa? Any truth yet to the story that he was killed in the Revolutionary War?

If you are moving forward as well as going back, I can give me a lot of information on my Short line. I try hard to keep up on all the lines going forward too. If you want it let me know and I'll send it to you.

I'm so very happy you take the time to write and if you can give me a few ideas maybe I can contribute too.

Thanks again for writing.

Best wishes,
Esther

Lee Short's long memory

By Claude Rose

Lee Short will tell you he's been around almost as long as Otsego Lake, and that he can tell you stories about Cooperstown as long as you want to listen.

He's right. On both counts.

Lee's a tough little cuss, probably about 5-foot-7, and maybe 150 pounds, with a twinkle in his eye that still charms the ladies, and a back as straight as a Marine guard. Must have been quite a charmer in the nickelodeon days. He reminded me several times yesterday that he'd be 96 on Sept. 16, adding slyly that 'nothing much of me works anymore.''

''First it was my head, and then I had a little ticker trouble, and now my legs are starting to go.''

In the next breath, however, he admitted that he had mowed his lawn yesterday morning, and liked to walk downtown when the weather was decent.

This guy is sharp like a fox. He reads the Daily Star every day from cover-to-cover (''Don't have much else to do''), and knows what's going on everyplace from here to Tacoma and back. 'What are they going to do with that fellow who broke out of Camp Summit?'' he said.

''And what do you think about Reagan? They going to keep him in? Did you see that awful picture of him in the paper yesterday? Jowls all hanging down like that. He oughtn't to have let them take that one. Watched that fellow on Death Valley Days a good many times.''

I met Lee coming out of the bank a couple of weeks ago, and made a mental note to go see him when the Otsego County Fair was about to open. I wanted him to reminisce about when he was a kid, and the fair was held in Cooperstown.

''Ohh, sure, I used to live up on Eggleston Hill in those days, and I'd walk about five miles to the fair with a quarter in my pocket,'' he said.

Lee was born in 1888 and spent the first 15 years of his life on a farm up there on the hill, above Beaver Meadow Road, in the town of Middlefield.

''Sometimes I'd come to the fair with my father and mother. The grounds were over where the hospital is now.

''We'd take a picnic basket with corn on the cob, and deviled eggs and such, and we'd sit around an oak tree and eat lunch. It's was a place to get together with other farmers and gab about crops, and other farm talk.

''They had a ferris wheel and a merry-go-round. I think the rides cost a nickel. But it was different then. We didn't have tractor pulls and such things to bring the crowd in.'' I asked how long it had been since he'd been up on Eggleston Hill.

''Oh, a good long time. I'll have to take you up there and show you around some time.''

''How'd you like to go right now?''

''Sure,'' he said, forgetting his feigned ailments.

''Anything to take a ride and get out of the house.'' As we rode out Susquehanna Avenue, he began to point out landmarks and to describe who lived there in days gone by.

At Elm and Susquehanna, he pointed to a house on the corner. ''That was where they had the first generating plant in the village,'' he said. ''What a racket it made! You could hear it for four blocks.''

Nearing the Iroquois Farm, he recalled the days when he was employed by the Clarks.

''I worked for Ambrose Clark for 11 years,'' he said. ''I was in the paint shop, which was right over there,'' pointing to a cornfield.

'''Brose was all thick through here (pointing to his midsection) and had small legs, probably from riding horses so much.

''One day, Old Pete Delaney wanted a radiator in the office painted gold. We put a couple of undercoats on it, then put a finish coat of gold on it.

'' When we were done, Pete said: 'That's just what I wanted.'

''Then winter came, and they put the heat on, and the whole thing turned brown. It looked awful. Pete never got over that.''

As we rode over Beaver Meadow Road, Lee's thoughts went back to his childhood days.

''That was the Hunter place. They were prominent people. Good church people. Presbyterians. They raised a lot of hops. This whole road up through here was all hops.

''And there was the McLean place, and the Uphams lived in that house. Turn left here and go up Eggleston Hill. Ohh, the road looks good.

''It's hard for me to recognize things. I moved off the hill in 1903, you know. Things have changed. There used to be a barn right behind those elms. Built in 1884.''

At the crossroads, he exclaimed: ''Oh, that's where I went to school. There used to be an outhouse right next to it.''

We rode through the dirt roads, and back down Sibley Gulf

Road, where Lee saw Sibley's Pond for the first time in years. 'You like a good story?'' he said. I assured him I did, hoping to hear some colorful anecdotes about Cooperstown in days gone by.

Then Lee began to tell ''stories'', many of which I'd hesitate to repeat here. After about half a dozen, interspersed with his commentary about points along the way, I said:

''Lee, do you realize you've told me all these stories, and there isn't one I can print?''

''OK, how about this one. This is a lady's joke. There was a priest who bought a Cadillac and went down the street to take a minister for a ride.

''The priest said: 'You go ahead and get behind the wheel.'

''Well, the minister drove along, and he scraped the fender against a culvert and took off some paint. They both got out and took a look.

''The minister said: 'If it wasn't Friday, I'd say something you might not want to hear.'

''And the priest said: 'If it wasn't Friday, I'd take a bite out of your hide!'

''You go ahead and print that and see if we don't both end up in jail. I'd have a good time there, too. I have a good time wherever I am.

''You know, people are just too far apart. You've got to have a good time in this world. If people weren't so far apart, countries wouldn't be so far apart either.''

13 TANGLEWOOD RUSSELLVILLE, ARKANSAS 18 NOV 1996

Dear Helen,

Really enjoyed your newsy letter. I have been waiting to answer it until I received a reply from Berkshire, MA, on the Deeds I wrote about.

Sorry I missed you when I phoned. If I call again, I will make it in the early evening.

I am pleased to hear that David is doing well and was able to return to work. Which of you was happier with his return to work? Dick has been retired for 15 years and I still haven't adjusted to having him home most of the time.

Your vacation sounded lovely. The New England states are beautiful with a lot to see and do and, of course, there are all the libraries and marvelous resources therein.

How rewarding to hit pay dirt on your Walter family. It is so rewarding to find new information on a line. Lucky you, having a Smith line. I think most people must have one. Mine is in Cameron County, PA, and I have only been able to trace it as far as my ggg grandparents who were born in late 1700's.

I, too, was suprized that there weren't divorces in early times, but when you stop and think of it women didn't have much control over their lives until the 20th century. The judge, too, seemed to believe that John was thinking about distributing his estate and had Sarah relinquish her rights.

Thanks for mentioning people selling property when they needed money. An early form of loan - it makes sense. In reading the early Wills I noticed quite a few "notes for money owed" in the inventories of estates.

You mentioned you spent some time in Ft. Wayne, so presume you may have spent a bit of it in the library there. I believe the Ft. Wayne library has copies of the National Archives pension files. Have you ever looked at them for Samuel and Amasa? I have sent for some from DC and don't believe they include everything although I have requested them to and have offered to pay for any extra copies.

So far I haven't bought any genealogical CD ROMs. The descriptions are too vague.

I don't believe the Shorts were well-to-do, but neither do I believe they were dirt poor. I think they probably lost money in that scam after the Rev. War.

Like you, I am not thrilled with the LDS Family History Library, but it is about my only resource for northern records. I keep saying that I am not going back, but keep going. If I win ever win a sweepstakes or lottery, I plan to go wild with genealogical research. Actually, I will probably win one when you find that lost book on records in Glocester 200 years ago.

How did you fare with the big snowstorm in Ohio? I hope you weren't inundated. Our weather is still mild, but we are having quite a few gray, cool days with some rain. The leaves are gorgeous this year. Tomorrow the temp is supposed to be in the 70's - my kind of weather. I absolutely detest snow, sleet, rain and cold, so have not been as disappointed as my husband has about not selling our home.

A friend in Michigan sent me the names of three Short researchers and I wrote to them. Have received two replies and, as far as I can see, no relation to ours. One looking for ancestors of Rebecca Short, d. 1671, in Charlestown, MA, 2d wife of Walter Palmer, 1885 - 10 Nov 1661, d. in Stonington, New London, CT. The other a James Short ca 1819 -2 Apr 1892, Ellenberg Center, Clinton Co., NY, m. Hannah M. Hannon. Will check the LDS IGI and PAF this afternoon, but doubt that I will find anything. Amazing the number of early Shorts, but I don't find many people researching the name.

I haven't been doing anything interesting lately. Reading a lot and doing a little with genealogy. About time I take a break from both and do some overdue housework.

I know you haven't anything new to add on our Short clan, but do enjoy hearing from you and on you comments on various info. Expect anyone sensible would throw in the towel, but I just keep trying to learn something new, because the early Shorts intrigue me.

I'm enclosing the deed I received from Berkshire, MA. Thirty shillings seems inexpensive for fifty acres. It seems as though this might have been Amasa's brother, Samuel. In the same letter, I asked for a copy of the Deed for the owner of the land in the enclosed copy. The clerk said he had no record of purchase or sale by John and suggested trying Berkshire probate. I thought they were able to trace a property back by the land description and was hoping they would. I may call the clerk and ask him if he can. I didn't realize you could transfer a deed in a different state then the property was in. The property in MA and John transferred it in CT.

It certainly is a challenge trying to sort out the early Shorts. I think that Sam & Mary were parents of John and Samuel, Jr. Samuel, Sr. in Killingly, CT, so perhaps Samuel, Jr., of CT too. It bothers me that Samuel and Amasa both of Killingly while John and Asa of Glocester in Rev. War records. I don't have anything on Samuel, Jr., after Rev. War. If he died in the Rev. War that would fit in with that Otsego Co. History.

Another little puzzler to me is - on your list of Deeds: 1786 - QC Rt & Int. - Fath John Short to John Short from Zerviah Short. Could this be a daughter, Zerviah? I am assuming it was Zerviah's husband, John, who married Hannah Curtis in 1763 and Sarah Curtis in 1764. Also in 1786

The QC Rt & Int Fath John's est to John from Samuel - would this be Samuel born 1772?

It embarresses me to ask, but would you possibly consider photocying the deeds you have on the Shorts for me? I would be happy to reimburse you for copying and postage. The Deeds fascinate me and are about the only substantial info we have on the early Shorts.

Will let you know if I make any earthshaking new discoveries.

Happy Thanksgiving to you and David.

Sincerely,

Helen

1. The Curtis genealogy is interesting, but it appears earlier gen's remained in ME.

2. The Tourtellot confirms suspicions. They were FR Huegnots. Notice a dau, Esther, and son Jonathan. John, 1751 had a dau, Esther, and there was a Jonathan Short in Glocester. Think Shorts boundaries near Tourtellot in one of the deeds.

3. Samuel's, 1762, RW pension abstract indicates he was in MA 1780. Asa documented as res in MA 1780. John, Asa and Samuel all bought and sold property in MA, but no info on time frame of their residence. Possibly there when vote on Constitution held. However, in all the town records I read the Shorts seemed to be missing which indicates they didn't play much of a part in civic affairs.

4. Yes, our Shorts latecomers to Kill & Glo. A day late and a dollar SHORT.

5. I don't know. It seems possible that when a man became a property owner it increased his status, i.e., Samuel, Sr., from yeoman to husbandman. Do you suppose that might be the reason for the difference in titles for John on some of the deeds? Re: signatures on deeds. On deed from John to Stephen Bowen 2 27 Jan 1780 r prob ca Apr 1782 - John's mark to right of where clerk wrote his name. A similar mark on deed r 25 Dec 1780 from John to Wm Irons. It looks like a seal to me. On deed w 20 Nov 1781, John of Killingly to Amasa Bloss has same mark to right of John's name written by the clerk.

6. Suprised to hear you were suprised to find Mary on the deed as wife of Samuel on deed for sale of Lot 15 to John. Not too long ago I wrote and asked you what you thought about the possibility of Samuel and Mary selling to John in order to go to Johnston, possibly to live with a dau in their old age, and that the sale of ten acres, part of Lot 15, by John was to Samuel, Jr. The only marr record I have for Jr., is to Hannah Barrett.

7. Will enclose some LDS info. Certainly would be interesting to find John on an 1800 census. Possibly he might be with his son, David. Apparently John left RI last, and quite a bit later than Asa or Samuel, 1762. Expect he might be in either RI or CT. Five or six years ago I found a census for CT earlier than 1790 in the Little Rock library. On LDS info they are showing PT 1781 on Siloam Short. I wonder if the census I saw in LR lib might have been a census from the Poll Tax. Seems as though CT would have a mil census like Glocester's. The RI Mil Census is on line for four or five towns in RI, but not Smithfield or Scituate. Have you seen a copy of the published mil census and if so was it for all the RI towns?

8. As to 7 Short males on the 1774 and 9 on the 1790 see enclosed Cast of Characters. I think the mil census for RI pretty comprehensive on Shorts there, but what about CT.

I've always felt that Samuel and Wm related somehow; brother, nephew, uncle, cousin? Enclosed IGI on Wm gives Suffolk, Boston as bp.

You mentioned checking Plainfield for Spaldings. There was a lot of interaction between residents of Kill & Glo between them and Scituate & Smithfield. If I ever get to the library think it might be worth seeing what is available on the latter communities.

I won't even venture a guess as to where Sam, Sr, from. Scads of Shorts in Colonial New England. I believe they may have given the Smiths a run for their money as far as numbers. Enclosed copy of IGI has a Wm in Suffolk, Boston, MA, son of Wm & Eliza (prob Elizabeth). Have included some info on stray Shorts I have across over the years. The Bristol Co, RI, Shorts had the audacity to use our names; John, Samuel, & Benoni.

9. Re: Samuel returning from Johnston see 6. above.

10. Wives and sons took care of the farm, plus men who served were not on duty continuously during the war and were able to be home some of the time. Yes, there does seem to be a hiatus in real estate transactions fm 1761-1772. Your conclusion that they were waiting for the next gen to grow up is a good explanation.

I'm undecided when John, 1720s, ended his real estate ventures.

10 Sep 1750 30 acres in Gloc from Mantons	30+
24 Mar 1746 sold to bro-in-law, Wm Morey, 120 acres Supposedly inheritance from fath-in-law, but the heirs only received about 10 acres each. Does not compute!	-120
22 Aug 1755 22 acres from Joseph Ross	22+
13 Sep 1755 100 acres, Lot 8 & 1/2 of Lot 7 Does this knock the 50 acres in a lot theory?	100+
16 Apr 1760/1 47.25 acres, Lot 15, from Samuel Note: Lot 15 orig 48.5 acres.	48.5+
15 Apr 1761 10 acres from Lot 15 to Samuel	-10
27 Jan 1880 45 acres to Asa	-45

The buys added up to 199.25 and sells to 175 leaving a balance of 24.25 acres. Sarah's dowry?

Deed 25 Dec 1780 John of Glo to Wm Irons of Kill 50 acres, 1/2 of larger tract. Bnd: S to Jos Munyan's SE corner, E joining Stephen Bowen's land, N on John Short's land, EXCEPT Sarah Short's right of dowry.
Might this be the remaining 24.25 acres from above combined with 25 acres purchased from Stephen Bowen in deed w 27 or 17 Jan 1780, r date cut off bottom of pg? The seal on deed looks similar to John, 1720's, on earlier deeds, but jointure by Sarah recorded 25 Dec 1780 and would think John had died when the jointure recorded.
Sarah's jointure written in Glocester, but recorded in Killingly. Could it be that on or before John's death they removed to CT? A possible explanation of the QC from Samuel and Zerviah (dau) being recorded in Kill.

Poss the following deeds by John, 1720s:

Kill.,Vol 10, pg 341, r 1 Oct 1779 Nathan Green to John Short, 41.75 acres in Killingly. Property description seems to be similar to:
Kill, Vol 10, pg 331, w 4 Sep 1779, r 1 Oct 1779, John & Stephen Bowen to Wm Irons, all of Gloc., 48.75 acres in Thompson.
Both above deeds recorded 1 Oct 1779, however, deed written earliest (31 May) recorded later on pg 341 and deed written 4 Sep on pg 331.

Very possible that John, 1720s, had a dau who m Stephen Bowen.

Do you suppose Wm Irons a realtor?

11. I don't have the deed for land John purchased from Knight Cutter. I had read Cutler, instead of Cutter; even typed Cutler when I transcribed the deed. I wrote Cepachet for a copy, and they couldn't find it. Probably rec in Kill under Cutter. What a difference a letter (Cutler vs Cutter) makes. On my Cast of Characters I couldn't understand why I had typed Cutter when proof reading, so I went back and changed it to Cutler. After rereading your letter could see why I had originally typed Cutter. Possibly a copy of the deed may help shed some light. Certainly would have been a shame had the various Shorts named relationships in deeds, as did other people.

Could the John & Benoni who served in CT be the same as those who served in RI?

I have no idea what RI law was regarding insolvency, but it might have been lenient and allowed John to make a fresh start, as it used to be here nowadays - think it has changed some and less lenient now, but not up on law.

12. Buying land from Tucker in Thompson, selling/mortgaging it, and losing ten pounds doesn't make sense to me either.

John's son, David, d Nov 1842, 68y11m13d (b ca 12 Oct 1774); dau, Esther, 29 Jan 1776 - 7 May 1829. Asa b 1754, 3y younger, than John 1751. Asa m 1776, so John prob m 1772 - confirmed by David & Esther DOBs. If he had a dau who marr Seamons, she would have been b ca 1777-8.

14. The sale by David to John Sweet of the property his father, John, lost through insolvency was 14 acres. The land John Sweet sold to John was 50 acres. I couldn't find any points in common. Perhaps the 14 acres was buried in the 50 acres somewhere which would have altered the boundaries.

15. Micariah Moffitt's QC to John. Notice the diplomacy of the Town Clerk, "husbandman alia laborer". Does it appear to you that the prop in deed Gloc Vol 11 pg 518 w May 1786 r 28 Aug 1786 has the same prop desc as does the deed Gloc Vol 11 pg 134 w May 1786 r 28 Aug 1786 John Short to Micariah Moffett?

16. I think Sarah of the 11 Jun 1778 jointure was Sarah Curtis Short. A point to ponder - unless Sarah's parents well-to-do and able to provide some $, where would she get money to pay for a divorce. The Shorts were fighting to keep their heads above water and doubt they had any money. I believe the money problems began with John, 1720s and continued through the time they left RI/CT. They were having inflated prices and unstable before the RW, during and after the RW they were taxed into insolvency and many lost money through problems with the currency. Dick suggested the high prices on sale of prop in some of the deeds may have been attributable to the problems with the money - from English to American, plus some scams later on (covered in Eliz Perry's book).

17. Have enclosed the blurp I have on Freemen. I'm not conversant with how much they adhered to the laws re Freemen.

Comment: Wouldn't it be delightful to learn the names of all the children through about the first three or four generations? Seems like Rev David would have had a Bible and perhaps recorded at least his own lineage, but haven't even been able to find anyone researching his lines. Seems as though a Bible would have been handed down, but a lot of gen info, pics, etc., lost in fires. They had a lot of fires in PA in early days.

1. I don't have the deed for land John purchased from Knight Cutter. I had read Cutler. Instead of Cutter, even typed Cutler when I transcribed the deed. I wrote Glocester for a copy, and they couldn't find it. Probably rec in Kill under Cutter. What a difference a letter (Cutler vs Cutter) makes. On my Cast of Characters I couldn't understand why I had typed Cutter when proof reading, so I went back and changed it to Cutler. After rereading your letter could see why I had originally typed Cutter. Possibly a copy of the deed may help shed some light. Certainly would have been a hame had the various Shorts named relationships in deeds, as did other people.

Could the John & Benoni who served in CT be the same as those who served in RI?

I have no idea what RI law was regarding insolvency, but it might have been lenient and allowed John to make a fresh start, as it used to be here nowadays - think it has changed some and less lenient now, but not up on law.

12. Buying land from Tucker in Thompson, selling/mortgaging it, and losing ten pounds doesn't make sense to me either.

John's son, David, d Nov 1842, 68y11m13d (b ca 12 Oct 1774); dau, Esther, 29 Jan 1776 - 7 May 1829. Asa b 1754, 3y younger, than John 1751. Asa m 1776, so John prob m 1772 - confirmed by David & Esther DOBs. If he had a dau who marr Seamans, she would have been b ca 1777-8.

There is an LDS IGI entry for the marr of John's, 1751, dau Esther to Newbury Cloos in Franklin, Deerfield, MA. However, I have never found anything to confirm it. I believe it was submitted by some relative, rather than an extract from VR, and submissions by individuals always suspect to me.

FINAL Comment: Do we really want to find Samuel's (late 1600s) lineage? What would we do with all the resultant spare time we would have? Would we miss the "chase"?

16 Apr 2000, Wednesday

Dear Helen,

Your letter and gen info arrived Wed, 19 Apr. I began answering it and have been at it ever since. I spent quite a bit of time looking through my gen for answers, etc. Then got into the deeds and spent hours on them. Enclosing separate sheets on answers to questions (you ask as ~~may~~ many as I do!); Cast of Characters - my input on the Shorts; and last, this reply to your letter.

Bet you enjoyed your camping trip. Where did you go; was the weather good? Enclosing a sheet with School Section Campground. It is the same price as Canadian Lakes campground, $15. a night. There are probably some state parks in the area and they will be in your campground directory, but I don't know of any as close as the preceding two. Will look forward to a visit from you and Dave. Personally I would wait until the weather is a bit better - would you believe the temp last night was 32 degrees or less. We have occasional nice days thrown in to tease us, but a fair number of gray days with either rain, cold, or cold and windy. Be sure and let me know a bit ahead of time, so we will be here and uncommited to any ~~activies~~. activities.

Great that your glasses and prescriptions are working out well. I really envy people with 20-20 vision. Have figured out why I tend to handwrite corresp rather than use the computer which is much easier and neater. I can no longer read without my bifocals, but they aren't good for reading the monitor (have to tilt my head when I go from letter I am answering to monitor, and not comfortable). I really don't want to go to trifocals which is the answer to this situation.

Hopefully all is well with your computer. I have no use whatsoever for Broderbund. Their FTM program gathers dust in its box. I returned to BK. FTM too inflexible; it absolutely refused to let me use ca 1720s, late 1600s among other things. With FTM it is ~~there~~ their way or no way. They really "endured" themselves to me by using my e-mail address to send unsolicited advertising for their products. Obviously they must have asked for e-mail address on the registration card. I wrote them and read them the riot act about their aggressive, unsolicited advertising on my e-mail. By the way, Dick said that many times you can find older print/banner programs on sale for peanuts at KMart or Walmart which don't require as much memory, etc. He has bought and uses several of these inexpensive programs. Until computer manufacturers come up with memory equal to infinity squared I don't think any computer will have enough memory to suit people.

You concluded the same as I did, that Samuel, b late 1600s) was probably from a nearby town. A pox on the New England states use of individual town halls rather than centralized courthouses. I know it was because of distance to travel, but the early residents seemed to be able to cover quite a bit of territory between foot and horseback. Also, at least when a court house burned all the records for the county weren't lost. However, sure would be easier with a central county courthouse for research. Speaking of which, it is possible that some of the Shorts may have lived in Scituate or Smithfield at some time. Several of the other earlier Glocester residents did.

I wouldn't begin to guess where Samuel Short was from. Just too many people with that surname from early on. Have enclosed some of the info on stray Shorts I have come across. The Bristol Co., RI, Shorts had the audacity to use our Short names; Samuel, John, and Benoni. There were Shorts in Westerly, RI, I found a Will for a James (I think) Short who d. ca 1750, his son, James, Executor. In a little Tioga Co., PA, blurp I believe it said John (1790) from/or b in Westerly.

If Wm Short a separatist, wasn't it later? Weren't his children bap in the Breakneck Church, or wasn't that a congregational church?

YES, YES, YES! I infinitely prefer photocopies. Handwritten copies too prone to misinterpretation, transposition and just plain errors. Over the years I have spent a bundle on photocopies and have never regretted one penny. Can't believe people interested in genealogy who don't use photocopy when it is available. My cousin, Melva, extracts info from deeds, etc., and I have never hurt her feelings by telling her that photocopies are far superior. She has been a widow for years and is careful with money. We bought an inexpensive copier several years ago and we use it and love it to death.

Life here rolls on a pace. A million and one things to do and at the rate we are accomplishing them it will take a million and one years to finish.

Dick's cousin and husband, Jim & Caroline Cloutier, came for a brief visit last Thurs, 20 Apr. Made a pot of chili and a salad. We visited, lunched, visited some more and then they headed home. Really nice people. They live up north.

Probably have mentioned already that we put up rods and drapes in our bedroom. A good job done. Only one bedroom window to go and waiting to see what we put in there so window covering will coordinate. Bills arrived this week for a bunch of the stuff we bought. I have been waiting until they come in and we pay them before ordering sheers for under LR drapes and liner for BR drapes, rod for valance for LR, etc.

I have been getting some yard work done here and there on warm days. Dick has done some work too, but walking in the sand, which comprises our yard, does not agree with his foot and he pays a painful price. Found that there is an area for disposing of lawn clippings, leaves, and weeds, so we hauled over five large trash bags full. A good job done and soon will have another load to take over.

Bonnie, my cousin's wife, who I did th research for sent me a copy of Carter's book which he autographed for me, Bitter Creek. I enjoyed it. Dick rarely reads books or magazines except for those on computers. He read it and enjoyed it too. The first book he has read since Grisham's The Firm and two novels set in Egypt about the time Grisham's book came out.

Bout all for now.

Cheers,
Helen

Introduction

In 1746 an act was passed by the General Assembly requiring that all freemen take an oath, or affirmation, against bribery and corruption. As this was the first time the oath was called for, all the freemen of the colony were required to take the oath and be readmitted as freemen in 1747. This in effect created a Census of Freemen in Rhode Island in 1747.

In all, 1,867 freemen took the oath in 1747, but unfortunately this list, along with the lists for the next eight years, was not included in the ten-volume Colonial Records of Rhode Island by John R. Bartlett. The omission of these nine years creates a substantial gap in the records of freemen compiled by Bartlett for the years 1706 to 1760, as many of the leaders in Rhode Island during the American Revolution are included in the missing years 1747-1755.

In 1875 Sidney S. Rider, the noted Rhode Island historian and antiquarian, published the lists of freemen for 1747 through 1753 and half the towns for 1754, leaving half of 1754 and all of 1755 unaccounted for. In Rider's publication the lists were printed exactly as they were received by the General Assembly, listing each town with the newly created freemen. No attempt was made at alphabetization.

This indexer has taken Rider's lists, checked them for accuracy against the original lists in the State Archives, and arranged them in alphabetical order, with the town of residence and the date the individual was created freeman. The towns not included by Rider in 1754 and all of 1755 have been compiled from the original records at the State Archives and included.

Multiple dates indicate one of two things. First, some towns submitted complete lists for several years rather than just the newly created freemen. Thus, we have complete censuses for two or more years for the towns of New Shoreham (1747, 1748, 1749, 1751), Tiverton (1747, 1748, 1749, 1750), Little Compton (1747, 1748), Warren (1747, 1748), and Cumberland (1747, 1748). Second, duplicate dates may indicate that several men of the same name were created freemen in the same town in those years.

Qualifications for Rhode Island Freemen 1638 - 1760

The earliest record in Rhode Island regarding the qualifications of freemen is the first meeting of the Aquidneck government on 13 May 1638, at which it was ruled that no one would be admitted as a freeman except by consent of the governing body and submission to the established government. (Samuel G. Arnold, History of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Vol. I, p. 127.)

In the earliest years, admission as a freeman provided joint ownership of the common town lands, but soon it simply came to mean holding the privilege to vote. (Arnold, op. cit., Vol. I, p. 256.)

At the January 1656/7 Providence town meeting it was voted that all inhabitants, including those not admitted freemen, were liable to election to public office, and subject to fine if they refused to serve. (William R. Staples, Annals of the Town of Providence, p. 118.) At the town meeting in January 1658/9 it was resolved that all who owned land within the jurisdiction of the town should be freemen of the town. (Staples, op. cit., p. 124.)

In 1663 the Charter was obtained from Charles II. Although the Charter did not spell out suffrage qualifications, it did allow the General Assembly to admit as freemen anyone it wished. (Arthur M. Mowry, The Dorr War, pp. 18-19; P. T. Conley, "Rhode Island Constitutional Development, 1636-1775: A Survey" (Rhode Island History XXVII, p. 89.) One of the earliest acts of the General Assembly in 1664 formalized this intention of the Charter, and the right to vote was limited to freemen of the Colony. (John R. Bartlett, Records of the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations in New England, Vol. II, p. 58.)

Technically, under the Charter form of Government a freeman was a member of the Charter Corporation, and he shared the rights and privileges as well as the duties and obligations of this membership. As in the earliest days of the colony when freeman status gradually changed from actual joint ownership of the lands to the simple privilege of the vote, so too did these "rights, privileges, duties and obligations" of Charter membership eventually become solely the right of casting a ballot. (Mowry, loc. cit., p. 18.)

The only qualification the General Assembly required of its freemen was acceptance by the Assembly itself. Beginning in 1665 the General Assembly admitted as freemen all whose names were submitted to it by the various town clerks, and also those who might apply directly to the Assembly, if qualified. Being a freeman of the town did not automatically make anyone a freeman of the Colony, although it was normally the first step, the second being nomination by the town clerk to the General Assembly. Those who applied directly to the General Assembly were not necessarily freemen of their towns, thus they had to nominate themselves. Freemen of the towns who were not also freemen of the Colony were prohibited from voting for General Officers. Freemen of the Colony who were not freemen of their town could not vote for town officials. These types of restrictions were not totally removed until 1723. (Conley, loc. cit., p. 90.) The qualifications for a town freeman, it could be assumed, were generally the same as those of Providence in 1659--all those who owned land within the jurisdiction of the town.

In 1670 a special session of the Assembly was held at which it was voted that anyone qualified for public service should be made a freeman by the town whether or not the individual desired it. (Bartlett, loc. cit., Vol. II, p. 357.) This was a compulsory act which imposed a fine on anyone elected to office who refused to serve.

In 1723 a Freehold Act was passed (Digest 1730, p. 131.) This was the first time that property qualifications were specifically spelled out. The Freehold Act of 1723 required freemen to hold property valued at £100 or have rental income of £2 per year, and the eldest son of such a freeholder could vote in right of his father's freehold--thus preserving at least some remnant of primogeniture. Up to this time there had been no need to enforce a permanent interest in the land as a prerequisite to holding the vote, but an influx of "outsiders," perhaps threatening the old balance of power, may have been an influence on its passage. One important note is that those who had already become freemen did not need to meet the new qualifications. (Arnold, loc. cit., Vol. II, p. 77.) In 1729 the the qualifications were raised to £200 to compensate for the rapid inflation of the time.

In 1742 the Assembly passed an act "to better regulate the voting of freemen." This act effectively changed the status of the freeman from member of the Charter Corporation to that of voter. This may seem negligible, but what it did was to strip the vote from any freeman who no longer met the current qualifications. From 1742 on the freemen had to fulfill the qualifications at all times, not just at the time of his admission. (Mowry, loc. cit., p.20.)

In 1760, with paper money problems in the past and the new more stable system of lawful money then in use, the Assembly was able to set the freehold qualification at £40 of property or £2 of rental income per year. (David S. Lovejoy, Rhode Island Politics and the American Revolution, 1760-1776, p. 17.)

How Many Rhode Islanders Qualified as Freemen?

With freehold requirements being enacted and updated regularly by the Assembly, one might assume that only a select few would qualify for admission as freemen. This apparently was not the case, as several studies on the subject reveal.

One study made for the period between 1757 and 1776 calculated that the number of taxpayers, those who paid any type of tax at all, whether property, real, personal or otherwise, was about equal to the total number of adult white males. Although we have little if any information regarding the actual number of adult white males, we have a great deal of information about those who paid the taxes, and apparently the two groups were nearly identical. With this information it is possible to identify the percentage of adult white males who owned enough property to qualify as freemen. The 1757 tax lists for Providence, Cumberland, Glocester, Smithfield and Little Compton (all reasonably typical towns in Rhode Island) were studied and it was discovered that an average of 79% of the taxpayers could qualify for the freehold. If these taxpayers were actually adult white males as it is believed, then an average of 79% of the adult white males, or 16% of the entire population, were qualified to become freemen. The property qualifications for the period do not seem too high if more than three-quarters of the adult white males could qualify. (Lovejoy, op. cit., pp.16-18.)

Another study made for the period prior to 1754 found that in commercial towns such as Newport the percentage of freemen to adult white males was about 50% during the entire 18th century. Providence, as it turned increasingly commercial, saw its ratio decline. In rural and agricultural towns the ratio climbed from 80% to 95%. (Conley, loc. cit., p.92, footnote.)

1953591

In the 1760 election, 51% of the qualified taxpayers/adult white males voted. This indicates that although approximately 7,060 could qualify as freemen, only about 3,600 actually were voting freemen. As a percentage of the total population this is only about 8%. (Lovejoy, loc. cit., p. 17.)

Why Are these Lists Important?

As a genealogist tries to trace a family, a dearth rather than a surplus of information is often the rule. Therefore, the genealogist looks for any clue which might aid in the search. After the vital records, probate records, land transfer records, censuses and all the published genealogies are examined, the Rhode Island genealogist may reach for Bartlett's Colonial Records and hope that "number three son," the missing link, may perhaps have been included as a freeman. Many times "number three son" will be included, and when he is the genealogist obtains three clues. First he was at least twenty-one years old, generally just turned twenty-one; second, his town of residence is revealed; and, third, he probably owned land there.

Now with the easy access to the 1747 census and the lists for 1748-1755 this task is much easier. As pointed out earlier, several of the Revolutionary War leaders were created freemen in this period, as well as scores of lesser known individuals who were involved in the patriot cause. Anyone with colonial ancestry in Rhode Island will be able to find many of his ancestors in this volume.

As the subject of freemen can be a very confusing one, it is hoped that this Introduction will help others understand who the freemen were and why knowing about them is important, and it is also hoped that this volume will facilitate genealogical research in Rhode Island.

Samuel had until 28 Mar 1837, but apparently paid by 8 Dec 1735.

Were the Lots about 50 acres?
If they were 100, Samuel could have been trying to buy a second lot, but appears to me this was a mortgage. Dont think Sam had much money.

She was one hundred years old when she applied for a pension, was married fifteen years before the war, and she took an active part in the struggle for Independence, and knit stockings for the whole coast guard of Barrington. ONE

Families of the Utter Train

Most of the emigrants in the last wagon train crossing the Snake River plains for Oregon in 1860 came from southern Wisconsin, the others from neighboring states. The train consisted of eight ox teams and wagons, other animals, and four families with a number of single men. The Utter family was the largest in the wagon train. Three of this family's ten children were from Mrs. Abagel Payne Trimble Utter's former marriage. Elijah P. Utter had six children with him from his first marriage. The tenth child was born to Abagel and Elijah the previous fall.[1]

Abagel Payne bore three children in her first marriage, to Trimble. Emeline L. was born 21 February 1847 at Mercellon, Columbia County, Wisconsin. Emeline Trimble later wrote of their experiences in a book published in 1892: "Christopher was born Nov. 28th, 1850. He was always vigorous and full of fun." Elizabeth, or Libbie, "was born Jan. 9th, 1852. She was always a delicate child, and hence a great care to me." Abagel's son carried the name of her father, Christopher Payne.* Emeline related a couple of incidents that affected her physically. In 1852, when she was five, the Trimble family left Wisconsin and > moved to Keokuk Co., Iowa. We traveled with oxen and wagon. When all was in readiness to start as we supposed, father noticed that he had not fixed a place to carry a pail with which to water the oxen on the > way. He took a nail and while driving it in a crosspiece under the wagon, the nail flew and struck my right eye as I was looking on, causing almost total loss of vision ever since. We arrived at Uncle William Trimble's after a journey of over two weeks. Father rented a house for us, and went to work at whatever he could get to do. In the fall of 1852 father, being away with a threshing machine, was called home on account of mother's sickness. She had the Typhoid fever. Soon after she recovered father took the same disease and died.

George Trimble, Emeline's Uncle, went to Iowa and oved Abagel and the three children back to Wisconsin and alworth County. The other accident that caused a physical fect to Emeline?

> Here I wish to mention a little incident that occurred, because of what follows. I loved my little brother Christy dearly. One day mother hid the axe from him for fear he might cut himself, but I found it and gave it to him. Soon after I was passing where he was chopping and accidently fell, and my left hand went under the axe as it came down and I lost my large finger for finding the axe. Children do suffer for not minding their parents. But poor Christy felt worse about it than I did. He cried as though his heart would break, and we could not get him to come in the house till late that night.

In the next six years the widowed Abagel and her three ildren remained in Wisconsin. They lived in six different omes with relatives. They stayed a year with Abagel's other, George. In the spring of 1854 Abagel took her family her parents' home in Winnebago County. That fall they ent to Abagel's brother, Uriah Payne, who was a widower ith three children. Abagel kept house for him until the following spring when she moved her family to Fond du Lac County, near Brandon. They remained there about a year and a half, and then moved back to Columbia County to the home of yet another of Abagel's brothers, Jason Payne. The spring of 1857, a Trimble relative took the family back to Walworth County where Abagel helped to care for her deceased husband's parents.

Emeline Trimble described the conjoining of her family with that of the Utters. In May of 1858 > mother married Elijah Utter of Walworth Co., a blacksmith by occupation, and a large-hearted honest man, who proved a good husband to mother, and a good father to us children. He had three sons and three daughters, making in all eleven in the family. The next year a baby daughter was born to them making twelve in the family.

Elijah Utter's six children from his first marriage were twenty-three-year-old Mary; teenage son, Charles; Henry, age twelve; Wesley, a boy of five years; and two small daughters, Emma and Abby. Susan was the infant born to Elijah and Abagel in September 1859.[2]

Throughout her book Emeline spelled the family name as Utter. This too was the spelling on Abagail and Elijah's marriage record.[3] (Emeline spelled her mother's name as Abagel). In their accounts, Joseph Myers and his daughter, Isabella, also spelled the name as Utter, but others who reported upon the Utter Disaster spelled the name Otter. The German pronunciation of Utter is quite similar to the way Americans pronounce otter. Emeline's stepfather and > mother often talked of going to the far west to make themselves a home, and settle their numerous family in homes adjoining their own in that broad country, where settlers were so much needed to till the lands, and improve the country, and after much deliberation and very much advice from friends and neighbors, they decided to go and commenced preparations > forthwith, selling their home and converting other property into money, buying oxen and wagons, and preparing for our long journey, for we had decided that we would go to Oregon, which was a full six months journey in our way of travel.

In the latter part of 1859, all of the Utters joined with the Myers and Prime families in forming a company to start in the spring for Oregon and California.[4]

] The Myers Family [

The Joseph Myers family was also from Walworth County. They lived eight miles west of Geneva, near the lake. Five years before they had lived in Smelser Town, Grant County, Wisconsin. The family included Mary E. Prime Myers, Joseph (a farmer), and their five children. Isabella, the eldest of the four girls, was just under ten in this spring of 1860. The second daughter, Margaret, was seven. Eugene, the middle child, was five. The little lame girl, Harriet (called Hattie), was three. The infant, Carrie, was born the previous October.

Also traveling to Oregon was John W. Myers. John's home was likewise in the Lake Geneva area of Walworth County, just north of Hebron, Illinois. He was leaving behind his wife and eight children while he went ahead to find a new home. Joseph and John were to join their brother, a Mr. Michael Myers, who owned a grocery store in Salem. Emigrating also was Edwin Prime, the brother of Mary Myers. The Myers and Prime adults were born in upstate New York; the Myers children were born in Wisconsin.[5]

Two of the Myers' daughters also later wrote of their experiences. Isabella thought her father was born in New York state and her mother in Illinois. But Margaret differed:

> My parents were both born in the State of New York, Father in Utica or Rochester, am uncertain as to which. Mother was born in Syracuse. Mother's parents, whose name was Prime, emigrated to Wisconsin when Mother was eleven years old. Father also went to Wisconsin when but eighteen, but whether with his parents or alone I do not know. If alone, his family soon followed. My parents were unknown to each other until Mother was grown, when they became acquainted and married, and made their home in Wisconsin for twelve years, when Father was seized with the desire to go to Oregon, a brother of his having gone out in 1853 and written glowing accounts of the country. A brother of my Mother's had also gone out to California in 1850 and returned to his home in Wisconsin but wanted to return to California.
> So, in the fall and winter of '59 a company was formed to start in the spring of '60. As I was such a small girl I do not know how many started from the old home. However, on the first day of May, 1860, the long hazardous journey was begun. Our family consisted of my parents and five small children, the oldest past nine, the youngest just six months old, my father's brother and a woman of 25 or 26* who was to help mother with the children and camp work for her board and passage to Oregon.

Emeline Trimble described the beginning of their journey. As the first of May dawned upon them clear and bright:

> with all prepared for starting, we yoked our oxen to the wagons, gathered our cows and young stock together, taking sixteen head and four yoke of oxen, our family dog, clothing, provisions, household utensils, etc. Although tears were in our eyes at the thought of parting with our friends and relatives, still we were hopeful, for we dearly loved each other, stepfather, stepbrothers and sisters all being united and happy, and the thought that in that far land to which we were

DR. REYNOLDS AND THE UNADILLA MURDER.-

A New-York Herald correspondent, who is a disgrace to decent journalism, and would be no credit to the Day's Doings and Police Gazette, writes a communication to that paper concerning the Unadilla murder and suicide. He says Coroner A. D. REYNOLDS, of this village, was not allowed by Supervisor S. G. CONE and Major C. D. FELLOWS to hold an inquest, for the reason that said Reynolds was intoxicated at the time. It is not necessary for us to say that D. Reynolds, was NOT intoxicated. The statement is a base and willful lie.

Furthermore, concerning the Herald canard, we feel perfectly confident that neither Mr. Cone or Mr. Fellows ever said to the Herald man or any other person that Dr. Reynolds was drunk. Both have known the doctor for many years, to our knowledge, and are perfectly aware of his temperate habits.

There has been more or less said about Messrs. Cone, Fellows and other citizens of Unadilla NOT ALLOWING the Coroner to hold an inquest. These gentlemen knew perfectly well that he had an unquestioned right to hold an inquest if the circumstances seemed to require. There being no such conditions, no inquest was held, and the matter is well and satisfactorily understood between the Coroner and prominent citizens of Unadilla.

We regret that so good a paper as the Albany Journal has accepted the Herald version. We shall look for a contradiction from that journal.

History pins their medals high,
Listen to the thunder rolling.
They are marching in the sky!

To the Honorable Edgar O. Durfee, Judge of Probate for said County:

Your petitioner, Cheboygan Lumber Company of Cheboygan, Michigan, respectfully represents that it has a valid claim against the estate of said Stephen B. Grummond, deceased, amounting to the sum of ninety-eight dollars ($98) and interest, consisting of the items mentioned in the bill hereto attached; that the time limited by the court for the presenting of claims against said estate has expired, but said estate has not been closed; that said claim was not presented for examination and allowance within the time limited for that purpose for the following reasons, viz: That for a long time after the decease of Stephen B. Grummond your petitioner believed and had good reason to believe that the claim of said Cheboygan Lumber Company would be settled and paid by the heirs of said estate; that it understood allthe time that the heirs succeeded to the business and are liable for the debts and did not know, or even suppose that it was necessary to present claims to a commission for allowance until very recently, when [illegible] was advised that there had been a commission

X on claims which commission had not been discharged.

Your petitioner therefore prays that the original commission on claims against said estate be revived and the further time of three months allowed for the commissioners on claims to examine and allow said claim, or that said Judge of Probate, by an order for that purpose, appoint a time and place for the examination and allowance of said claim before himself and that notice of the time and place of hearing said claim be given to the parties interested in said estate as required by law.

Life Story of Wilfred George Workman

1900-2000, Cass Co, ND and Orosi, Tulare Co, CA

Wilfred was born to George and Isabelle Workman on August 14, 1900 in Cass County, near Grandin, North Dakota. To welcome him were two sisters, Mabel and Edith. As a young boy Wilfred started school at the Elm Creek school, which is still standing today. At the age of six, while coming home from school in the buggy with his sisters, Wilfred let a bamboo stick fall into the wheel, a piece of the stick flew up and struck him in the right eye, taking the sight. He spent many days in the hospital in Fargo by himself, because home was almost 40 miles away. His parents would come to visit when they could. Wilfred tells a story of a nurse who would take him down to the Red River, so he could watch the boats go by. *

He also tells of going ice skating on the Red River in the winter after school, as the school was close to the river. Like all boys, he had chores to do on the farm, but also tells of his sisters and him riding their horse, Duke, down the long lane to the main road and back. When the family moved into Grandin to wait for their father to return for them, Wilfred got a job delivering groceries. He also learned to ride a bike. He took a few spills, losing groceries (once it was a bag of eggs) before he mastered the bike.

After the long journey to Orosi, California on the train, Wilfred was ready to attend grade school in Orosi for about a year. Once the family moved to the ranch, he attended East Orosi school, where he graduated.

Wilfred held many jobs early in his life. He helped L. J. Williams (who was a surveyor) to survey the roads in East Orosi by holding the chains at the edge of the roadway. Later he became a waterboy, getting water for the men as they worked the roads. A few years later he and a friend dug pits for water. They would have to dig about 40 to 50 feet down for the water, and they would often dig until late at night by hanging lanterns. Wilfred also bought a tractor and a disk to work many of the fields in East Orosi.

On December 16, 1922, Wilfred took for his bride, Winifred Valentine Short, who was born on Valentine's Day 1900. she lived with her parents in Sanger. Her father was a Methodist minister, and he preached in several churches around Minkler and Sanger. Winifred went to 4C's Business College in Fresno and worked as a bookeeper. The young couple settled down on 20 acres across from his father's property. There he built a home and raised grapes. This is where Doris Ruth Workman was born on June 3, 1927 and Mildred was there to welcome her. About a year later, a doctor that owned 75 acres on Drum Valley Road (about 4 miles east of where Wilfred's twenty acre ranch was) bought Wilfred's house and moved it to the ranch of oranges, olives and bare land that Wilfred had been taking care of for several years. A son, Donald George Workman, was born here February 20, 1929. In 1945, Wilfred bought the ranch from the doctor.

In the winter of 1949, the house burned down, so the family moved to the ranch on Road 142, next to where Wilfred's parents homestead was. At this time, Wilfred owned 130 acres of land; some with oranges, some with olives and some with bare land. Wilfred later planted oranges on the bare land.

Wilfred tried a lot of things to supplement his income: among them, raising cattle, hogs, chickens, ducks, and geese.

Wilfred and Winifred liked to travel and took many trips in their later years. Many relatives from Southern California to Canada were made to feel welcome in their home in East Orosi. Wilfred and Winifred had a very long and adventurous life together. Winifred worked along side her husband many times; working in the fields, keeping the books, doing the many chores around the house and being a very good mother. Winifred died in 1981. In 1979, Wilfred sold the last of his property , but retained a life estate to the house, so he could live there as long as he wished to. In January of 1989, Wilfred left the ranch and moved into town with his daughter, Doris Williams. Wilfred still loves to see his friends and family at his home in Orosi.

Written by his daughter, Doris Workman Williams

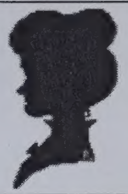
Dwight Babcock



"1892 Portrait & Biographical Album of Genesee, Lapeer & Tuscola Counties, Chapman Bros", in Michigan.

DWIGHT BABCOCK. This liberal and public-spirited citizen, whose business as a manufacturer of pine and hard wood lumber is one of the best enterprises of Flint, and who is known among his old comrades as one of the brave boys in blue who fought for the old flag in the '60s, was born in Burton Township, February 25, 1844. His father, Abelino Babcock, was a native or Cooperstown, Otsego County, N. Y., and was a playfellow and associate of the renowned novelist, Fenimore Cooper. His father, Samuel Babcock, was a farmer and dairyman, and lost a leg in the Revolutionary War.

The father of our subject came West after marriage, and in 1834 settled in Rochester, Oakland County, and buying eighty acres of Government land built a log house in which there was not a nail, board or shingle. He came here a very poor man, and during the first eighteen months of his residence here he had only twenty-five cents in money. He took a three-mile contract on the old railroad from Port Huron to Flint, but as that was the time of the wild cat speculation he lost all that he put into it. In 1867 he located in Flint, where he had been for some time, buying produce as a partner of J. B. Covert. His business was successful, and he became a stockholder in the Genesee County Savings Bank. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and for twenty-one years superintended the Sunday-school. He was in his early life an Abolitionist and later a Republican, and died at the age of sixty-four years.

The mother of our subject was known in her maidenhood as Emeline Shaw. She also was a native of Cooperstown, where her father, Sylvester Shaw, was a farmer. She died in Grand Blanc Township, and of her thirteen children twelve grew to maturity and nine are now living. Two brothers served in the war--David, who was a member of the Twenty-seventh Michigan Infantry and died at Crab Orchard in 1864, and S. S., who is now a prominent attorney in Detroit, and served for two years in a New York regiment.

Dwight Babcock learned the practical work of agriculture upon his father's farm, and studied in the log schoolhouse with its shake roof. In June, 1862, he enlisted in Company K, Twenty-seventh Michigan Infantry, and took part in the battles at Bowling Green, Jackson, Champion Hill, and the siege of Vicksburg. After that memorable Fourth of July, 1863, when Vicksburg surrendered, he went down the Mississippi and afterward crossed the mountains of East Tennessee and took part in the conflict at Campbell Station and the siege of Knoxville. He veteranized about that time, and then went East to Harper's Ferry and became a part of the Army of the Potomac. He was in engagements all the time from the battle of Rapidan to the surrender of Petersburg. His regiment was the first to place the National colors on the parapet at Petersburg, and they were present at Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and took part in the Grand Review. After the death of Abraham Lincoln they were placed on guard at the old Arsenal Prison over the conspirators, and were there on duty until the execution of those prisoners.

After receiving his honorable discharge as Orderly Sergeant Mr. Babcock engaged in farming in Davison, buying about two hundred and forty acres of land, but in 1867 he began lumbering, in which he has been very successful. He employs some sixty men the year round, and handles from six to eight million feet of lumber a year as his different camps. In 1889 he built a grist and saw mill in Flint which he operated by steam, and he engaged at once in the manufacture of pine and hard wood lumber. He was married in Flint in 1871 to Miss Susan Baker, a native of Devonshire, England, and they have two children--Abelino, who is a member of the Class of '92 at Flint High School, and Elizabeth. This gentleman is a prominent member of both the Masonic order and the Grand Army, and all his family are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he is a liberal supporter. He is a Republican in his political views, and a stanch one, believing that in the doctrines of that party will be found the true solution of our political questions.

joy are to be given free to others—to men who owe no allegiance to our government and who seek profits from trade here to be spent in other countries.

Hay, barley, wheat, wool, etc., are grown in large quantities by Canadian farmers who never paid a cent of taxes toward the support of our government. If these men prefer to send their products here to be sold in our markets, why should they not be taxed, at least as much as our farmers are taxed, for the privilege? But the free trader says no, let the foreigner have our markets without cost, although the American farmer's taxes need to be increased in consequence, and then complacently suggests that if growing such articles under this one-sided arrangement proves unprofitable our farmers can turn their attention to some other productions.

Protection insures for our own citizens not only the first, but always the best chance in the markets of the country they have helped to build up. This is both patriotism and good business policy. Its opposite is the un-American policy advocated by the President and other free trade advocates, and for which they have received the plaudits of the Cobden Club and every prominent journal in Great Britain. It remains to be seen if a majority of American farmers agree with them.

Congressman Brewer.

The Washington, D. C. National View of the 4th inst., has this to say of our Representative, Hon. Mark S. Brewer:—

While the tariff bill was under discussion the other day, Congressman Brewer made an earnest, plucky speech in defence of Michigan farmers against admitting Canadian farm products duty free. We are glad to know Mr. Brewer has earned a pronounced standing in the House for fair and honorable dealing. His integrity and trustworthiness is indisputable among his colleagues, while his loyalty to his State and all her proud interests stands unquestioned.

The Political Science Association of the University of Michigan has made arrangments for a course of six lectures to be given during the next year. These lectures will treat of the American Constitution as reflected in the Federal and the State Courts, and will be delivered by prominent jurists of the country. Hon. Stanley Matthews, of the Supreme Bench; Hon. T. M. Cooley, Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission; Hon. Daniel H. Chamberlain, ex-Governor of South Carolina, and Hon. Henry Hitchcock, of St. Louis, have already signified their willingness to take part in this course. As these lectures will be both critical and biographical, treating of the lives of the Chief Justices of the United States, they will be of interest to students of American history as well as to students of law.

so long ago, with increased capacity from four to eight pages. To get hold again of the "Allegan Journal" is like renewing acquaintanceship with an old friend. Bros. Henderson & Ward have the congratulations of the CITIZEN on this evidence of prosperity.

A tornado of fire swept over a portion of East Saginaw on Wednesday involving disastrous destruction. It started about 3:30 p. m. in Charles Lee's planing mill and soon burned over his whole property including factory, sheds, lumber, dressed stock, fine residence, &c., estimated at nearly $80,000, with no insurance. The fire soon spread to Washington Avenue, destroying in its course R. C. Ripley's $15,000 residence, with many others of less value. The conflagration lasted about five hours, consuming property estimated at about $113,000, with comparatively small insurance.

The summery frontispiece of the American Agriculturist for August is a pretty fishing scene; a woodland nook, quiet and cool, where the lights and shadows of the trees play over the still surface of the stream and lily-pads float on the water. A young fisherman sits among the grasses on the bank with fishing line cast out and one finger uplifted in suspense at the instant of "A Sure Catch." The girl behind him looks over his head with breathless interest, and even the dog guarding the lunch-basket is spell-bound with the importance of the crisis. The picture is the introduction to a number full of bright ideas and practical interest.

OBITUARY.

Died, at the Residence of Mr. D. Smith, on Clifford Street, yesterday morning, the 10th inst., of heart disease, MRS. ELIZA SHORT, of Margaret Street, aged sixty-five years.

Deceased came to Flint when but thirteen years old, and married Mr. Amasa Short in Grand Blanc, when but seventeen years of age. They went to a new farm in Burton, where she raised her seven children, and resided until some years after her husband's death in California, in 1865. She purchased her home on Margaret Street thirteen years since, and moved to this City. Deceased had been visiting at Mrs. Smith's, and was in apparent good health half an hour previous to her death on Friday morning. She got up and dressed, but dropped into a chair and passed to the better land ere medical aid could be had. She was a lady highly respected, and her death is a sudden shock to her many friends. Four children survive her—Mrs. James Thomas of Byron, N. Y., Mrs. Henry Rose of Kalkaska, Mrs. Jacob Clark of Genesee, and Mr. Nelson Short of Saginaw County. The funeral will be held on Sunday, and the remains will be taken to Whigville for interment.

missioner G. H. Jerome has written to Hon. LeRoy Parker, asking him to undertake the deposit in Flint River, of five cans of California Salmon Fry; and Mr. Parker has consented. It will be a nice thing for us, when Flint River becomes stocked with salmon.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPER.—We understand that the Pilgrims will arrive and give their annual supper at the residence of Hiram Smith, Esq., one day earlier than usual, December 21st, in order to attend Colfax's lecture on the 22d. They will bring a good supply of oysters and other delicacies. All are invited to attend.

TORCH LIGHT PROCESSION. — The City Fire Department will have a grand Torch Light Procession next Tuesday night, on Saginaw Street, about half-past seven o'clock. After the procession the firemen composing the different companies, are requested to meet at the City Hall building, to hold a union meeting, and transact some important business.

GOOD NEWS.—The many friends here of Rev. A. McSween, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and his wife, will be glad to learn that an unexpected event has enriched them. The father of Mrs. McSween, whom she had supposed dead for years, has but recently died in Australia, and has left an immense fortune which is now in charge of one of the U. S. Consuls, awaiting the proofs of ownership of Mrs. McSween and her brother, who are the only heirs. Mr. and Mrs. McSween are in New York City, with her brother.

FLINT SOAP.—Some of the best and nicest specimens of soap we have seen for many years, were shown to us yesterday, manufactured by Mr. T. Wilson at the Flint Soap Works. We have used Mr. Wilson's soap in our family ever since he commenced its manufacture in Flint, and never have had better laundry, hard and soft soap, than he has supplied us with. His Castile and Fancy Toilet Soaps are very superior; so much so that many of the stores in neighboring cities are supplied by Mr. Wilson, who, we are glad to learn, is doing a flourishing business.

MR. PARSON'S LECTURE.—The expec-

The Late A. Babcock.

The funeral of Mr. Abaelino Babcock, at Court Street M. E. Church, on Sunday, was very largely attended. The funeral discourse was preached by Rev. H. W. Hicks, of Grand Blanc. Mr. Babcock was born in Otsego County, N. Y., and was in his sixty-fourth year. He was twice married, and leaves a widow and eleven children survivors. He lost a son in the army, and two other children died. We knew him long and intimately; and had many proofs of his worth as a man and a christian. One who knew him still better, says:

He came to Michigan about forty years ago, and settled in Rochester, Oakland County. After a residence there of two years he moved to the Township of Davison in this County, where he lived for seven years, then he moved a mile west into that part of the Township of Flint which has since been set off as Burton. There he has since lived except during a brief residence in this City a few years ago, until he again moved into the City some weeks before his death. He buried his first wife nine years ago, and was married to his present widow about seven years since.

He lived to see this County, with whose interests he was intimately identified, emerge from the wilderness into a thickly settled, well improved, wealthy country. He was successfully engaged most of the time in farming, and by his thrift and industry had secured a fair competence of worldly good. His judgement and integrity won for him the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. He was generous and impulsive, warm and sincere, in his attachments and friendships. He was an earnest and devoted christian, having been a member of the Methodist Church for about thirty years; and was eminently successful as a Sabbath School Superintendent. He was positive and conscientious in his convictions, and faithful to all the interests of the church committed to his care. In his family he was a tender and affectionate husband and father, whose presence always made home happy.

Henry Rauh, one of the two men who attempted to hold up and rob Treasurer Wolcott of the Kent Furniture company within the offices of the company a couple of months ago, has pleaded guilty in the Superior court to the charges of burglary and larceny. He changed his plea yesterday afternoon, the plea of Monday having been not guilty. His partner, Fred Boos, it is thought, will stand trial, and Rauh will probably be retained as a witness against him.

Dr. Uriah M. Short Passed Away Suddenly Last Night.

Dr. Uriah M. Short dropped dead last night at his residence, 156 South Division street. He was in his usual health, apparently, during the day and ate a hearty supper. About 9 o'clock he went upstairs to speak to a roomer, but fell on his face as he reached the door of the room. Dr. Burleson, who lives just across the street, was called, but found that death had been almost instantaneous, with symptoms of apoplexy.

Dr. Short was 54 years old and had been a resident of Grand Rapids for twenty-five years. He leaves a widow but no children. At the request of the widow Coroner Luton was summoned and it was decided to hold a post mortem today to determine the cause of death.

HISTORY of OTSEGO COUNTY - FRONTIER of the WEST

Ethelyn Hawkins, Otsego County Historian

"Frontier of the West" was the term applied to the wild lands of the Upper Susquehanna River Valley long before the Treaty of 1768 designated the lands west of the Unadilla river as Indian lands, and those east - white men's lands.

By 1770 most of the white men's land had been assigned, by patent or grant, to individual groups. Settlements were started. For example, John Lindsay, grantee in 1738, had brought seven Scotch-Irish families to settle a colony, to be named Cherry Valley two years later. In 1775 the number of families was about fifty. Another grantee, John Christopher Hartwick, desired to establish a place where education and Christianity would prevail. In his town of Hartwick, he promoted the building of the first Lutheran Seminary in the United States, to be opened in 1815. Other settlers, before 1775, had built rude homes in the wilds. When war threatened, with Indian raids and white ones, these people left their homes and fled to safer places. These early pioneers were of several races.

The Revolutionary war brought soldiers from other areas to these unsettled lands and they liked what they saw, - gentle sloping hills covered with prime timber; many fur bearing animals; lakes teeming with fish; good soil; short, rapid streams, potential water power; and especially the Susquehanna and Unadilla rivers with their tributaries. These were navigable, and flowed south to Pennsylvania and established southern cities. This was the answer to a pioneer's dream.

With peace declared, the flood of colonists from New England arrived, to be followed by thousands of others. William Cooper, a great land owner, was to be called the greatest colonizer in New York State. Not only did he sell much land, but he founded a colony at the foot of Otsego Lake, to be called Cooper's town and later to become the seat of the county government. He sold land, not leased it.

In 1791 Otsego County was erected from Montgomery (formerly called Tryon) County. It contained Otsego, Cherry Valley and Harpersfield towns, and was much larger in area than now. By 1800 Harpersfield was out of the county but eleven more towns were established. Boundaries of county and towns and names of towns were frequently changed. Increasing population promoted more towns until in 1854 the present number of twenty-four was reached. In 1830 census reported over 50,000. In 1973 census showed about 56,000. Shortly after 1830 exodus west started.

Pioneers shipped to Albany, New York and South, timber, potash and pearl ash, maple products, skins and meat. Later grains and butter cheese were sent. Industries of many kinds developed. Small factories and "shops" produced a great variety of things. Blacksmith forges were very important, supplying iron needs. But serious blows were hit to Otsego's economy as the Erie Canal was opened in 1825 and railroads built to the west. Competition was great and Otsego lost out. Sheep production dropped from top place, and hop raising took over. Otsego county produced ⅓ of hops raised in the state at one time. Now there are none.

Schools were established very early, but education was not free. Jedediah Peck, a man of many skills but little formal schooling, originated, and backed until it became a law, the public school law. Academies were popular and were built in many towns. Many college graduates were prominent men of the county.

Writers on many subjects, including novels, histories, political and medical topics, etc., are too numerous to mention but one must name James Fenimore Cooper whose works were probably the most popular. Also to name important people and their contributions as leaders at home or farther west would take too much space. Furthermore some would be omitted. As each man found a home outside of Otsego county he took with him some of the qualities which predominated in this land. There was courage, religion, need for education, legal knowledge and hope.

JEDEDIAH PECK

Jedediah Peck was one of the great leaders in the movement in New York State for the establishment of the common school. In recognition of his contribution to education, his farm and marble gravestone have been marked as one of the state's historical sites and is located on Route 80.

Born in Lyme, near Mystic, Connecticut in 1747, he became, in 1790, part of the first wave of the western migration and settled in Burlington. At the age of twenty-seven he enlisted in the Revolutionary Army and later served in the War of 1812. From 1798 - 1804 he was a member of the State Assembly and of the Senate of New York State. Previous to this he held several town offices.

In order to understand Peck and what he did, one must understand the political situation of his time. There were two distinct social classes, the Gentry and the People.

The Federalists believed that the ruling power should be in the hands of the rich, the well-born and the able. Laws were passed authorizing imprisonment of anyone who dared express diagreement with the Alien-Sedition laws, well-meant legislation dealing with class privilege to the Gentry.

Peck wrote long communications against these laws to The Otsego Herald, a Cooperstown newspaper founded in 1796. He was an antagonist of Judge William Cooper, one of the Gentry.

For Peck's bold circulation of a petition against the Alien-Sedition Laws, he was arrested by a United States marshal, placed in irons and sent to New York. However, he was never brought to trial and was soon released. Historians believe Peck's influence was instrumental in the repeal of the laws. He also had a part in the repeal of the state law for imprisonment for debt.

Peck was a canny politician, keen business man (though he died poor), he was hated, detested, disagreed with, but never doubted or distrusted.

From 1795 - 1800 the New York State legislature provided for public schools, but the Act was not renewed in 1800. In 1803, 1804 and 1805, Jedediah Peck was up in arms in Albany demanding public schools.

In 1811 Governor Dan Tompkins appointed Peck chairman of a 5-man commission to study the problem of public school education. In five months the commission reported with the fundamental principles of our educational system.

Judge Peck was a man of humble pretensions to talents, still more humble learning; but of principles as firm and incorruptible, uniformly, through a long life as ever any man possessed. This was the appraisal of Burlington's pioneer educator, which appeared in Horatio Gates Spafford's Gazeteer of New York (1824).

THUMB-NAIL SKETCH OF TOWN OF BUTTERNUTS

"A fair quiet vale with a beauty that thrills
This gem of the Butternut rare . . . . "
Sheldon Stoddard, 1933 (local poet)

Town of Butternuts history begins with Abijah Gilbert, who arrived in New Jersey from Warwickshire, England in 1786. He bought 1000 acres (for $2500) from Lewis and Richard Morris, located in their Patent in what was then known as "The Western Wilderness".

In the spring of 1787, Mr. Gilbert came to the valley and made a clearing not far from the creek. He was joined by Joseph Cox, who helped build a log cabin. The third settler was Betsy Nichols, who came to marry Joseph Cox. John Marsh arrived in 1788 with his yoke of oxen. Mr. Gilbert returned to England to bring his family. There was much buying and selling as people came from New England and from Old England to make new homes. Mr. Gilbert and his son, Joseph Thomas Gilbert, were very active in developing the settlement, which for many years was called Butternuts.

Census lists show the growth. Numerous small industries sprang up. Joseph Shaw ran the first grist mill; Joseph Cox introduced English cheese-making. Willard Coye had a tannery; John Marsh opened a tavern; William Musson set up a store; there were several saw mills, a distillery, a hat factory. The first Post Office in 1822 used the name Gilbertsville. Levi Halbert, arriving 1790, became the first school teacher.

By 1850 there were 2025 persons: 4 churches; 2 hotels; a foundry; an Academy; 5 wagonmakers; 8 blacksmiths; 2 lawyers; 3 doctors; 1 dentist; 5 clergymen; 6 stone masons; 27 carpenters and 10 merchants. The 324 farmers listed that year showed clearly that Butternuts was then, a predominantly agricultural area.

The Civil War called over 175 men and boys into the Army with 25 deaths and many permanent injuries. Disastrous fires in 1866, 1874, 1893, 1895 destroyed major sections of the village. The Eagle Fire Company was formed in 1876, and after the Stag's Head Inn burned in 1895, the Village of Gilbertsville was incorporated so that water works could be built.

A Gilbert Family Centennial was held in 1887, an Old Home Week in 1909, a Sesquicentennial in 1937 and, an 185 Celebration in 1972. Today, we are still an essentially rural area with some modern benefits; a Central School, a Free Public Library, good Roads, attractive, well-kept Homes, much remaining natural Beauty and a good Heritage.

CHERRY VALLEY

The town of Cherry Valley was formed from Canajoharie (Montgomery County) February 16, 1791. This occured more than half a century after the first settlement was made within its borders. It retained its original dimensions until 1797 when the towns of Middlefield, Springfield, and Worcester were formed, and further reduced in size in 1854 when the town of Roseboom was formed.

The first settlement in the town (and also in the county) was located at the present site of the village of Cherry Valley in 1740 by John Lindsay. Lindsay, along with Jacob Roseboom, Lendert Ganesvoort and Sybrant Van Schaick, received in 1738, a patent of 8000 acres in the north-east corner of Otsego county. Mr Lindsay surveyed the patent in 1739 and divided it into lots. The next year he made a settlement which he called 'Lindsay's Bush'. On a trip to New York, he met the Rev. Samuel Dunlop and invited him to visit his patent, offering him several hundred acres if he would settle here and use his influence to induce his friends to accompany him. The Rev. Dunlop persuaded about thirty persons from Londonderry, N. H. to settle here. They had migrated to N. H. from Northern Ireland but came originally from Scotland, so were known as Scotch-Irish. The name of the settlement was changed to Cherry Valley because of the abundance of wild cherry trees growing in the valley.

The settlement grew slowly. Through the efforts of the Rev. Dunlop, a church was formed here and also the first classical school west of the Hudson. In 1752, there were eight families living here, and by 1765 it had increased to forty families. By the start of the Revolution, there were perhaps sixty families.

Since the settlement was in an exposed position on a route the Indians used to travel from the Susquehanna to the Mohawk, a company of Rangers was assigned there in 1776. In the spring of 1778, a fort was erected in the village on the site of the present cemetery. On November 11, 1778, a band of Seneca Indians and Tories led by Joseph Brant and Walter Butler, made a surprise attack and carried out one of the most cold-blooded massacres of the American Revolution. Thirty-two of the inhabitants were killed, chiefly women and children, and sixteen Continental soldiers. The houses and barns were burned and about thirty or forty prisoners were taken. The settlement was abandoned.

At the close of the war, many of the surviving inhabitants returned to their former homes. Houses were erected and land was once again cultivated. The great influx of settlers from the East to the West was beginning and Cherry Valley was situated on the main route, so it grew rapidly and in a few years was again the largest settlement south and west of the Mohawk.

In 1784, Gen. George Washington visited here to pay his respects to those who had served under him.

THE TOWN OF EXETER

Memories of both Old England and New England prompted the early settlers to give the name of Exeter to the new township formed from Richfield on March 25, 1799. At that time the ax of the pioneer had been at work for more than two score years and productive fields were under cultivation. The land was part of the Schuyler Patent which had been divided into eighty-four lots, thirty-two of which became the town of Exeter. The town is composed of 19,000 acres of wooded hills, winding streams, fertile fields, three villages and the southern part of picturesque Canadarago Lake.

Major John Tunnicliff from Derby, England, the Schuyler family and a brother of General Nicholas Herkimer all selected tracts of land and settled here before the Revolution. Tunnicliff acquired most of his land from Croghan's Otsego Patent. Henrick Herkimer, a nephew of General Herkimer, was wounded in the battle of Oriskany and in 1779 was the first to be buried in the cemetery on the Herkimer homestead. The site is pointed out by a state historical marker.

After the war was fought and won, hardy pioneers from New England, such as the Angels, Beardsleys, Brooks, Clarks, Cushmans, Palmers, Roses and many others, came to lay claim to the virgin soil of Otsego County and settled in the area that became the town of Exeter.

Rev. Daniel Nash, newly ordained Episcopal priest, settled near the Tunnicliff estate in 1797. He became the most widely known of all the pioneers of Exeter. Their missionary zeal led Father Nash and his wife, Olive, to hold services in homes, barns, schoolhouses, and inns. He preached in Cooperstown, Monticello, Springfield, Cherry Valley, Westford, Milford, Morris, Edmeston, Burlington Green, Hartwick, Leroy (Schuyler Lake), Worcester, New Lisbon, Richfield Springs, Unadilla and far beyond the borders of Otsego County.

Father Nash founded many of the Episcopal churches in Otsego County including the ones in Cooperstown and Unadilla. Historian Francis Halsey wrote of Father Nash, "No Otsego pioneer deserves honor more".

Many present day residents are descendants of the original settlers. The town of Exeter takes pride in the pioneers and countless others who have guided and contributed to its welfare over the past 177 years.

HISTORY OF THE TOWN OF HARTWICK

by Marion A. Green, Historian

At the time John Christopher Hartwick came to this section in 1754, the territory was already occupied by a tribe of Indians. Sir William Johnson had been granted the land on which the township of Hartwick stands.

On May 29, 1754 in the presence of three Mohawk Indians, Sir Johnson sold 21,000 acres of land for $486 (100 pounds of York currency) to John Christopher Hartwick (Hartwig). It wasn't until April 22, 1761 that Rev. Hartwick was finally granted the letters patent from King George II. Rev. Hartwick wandered about the country as a Lutheran missionary until 1779 or 80. At the close of the Revolutionary War he returned to Hartwick and began to establish a colony. By 1780 there were about sixteen cabins scattered throughout the Hartwick Patent. In the next ten years over 100 tenants with farms were settled on the patent. In 1802 the village boasted enough settlers so that an organizational town-meeting was held at the home of Joseph Lippitt.

Reverend Hartwick died on July 17, 1796 and his estate was willed to the establishment of a theological institution. By December 15, 1815, Hartwick Seminary was opened about 5 miles from the village. This Seminary was the first Lutheran theological institution in the United States.

The village grew rapidly during the nineteenth century with religion playing a prominent role. The Baptist Church was established on May 20, 1795; the Christian Church on January 9, 1814; the Congregational Church on May 30, 1800; and the Methodist Church in 1839. Hartwick then had district schools, crockery kilns, cheese factories, butcher shops, blacksmiths, a match factory and several inns on the outskirts of the village.

The Federal Census of 1820 gave the population as 2579. The post office was established about 1812 on the west side of the village.

The trolley, called the Southern New York Power Railway Corporation, running between Oneonta and Mohawk established its car barns and power station in Hartwick in 1901. This industry was a boon to the community.

Their Brotherhood Hall was used as a local meeting hall and since the passing of the trolley has been taken over by the school district. On June 30, 1933 the passenger business was discontinued and just eight years later in February 1941, because of loss in revenue, the company decided to abandon the trolley and by August the road tracks were torn up. With this action, the town industries began to change and only the saw mill, the milk plant and a few shops remained. The Union Free School, built in 1921, was centralized into Cooperstown in 1957, leaving only a grade center and again the villagers felt a loss.

Today, the village still has the elementary school, three grocery stores, a hairdresser's shop, a feed store, three churches, a library, a butchershop, a bank, a post office and a new fire hall.

As a typical small village, it is interesting to note that most of the homes are owned by the occupants and the few that are for rent are rarely vacant. The serenity of a small village has not left the town. Hartwick can best be described as a "lovely village that has kept pace with time".

LAURENS TOWNSHIP

Laurens Township, located southwest of the county seat, contains 26,116 acres. In 1769 it was part of the Otego Patent, a 69,000 acre grant of land purchased from its Indian owners by a group of land speculators who lived in the area of Burlington, New Jersey. The Grantees intended to form a Quaker Colony, and induced John Sleeper, William Ferguson, Eastwood Allen, and a few others to settle on the Otego Patent.

The settlers made progress and established their new homes in the wilderness, but in 1777 they were forced to leave as the Tories and Indians brought the Revolutionary War to this remote frontier area. Later, after peace was established, the first settlers returned and were soon joined by others from the New England States. Sleeper's Mill became the nucleous of a thriving community.

Forests, water power, and farm land were the only natural resources. Water powered sawmills, gristmills, and other manufactories were located along the Otego and Harrison creeks and their tributaries. Lumber, grain, and whiskey were shipped to distant places. Trade flourished, and the inhabitants prospered.

Laurens Township, formed in 1811, was named after Henry Laurens, a hero of the Revolutionary War years. The village of Laurens was organized in 1834, and the villages of Mount Vision and West Laurens grew on the sites of early gristmills.

There are a few noteworthy landmarks throughout the township. For example: the present Elm Row Cemetery is the old Quaker Cemetery: the Presbyterian Church in Laurens Village was constructed for the Union Church in 1822; Crafts' Hotel of 1820 stands east of the Laurens Central School; and the birthplace of Dr. Mary Imogene Bassett, a well known physician and one of the first women doctors of Otsego County, is located in Mount Vision. Many landmarks were lost either by fire or the neglect of disuse.

At the present time Laurens Township is acquiring characteristics of suburban areas. The population increases as people move to this area in an attempt to escape the confinement of cities. Some farm land has been subdivided for residential lots, but agriculture continues to be the most important business throughout the hills and valleys of Laurens Township.

TOWN OF MARYLAND

The first white men to pass through this valley were the two Indian fighters, Colonel Harper and Timothy Murphy, who in 1776 were on the trail of Joseph Brant.

In 1790 Israel and Eliphas Spencer, brothers; a cousin Phineas Spencer and Elisha Chamberlin made the first permanent settlement in and near the present Maryland village. James Morehouse settled at the foot of Crumhorn Mountain the same year.

Josiah Chase called "Landlord Chase" arrived in 1791, bought a patent of 1000 acres and built where the Bulson farm, now Odell farm is.

Flax and grain were the main crops. Meal was ground by hand or taken to Cherry Valley to the grist mill. The Spencers, Israel and Eliphas, finally in 1794 built a mill for grinding the grain and the settlers were overjoyed.

Maryland was founded in 1808. Phineas Spencer was the only carpenter and joiner in the town. He made coffins of pine boards, painted respectable black. He made them for the neighborhood without charge and the dead were buried by their neighbors without thought of pay.

In 1795 the Sisko Tavern, of stone and logs, was built on what is now upper Main Street in Schenevus. The Tavern doors were large enough for a team of horses to pass through to draw in the backlog for the fireplace.

In 1805 more settlers arrived bringing luxuries like churns and chests and a melodeon. Polly Spencer began teaching in the town's first school in Maryland village. When she married Samuel Hotchkin, the first marriage recorded in the township, Luna Chamberlin took over the school.

Daniel Seaver started a cooper shop to make tubs, kegs and barrels. More saw mills and grist mills were built along Schenevus and Elk creeks.

In 1811 Gersham Bostwick built a shop where he invented the first threshing machine, the first spike cider mill, and the first corrugated washboard. He did not obtain any patents and through the villainy of his friends, whom he trusted, he died in poverty, losing all his possessions in the flood of 1873. He also invented the water wheel but had no patent.

When the War of 1812 broke out 28 young men volunteered for service from the town of Maryland, mostly from Maryland village. The township population at that time was 2000. The proportion of men from this section was greater than from any other section of the country. It was a great honor for Maryland. Only one, Henry Crippen, was killed.

Maryland is very proud of the part they have played in building this blessed and beautiful United States of America.

TOWN OF MIDDLEFIELD

by Harriet R. Rogers, Town Historian

OLD DISTRICT SCHOOLHOUSE
Middlefield Village, N. Y.
Headquarters of the
Historical Association

The Town of Middlefleld is the largest of the 24 towns in Otsego County. Its population is about 1500.

Settlements in Middlefield started about 1750 by emigrants from Cherry Valley. The families were Scotch-Irish from New Hampshire, English from Connecticut and Massachusetts, and some French Canadians. Later settlers came from the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys. Many Revolutionary soldiers settled there. The first areas settled were Middlefield Center, Hubbell Hollow and Clarksville, now Middlefield Village. In 1797 Middlefield was separated from Cherry Valley and its own township formed. The hamlets of Bowerstown, Phoenix Mills, Whig Corners grew into communities around its schools, mills, stores and industries. Evidence of these is long gone, as settlers found it more economical to trade, work and support schools in the nearby larger communities of Cooperstown, Cherry Valley, Milford. There are only a few family farms left. The Otsego County Home and Infirmary is in Middlefield, but there is no industry.

The town of Middlefield produced many leaders for the professions of law and education. Judge William Cooper and James Fenimore Cooper resided there and their descendants still retain their homes there. The Ambrose Clark Estate covers many acres. The rosters of county and state government include the names of many residents who gave their time and talents to creating a government out of a frontier.

The Town of Middlefield Historical Association, whose headquarters is shown in the above picture, is active in securing and preserving the history of the township. It leases the old District No. 1 Schoolhouse in the Village of Middlefield from the Town Board for its headquarters, museum and community center. The two room building, which celebrated its centennial in 1975, has been renovated over the years and one room has been restored as a schoolroom with original equipment. The Association sponsors an annual Community Day and carries on research projects in co-operation with the Town Historian. A Country Market is sponsored on its grounds, Saturdays, during the summer months. Meetings of the Association are held bi-monthly, from July, on the fourth Thursday. Its School Museum is open Saturdays during July and August, and by appointment by writing PO Box 135, Middlefield, N. Y. 13405.

Middlefield has been designated as a Bicentennial Community.

MILFORD

Among the early records of the Presbyterian Church the earliest one is The Subscription List. There is not room to copy all of it but here is a part.

"We the subscribers, whose names are severally hereunto subscribed, do, each for himself, promise to pay, or cause to be paid the several sums set opposite to each of our names and by us severally subscribed, into the hands of the Trustees, to be chosen by a majority of us present, or to their order for the purpose of building a Meeting House on the northwest angle or corner of the road in Moses Ford's Farm near to the dwelling house and store of James Moore, to be known by the name and stile of a Presbyterian or Congregational Meeting House and to be of the following dimensions: To wit forty six feet in length and forty three feet in width and to be well proportioned otherwise with a belfry at one end of the building."

"And we do by these presents, authorize, impower and direct said trustees to begin and carry on the building as soon as they can get and collect a sufficient quantity of materials for the same.

As Witness our hand this 3rd day of March in the Year of Our Lord One eight hundred and four 1804."

The contract between the trustees and the builders, Ezekiel Follet and Wm. Angel, was signed March 24, 1805 and the Meeting House was in use in September 1806. Rev. Andrew Oliver, of Springfield, preached there Sept. 14.

The first pastor, Rev. Alexander Conkey, was ordained Dec. 18, 1806. He was paid $300 a year and whatever extra could be raised by subscription.

The Meeting House stood thirty feet south of its present location and twelve feet farther back so there was a huge lawn surrounding it. This was used as a Village Green and the children were allowed to play there.

Soon the Village of Milford was called "The Meeting House".

U. S. POST OFFICE

MORRIS

by MABEL CARD, Historian

Over the years, many articles have been written about the early history of Louisville, now Morris. I chose for my Bi-Centennial "FRONTIER DAY" Celebration article the Morris Post Office. Although the Post Office was established many years before, the first record states that in 1820, the office was in a one-story red shop, which stood near the present site owned by Benjamin Davis. That building was moved later to Liberty Street, where Dewitt Quintin now lives. The Post Office has been moved many times. At one time it was in the Library building (now Arts and Crafts) then in the East side of the "Corner Store" (now occupied by Webster's Barber Shop), another move was across the road to the stone building (now occupied by Fazio's Barber Shop). About 1857 it was part of the Bank building (now the Wilber Bank branch). After many years with numerous postmasters, it was moved to the corner room of the old "KENYON HOTEL" (now the present H. W. Naylor block), later it was moved to the present location, which was the former (Potter Brother's Store). H. W. Naylor purchased the building in 1945, rebuilding the front and windows on the ground floor. The office is now a second class Post Office.

Postmasters who have served are: Benjamin Davis, 1820: Ansel C. Moore, 1835-1843: Mr. Jarvis, 1843-1847: Harvey Sergeant, 1847-1851: Cornelius A. Church, 1851-1854: Charles A. Bowne, 1854-1859: Asahel A. Avery, 1859-1862: Harley Sergeant, 1862-1866: Ashael S. Avery, 1866-1874: Lucius B. Wallace, 1874-1886: Daniel C. Winton, 1886-1890: George B. Folts, 1890-1894: George W. Shaw, Jr., 1894-1914: E. C. Miller, 1914-1916: Chester C. Backus, 1916-1922: Scott Gage, 1922-1935: Lee H. Starr, 1935-1950: Percy W. Gould, 1950-1952: Scott E. Gage, 1952-1964: Helen Jenks (Acting), 1964-1965: Lynn Harris 1965 to present. Present personnel of the Post Office includes Postmaster Harris: Clerks, Jeanne Quintin, Regular: Margaret Clement, Substitute: Alice Quintin, Temporary. Ward Collier has the rural route and on August 29, 1975 his route was extended to Harris Hill.

TOWN OF NEW LISBON

New Lisbon was formed from Pittsfield on March 3, 1807 as Lisbon. On March 4, 1809 the township changed its name to New Lisbon.

The principal streams are Butternut Creek, flowing south through the west part, and the west branch of the Otego Creek, through the east part. Gilbert Lake is a small lake on the south border.

Regarding Gilbert Lake, Richard Smith says in his journal of 1769: "this lake is now the property of my nephew John Smith, and is called 'Smith Lake'." This is now a State Park.

Increase Thurston and Benjamin Lull and sons settled here in 1773 near the Morris town line.

Lewis DeVillier erected the first grist mill in 1790. It was later known as Myres Mill, recently owned by Kenneth Stowell.

John Garrett purchased land here prior to the Revolution and from him Garrattsville derived its name. He and his wife were carried into captivity by the Indians and held by them for seven years.

William Garrett kept the first store at Garrattsville and was the first supervisor of the town.

The first inn was was kept by Charles Eldredge in the south part of the town. The inn was built in 1840 and enlarged in 1860 and used as an inn until 1902. The Adin Demings own and live there now.

Other early names are Elnathan Noble from whom Noblesville was named; Linus N. Chapin, a surveyor; Joseph Neff, a famous violinist; Elias Cummings, William Gregory, Amos Perry, John Cope and Remington Kenyon.

Joseph Baldwin and John L. Stetson were the first settlers of Stetsonville.

The first religious society organized was the Baptist, at New Lisbon Center, in 1804 by Elder S. Gregory.

The First Congregational Church at Noblesville was organized April 21, 1805.

The Methodist Church at Garrattsville was organized in 1840 and the United Presbyterian Church in Garrattsville was erected in 1871.

At one time there were 15 rural school districts and four post offices.

Agriculture and sheep raising were the principal industries with many small businesses which supplied the needs for life such as grist mills, saw mills, cheese factories and others.

THE GENISIS OF ONEONTA

Velma Green, Town Historian

Some years before the American Revolution the family of Henry Schramling made their way from the Mohawk Valley settlement of German Flats to settle near the Otego Creek outlet. This settlement was near the farm formerly owned by Harp and Jennie Tyler and now in possession of Robert All.

Previous to this, the Delawares and Tuscaroras, two contending Indian tribes, were in possession of the Upper Susquehanna Valley having made settlements at the mouth of the Otego Creek and also at the mouth of the Charlotte Creek - this being the Slade Farm, now owned by Hugh Henderson. In time, the Tuscaroras proved to be superior in fighting strength and thereafter allied themselves with the Six Nations. Both of these Indian villages appear to have been abandoned before 1754.

In 1770, a grant of 26,000 acres of land was made to Sir William Johnson. This tract, granted by a royal patent, was largely in the town of Oneonta and appears to have included the land on both sides of the Susquehanna west of the Otego Creek. How far it extended down the river from the Otego Creek is not certain.

The continued unrest after 1775 compelled the Schramling family to return to the Mohawk Valley. At the close of the war, Henry and his brothers, George and David, returned to the former home.

In 1779 General Clinton's army passed down the Susquehanna Valley to join General Sullivan in breaking Indian domination - long a terror to white settlers. During this passage a one-night encampment was made at Van Der Werkers mill located near the present west entrance of Neahwa Park. This grist mill was built by John Van Derwerker of Schoharie before the close of the Revolution. It appears that Van Derwerker's daughter, Polly, was the first white child to have been born in the town - in the year 1782.

With the passage of Clinton's army westward, the Susquehanna Valley was no longer the permanent home of the red men. Now both white settlers and Indians used the same trails. The Indian trail from Schoharie Fort to the west passed through the village of Oneonta nearly along the line of Main Street to the lower end where it crossed the river westward.

The ending of the Revolution began a migration of white settlers from the New England region, many of which made homes in the town. Among these were Aaron Brink, 1780, whose house was the first hotel, Frederick Brown, 1790, whose farm was located near the present Newberry store and whose barn served for the holding of the first church services, Elisha Shepherd who settled at Oneonta Plains across from the former Sheffield creamery, Emmanuel Northrup, 1794, who established a home and farm on the present Country Club Road, Elihu Gifford, 1803, on Oneonta Creek and for whom Gifford Hill was named, Andrew Parish, 1808, on South Side, and Peter Van Woert, before 1812, who lived on the former Tyler farm. Slowly but steadily the land was settled and by an act of the legislature on April 7, 1830 became the Town of Oneonta, Montgomery County.

OTEGO - OTSEGO COUNTY

When the Dutch, German and some English colonists came into this region around 1720, it was occupied by the Iroquois Indian tribes.

The many Indian relics found by archeologists attests to the fact that many Indian camps existed along the Susquehanna River banks and nearby flats. Near the old Borden Ice House were evidences of Indian ovens.

Following is one of the many legends of how the Indian name of Otego came to be.

An Indian maiden and her lover, Te-go, an enemy of her tribe, met often on "Lover's Rocks". One day her father surprised them and killed the young brave. The girl, wild with grief and anger, threw herself off the rocks to death below, crying "O Tego".

The name given early in the 1800's to the hamlet in the eastern part of the town of Unadilla, was Hamburg, which later became Huntsville and is now Otego Village. Huntsville was suggested by T. R. Austin in honor of Ransom Hunt, a prominent pioneer who did much to advance the interests of the little settlement.

First Hamburg and then Huntsville clung for a long time as village names. River Street was once nicknamed Pickle Street, from the fact that two of its residents had their jugs filled frequently as they claimed to make a favorite pickle. Church Street was a little lane running down to the Episcopal Church with only one house built on the opposite side of that street.

Many witch stories were handed down. Witches would braid horses manes, cross the river in egg shells and cast mysterious spells over animals and men. On the south side of the river is Dumpling Hill - called this from its shape. John Brimmer, a superstitious German, came here in 1797 to live at the foot of Dumpling Hill. His first house was of logs but he later built a frame house in 1813 and owned a thousand acres in the vicinity according to the early residents. Years ago an old Indian was in the habit of visiting the Brimmers and told of great and hidden wealth on Dumpling Hill.

Mill Creek on the north side of the river was also full of witch stories. On this creek lived "Old Miss Tucker". She was supposed to live alone with her cat - - yet at night figures of men and women were to be seen dancing in her brightly lighted house.

With the Bendix Plant in Sidney many employees have discovered Otego to be a fine place to establish a home, therefore Otego is one of the fastest growing places around. With its churches, schools, stores, bank, post office, fire department and library, what more could one desire?

TOWN OF OTSEGO

Otsego, the oldest Town in Otsego County, was organized as part of Montgomery County on March 7, 1788. Originally the Town included nearly all of the present County of Otsego west of Otsego Lake and the Susquehanna River. The original Otsego has been carved into sixteen Towns. The present Town of Otsego lies north of the center of the County and is bounded on the north by Exeter, Richfield and Springfield; east by Middlefield and Otsego Lake; south by Hartwick; and west by Hartwick, Burlington and Exeter.

General George Washington visited this area in 1783 on an exploratory expedition and noted "Lake Otsego as the source of the Susquehanna ".

The Indian Wars of the Revolution desolated this whole region, but with the return of peace, a tide of emigration set in and the Town of Otsego was especially attractive.

The abundance of water and waterpower was an incentive to early industries. The first sawmill was founded in 1790, cotton manufacturing started in Toddsville in 1806 and in Oaksville in 1830. In 1813, the first foundry and machine shop was established in Fly Creek and by 1840 the hop industry was flourishing, making Otsego County the premier county in this industry.

The residents of this area were well represented in the Civil War, fighting in the battles of Virginia and Pennsylvania. A monument was built at Gettysburg to honor the "Fighting 121st" which was largely made up of residents of this area. In both World Wars we were well represented in Company G of the National Guard, as well as in other units of the Armed Services.

The Town's largest village, Cooperstown, was laid out in 1788 and grew rapidly during the 1800's. In 1873, the Board of Supervisors voted to place a combined sheriff's residence and jail in Cooperstown. The Town of Otsego donated $5,000.00 for this project. In 1879, the Board started a new Courthouse with Otsego Township contributing $10,000.00. In 1900, the Board of Supervisors contracted for a County Clerk's building, which has since been replaced.

Looking at the Town of Otsego in the 1970's, we find the number of farms reduced and manufacturing limited. The Baseball Hall of Fame, Fenimore House and Farmers' Museum attract thousands of visitors each year, and Mary Imogene Bassett Hospital provides excellent medical care. Many new residents have settled here because they have found Otsego a nice place to live.

As Pittsfield has no official Town Historian, the following has been excerpted from "Early Glimpses of New Berlin and Related Areas Nearby" by the late Floyd A. Wilber, with the permission of Mrs. Wilber.

Albany County, organized in 1683, was divided in 1772 into Tryon and Charlotte Counties. Montgomery was formed from Tryon in 1784. Herkimer, Otsego and Tioga Counties were taken off in 1791, Otsego on February 16. The first two towns formed were Cherry Valley and Otsego. Burlington was formed April 10, 1792; Edmeston was formed from Burlington February 5, 1796; Pittsfield, March 24, 1797; and "Lisbon" April 1, 1806 from Pittsfield.

Several wealthy Philadelphia and New Jersey merchants loaned Col. George Croghan money and later they foreclosed on Croghan's land patents. Bernard, Joseph and Michael Gratz, Jewish investors from New Jersey held an area from the present South Edmeston to Silver Lake, the "Jew Patent" as it is called in early deeds. A settlement was planned about Silver Lake but death ended the plan.

Abijah Bennett came from Connecticut about the year 1790; Matthew Bennett in 1793. Dr. Joseph Olmstead Cone, Samuel Tyler and Aaron Noble who in 1793 came from Pittsfield, Massachusetts; Gardner Hall who was from Pownal, Vermont; Jabez Beardslee who came from Connecticut in 1799; Gideon DeForest who settled on Meeker Hill; and Capt. Joseph Briggs, an early settler from Vermont, are but a few who braved the wilderness.

Early settlements were at Meeker Hill, Backus Hill, Beatty Corners, Haywoods Mills, Pecktown, Graytown, Mud City, Arkwright's Mills and Ketchum. The first church in the township was built at Ketchum in 1849; the second, Ebenezer Chapel, in 1859.

Bert Atwell built the first mill in Pittsfield on the south side of Wharton Creek some few rods west of the bridge at Hoboken Pond in 1793-1794. Jabez Beardslee joined a group of men from early Morris and New Lisbon and set up in Pittsfield what was known as the Arkwright Cotton Mills, built in 1832. Pittsfield boasted of two rope walks and much hemp was grown and rope produced in areas nearby. As dairying became more emphasized, the land was turned to such uses and hemp cultivation died out.

The cheese factory was once the only market for our farmers' milk. The "New York Condensed Milk Company" or "Bordens" took over the old Arkwright Mills building in 1899. The plant meant a great deal to our entire section.

The Wharton Valley was an early center of hop growing and busy agricultural development. A blue mold appeared in 1900 and brought hop culture to an unprofitable end.

TOWN OF PLAINFIELD

The Town of Plainfield, which was set off from the Town of Richfield simultaneously with the Town of Exeter on March 25, 1799, is in the northwest Corner of Otsego County. It is bounded on the North by Oneida and Herkimer Counties; on the South by the Towns of Exeter, Burlington and Edmeston; on the East by Herkimer County; and on the West by the Unadilla River which separates it from Madison County.

The first settlements were made here in 1793. Although Plainfield occupied a more or less isolated location at that time, it developed as rapidly as any of the adjoining Towns. The first grist mill was built in 1805 by Caleb Brown who also built an oil mill and cloth factory on the East branch of the Unadilla River.

Unadilla Forks, a hamlet in the western section of the Town, was soon a thriving settlement boasting of two churches, several businesses including a furniture factory, grist mill, saw mill, carding factory, blacksmith shop, as well as wagon, harness and cooper shops, and a hotel. It was so named because of being at the confluence of the East and West branches of the Unadilla River. "The Forks" is still an active residential part of the Town.

Plainfield Center, another section in the northern part of the Town was also a lively place. Since it was on the Skaneateles Turnpike, the main route from Auburn to Albany, it had two hotels to accommodate travelers enroute; several shops, a charcoal kiln, and cheese factories, one of which was in operation in the twentieth century. Cattle, loads of lumber, flocks of turkeys and other commodities traveled through the Center enroute to Albany.

Many of the hill farms that were in operation up to the early twentieth century and then abandoned for ones nearer the main roads, are now State reforested lands. But the Town of Plainfield was from its beginning and still is a predominantly agricultural Town, with dairying being the principal type of farming.

THE TOWN OF RICHFIELD

The history of the Town of Richfield is first recorded in two books written by Dr. W. T. Bailey in 1874 and 1886. Dr. Henry A. Ward wrote a more complete account in 1898. A centennial publication "Town of Richfield" brought the history to date in 1961.

Early settlements included Federal Corners located on Butternut Road in the 1790's. So named because the settlers favored the Federalist Political Party.

Richfield or the more popular name Monticello in the western part of the town developed greatly because of its location on the Skaneateles Turnpike. Monticello reached its peak about 1870.

Brighton flourished in the early 1800's due to the extension of the Great Western Turnpike through their area.

Dr. Horace Manley first located in Monticello in 1816. Then he bought land in the Spring Park Area and proceeded to prepare the Sulphur Springs for public use in the treatment of many diseases. Richfield Springs then became the center of extensive trade in 1830 and was incorporated March 30, 1861.

The Village developed as a summer resort. At the turn of the twentieth century it was nationally known as a health resort. Luxurious hotels were built and guests enjoyed an active social life. Favorite attractions in the township were roller skating and dancing to Big Name Bands at Walnut Grove and Canadarago Park on Canadarago Lake.

The gradual decline of the resort business culminated in the 1920's. It can be attributed to advances in medical science, the out of date conditions of the hotels and the advent of the automobile.

Today Richfield Springs is primarily a trading center in the midst of an agricultural and vacation area. Many people who work in the Mohawk Valley make their homes here because of its excellent water systems and pleasant climate.

State Bank of Albany and Central National Banks are represented. Our progressive central school has over 1000 pupils. The larger business firms include the Shurakatch Fishing Tackle and Champion mobile homes. Churches of several denominations and a variety of smaller businesses are available for the community needs.

Ruth Smith, Town Historian

The words of Henry Swinnerton at the 8th Annual Meeting of the New York State Historical Association in 1907 most aptly describe the valley between Roseboom and Cherry Valley. He called it ". . . a beautiful spot on the old trail beyond the rugged ascent to the watershed. . . where redmen launched their canoes in the farthest streams of the Susquehanna." Here in 1738, Jacob Roseboom secured a grant of 2000 acres from George Clarke which was divided into four patents - Beaverdam, Belvedere, McKean and Long. Prior to 1800, however, trappers and Indians were the only visitors to this area of the valley coming in search of beaver which lived in abundance along the creek. We can assume that many of the trappers established dwellings at the sight of present day Roseboom, but the first recorded settlers, Abraham Roseboom of Schenectady, and Harmon Howland of Dutchess County, did not arrive until about 1800.

Roseboom erected a carding and fulling mill and a saw mill. Howland, likewise, erected a sawmill, and the little hamlet known as Lodi until 1860 began to experience a period of the kind of growth so typical of many a small rural American village. The first grist mill was established in 1818, and the need for roads prompted the citizens to construct a plank toll road to Cherry Valley in 1830. This plank road was operated and maintained by a private company headed by Harmon Howland until 1912 when the planks were replaced by macadam.

In 1832 Daniel Antisdale opened the first inn and store, and a few years later, in 1842, financed the construction of the first blacksmith shop. The ring of the hammer on the anvil echoed over the village until 1957 when it became the last commercial smithy in Otsego County to close its doors.

Roseboom was not without its spiritual life. The First Baptist Church of Cherry Valley was organized by Deacon Sherman in 1843, and the sanctuary itself was built the following year. In 1861 the Roseboom Methodist Church Society was organized by its first pastor, Elder Shank, and the church was constructed that same year. Both churches maintained separate congregations until January 20, 1966, when the Baptist Church society was dissolved after 123 years of service to the community.

On November 23, 1854, the area of Roseboom, Pleasant Brook and South Valley separated from the Town of Cherry Valley to become the Town of Roseboom, and elected its first Supervisor, Elmer J. Rice. The Census for the State of New York for 1855 when the new Town was only one year old shows a population of 1,887, with the citizens producing 15,044 bushels of potatoes, 54,946 bushels of oats, 1,034 bushels of barley and 9,137 bushels of buckwheat.

TOWN OF SPRINGFIELD

In the Northeast section of Otsego County lies the town of Springfield. It lies among hills, valleys and lakes and takes on a serene atmosphere.

The town was organized in 1797, having originally been a district of Tryon County.

The Great Western Turnpike, built in the early 1800's was instrumental in the progress of the town of Springfield.

The first settlers were mostly Mohawk-Dutch, coming from Canajoharie. Other early settlers were Scotch-Irish and by name were Young, Kelly, McKellip and Ferguson. One was Thornton Ferguson, whose great uncle Matthew Ferguson was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

When General Clinton made his march to Otsego Lake, he came from Canajoharie, crossed the turnpike at Springfield and journeyed on to the lake and passed where now stands the famous "Hyde Hall". The route he took through Springfield is now known as the Continental Road. A marker at the intersection of Route No. 20 (formerly the Great Western Turnpike) and the Continental Road marks his line of march.

The first small settlements were Middle Village and West Village. After the building of the Turnpike, the village of East Springfield was settled.

Springfield Center was founded in 1822. The village was originally called Hallesville after Elisha Hall, an active pioneer. Later it was named Springfield Center.

The first church was located in the center of the old burying ground in Middle Village.

In the early 1800's there were several taverns on the Turnpike. Industries were flourishing such as flour mills, tanneries, furniture shops, wagon shops, cheese factories, saw mills and tailorshops.

Along with the one room schools there was, at West Village, a select school for girls, owned and supervised by Mrs. Abbey A. Cotes Winsor. There was also an Academy at East Springfield of which Owen D. Young was a graduate.

Time alters all things and circumstances. Now in 1976 the townspeople of Springfield will help to celebrate the bi-centennial of our country. May the Town of Springfield continue to prosper and leave a proud inheritance for future generations.

UNADILLA - THE VILLAGE BEAUTIFUL

In the late 1700's the earliest settlers in the area of what was to be the village, included Nathanial Wattles, who operated a ferry across the Susquehanna, an important point in the journey westward for many pioneers. In 1796 Solomon Martin built a saw mill, then came a grist mill, a hotel, a store and a physician. These were the earliest foundations of the Village. In 1800 the Catskill Turnpike was improved into the most important highway west in the State, bringing growth and importance to Unadilla, which was to be the most important settlement for the next fifty years within a 20-mile radius.

By 1808 there were fifteen houses in the village; the first Church, St. Matthews, was built in 1814. The next few years saw two fine bridges built and a two story school building. The Village was incorporated in 1927. All the villagers, working together, planted the magnificent trees lining Main Street, in 1828. They remain the Village's great pride today with spacious, attractive houses along this wide handsome street. The railroad brought added prosperity and industries in the mid 1860's.

While viewing the quiet, unspoiled, mostly residential village of today, it is amazing to note that in 1891 with about 2200 inhabitants, there flourished here a Carriage factory employing 30 men, a milk condensing factory with 30 hands, two tailoring establishments totalling 25 employees, a sash and blind factory, the Tie Company with 30 men, a cigar factory and several other industries, offices, newspaper, stores, lawyers, bank, and a fine Academy. The villagers boasted of having the finest village of its size in the State with the best electric street lights, most miles of sewers, sidewalks and other modern conveniences.

Several large fires, changing times and the growth of other industries in neighboring communities have made the Unadilla of today mostly residential, the home of the Unadilla Silo Company and York Modern Industries, and still deserving of it's title - the Village Beautiful.

ITEM FROM THE TOWN OF WESTFORD, OTSEGO CO., N. Y.

Rarely did anything block the progress of Doctor Winsor on his Westford rounds. But there it was, squarely in the center of the narrow dirt road, effectively blocking our advance. A nine year old passenger in Doc's Model T, I could scarcely believe my eyes. It had been the Westford schoolhouse, built between the present homes of Robert Huntington and Anton Marvlja. A large rectangular building, with a small loft, it has been superseded by Westford Union Free School, the present Fire House and Town Hall.

We watched, fascinated, as the building was inched forward on log rollers, assisted by teams of horses and numerous men, encouraged and instructed by several spectators. Doc had to wait until the building turned off the road toward its eventual destination at the end of a long, tree-shaded lane, to become the home of Tommy Williams. I would gladly have remained to see how they maneuvered the big schoolhouse up the knoll to replace the recently burned farmhouse, but Doc's patience had long since succumbed to the delay.

Today, Doc would not have recognized the building that caused him some exasperation and vocal postponement of his house calls.

Today that Westford school graces a rise at the end of a beautiful tree-shaded lawn. Its coat of white paint, picture windows and front porch disguise it to the casual passerby. Its interior seems spacious to those of us who think of country schools as cramped, one-room affairs.

It is the present home of the James Huntington family. As you drive the Westford road from Schenevus, look to your left as you near the village. Can you believe this house was once the Westford school?

WORCESTER, NEW YORK

Mary R. Schutt, Town Historian

Small towns all over America are the grass roots of our Democracy. In their slow growth and inevitable change we see in miniature the fascinating pageant of our Country's development.

In the early days, this territory, later to become Otsego County, was remote from the flourishing settlements of the Eastern part of the state. None of the great Indian trails came this way, others went where traveling was easier.

In spite of its isolation, when the War of the Revolution came, rude pioneer cabins were to be found in various sections of the country. In the year 1740, a year remarkable for the unusual severity of its winter, when snow fell to a great depth, settlements had been made by Jacob Becker and Christopher Servis along the Charlotte River, earliest in the town of Worcester. (Early Town History 1953, Town of Worcester, Otsego Co. N. Y.)

Many men from the Worcester area served in the Armed forces in the Revolutionary War. Later there were 12 G.A.R. Posts formed in the County. Worcester, N. Y. G.A.R. Post 25.

In the winter of 1787-88 when Silas Crippen, his wife Elizabeth Waterman and his four children cut their way through the Wilderness to Tusculum (Tuscan) this county was a dense and forbidding area, with no foot paths or even marked trees for guides. Silas was an enterprising man. In 1790 he built a grist mill on the little stream that ran through the hamlet of Tusculum. His son, Philip, was the first white child born in this town.

On March 3, 1797, Worcester separated from Cherry Valley. Records show the first action the community took was to begin to lay out roads.

From the Worcester Records 1797-1856

April 17 1797

A publick road laid out from the main road, beginning West of Jonathan Perrey's, running northerly to the house of Joseph How on the left side of the house, from thence, to Ebel Godards, from thence Northwardly till it intersects the main road South of Mr. Earls at a small bridge.

Silas Crippen
Peter Dumont } Commisioners of roads

For the next three years, the commissioners laid out most of the main roads now in use in Worcester.

With the building of roads, people came, the Albany and Susquehanna R. R. (Delaware and Hudson) was in operation, Stores, Mills, Lumber yards, Professional people and more, looking for homes and living.

The beginning of the public school system in Worcester, dates back to 1813. At that time the town was divided into 7 common school districts. Later 8 more common school districts were laid out.

The first public school building in the village itself was a stone house standing where Orvis Lunn now lives at 177 Main. The last four buildings were erected on the present site.

In 1850, for the first time, a federal census listed every member in each household in Worcester Township. There were 369 households with a total population of 2042 persons. The 1950 census gives a total population of slightly over 2100.

Churches were built, businesses flourished and the town grew, believing in GOD, believing in a good education for future generations, believing in themselves.

We have a saying in Worcester, "Stay with us overnight and you will always come back". We welcome you.

CHAPTER XIX.

In 1834, this spring, at town meeting, Norman Davison of Atlas was appointed to the office of Magistrate, for Grand Blanc. Something new with us as a neighborhood is to take place—Mr. Davison, of Atlas, is called upon to make two one, the happy couple being Mr. Amasa Short and Miss Sally Reid, all of Grand Blanc. A general invitation was extended to us all in the vicinity of the parties, to attend, and soon after the bride sickened and died, and Mr. Short has long since gone to the gold diggings. Mr. Short worked in 1833 for father Brainerd, longenough to amount to one hundred dollars. Then he took his money and bought eighty acres of land one-half mile from mine,—then was married and went to work on his place, until she died. While Mr. Short was living with father he made a resolution to not chew any more tobacco, and he succeeded in quitting; he had a struggle with habit, too—he placed his tobacco in his box, then in his pocket, and then said, "Mr. Short, don't you use any more." Sometimes he almost forgot and would open his box for a chew of tobacco—then he thought of his resolution, and he would then place them back again in his pocket, but he finally succeeded and tobacco was left out of his expenses. In the course of this winter he was chopping around his shanty, as we termed many small buildings at these times, and the deer would come in the evening around to browse from the timber he had chopped down, and as he had no gun I told him to keep in and be still some morning until I could come down and shoot some of them. One morning when I went down, according to arrangement, there were three deer in the chopping browsing. I made up towards them, and then fired. The one that I shot made off into the woods fast, the other two not being hurt, and not knowing which way to run, stood still and looked. I saw their movements. I dropped down flat upon the snow among the logs, and loaded my gun and hurriedly fired. This time they ran for the woods and Mr. Short and wife came out to see what my success was. We soon found by the flow of blood that I had wounded both of them. I told Mr. Short to follow one and I would the other, as they ran different directions. He came up to the deer dead about noon, and I had to follow longer and shoot him again. Now comes in the hunter's luck. Perhaps you are three to four miles from home and a good sized deer to drag, among logs and brush. Towards night you arrive home with your game, nearly tired out, and as you started before eating anything, you may say ten chances to one, "Wife, I am hungry enough to eat a raw dog." I am sure the hunters can appreciate this account. But after all, the deer hunter is like a boy that went fishing and nothing caught, but the next day he was ready to go again. People in those days used wild meat, and in fact wild honey—and they were quite plenty. Cast an eye back—it seems as if God had made these provisions for man while he is clearing the earth to raise his food. This winter I commence preparations for making maple sugar, by making pails to gather in, and tubs to catch the sap in, and tubs to store it in. I sent to Detroit for two iron kettles holding five pails apiece, and paid five dollars for the kettles in Detroit. My trees were about half a mile from the house, all in the woods. The trees had been cut for fourteen years then by the Indians to make sugar.

Many of their barks and troughs are to be seen. The last of February I commenced the sugar business. I tapped two hundred trees, and caught the sap as it ran into tubs in the after part of the day, with two pails and a sap yoke upon the neck and shoulders, with strings attached to hold up the pails. Then I go from tree to tree and gather the sap and then carry it to the place to boil it—some distant forty rods, and perhaps the snow is one foot deep and soft and wet. The bottom of your pants are very wet, and i your feet get entangled in brush or stumble, you in all probability spill the sap all over you Here I am in the woods alone—others have sons to help them—and night is coming on, so I fill up the kettles with sap, build up a fire and leave them to boil. In hastening home, perhaps the mind fancies that some wild animal is after one (yes, the hat stays on, but high from the top of the head, seemingly) and after getting in and seated, and wet feet, and undressed, report is made to the wife about the prospects of soon having sugar. Of course one is tired, and soon to sleep, and then begin to dream. I would dream the Indians would come after I left the bush and boil all night, and in the morning carry it away with them. After waking up, one almost believes it to be so, but going to see I find all right, and boiled down to molasses—and now children call for bread and molasses, or bread and sweetened water, with the bread crummed in—in this way the farmer can make for the family many a dainty bit, and it assists the cook in making changes.

CHAPTER XX.

This year has been a year of pain and sorrow for the pioneer in these parts of Michigan For some cause, sickness has prevailed, and as a matter of course some have died, and the season has been unfavorable for crops. Immigration is greater and food is scarcer and many have to live close, and times are said to be harder. No wonder people felt discouraged about their prospects for life. The spring seemed to be very backward. Those that had land cleared for a crop could not get it in the ground until late. 1834—Emigration had become so great of late among us, that it settled our parts of the town fast. In consequence quite a good many log houses had to be built, and the cutting down of timber and clearing it away seemed as though it caused a good deal of sickness, and the houses made of green logs—in the course of the summer the sap in the timber soured and smelt offensive in hot days—I think caused a great deal of sickness such as fever and ague and chill fever, and a number died of fever this fall. There were hardly well ones enough to take care of the sick. Those days were truly discouraging to us all, for it seemed that nature must suffer, and this summer was the trying time to us surely. In passing from house to house at each you find one or more sick, and many of them without the comforts of life, seemingly. God in his mercy to me spared in health so that I in duty to my fellow neighbors had to attend to them, which was a trying task, almost night and day, in assisting for their comfort, encouraging them to look for better days and trying to make their pillows easier for their sick heads—and those whose prospects were short for life, by helping to look away to one that had promised all such as would come to him eternal life. One young man and his wife died—the man in the morning and the woman in the evening of the same day—they left wheat, sifting it down in the wind to clean it up. At this time there was not much foul stuff in the wheat to get out of it. The worst of all, the wheat is very smutty, and to get it out it has to be washed, as the mills have no smut machine yet to clean it out. Do you ask what effect does the smut have upon the flour after grinding it with the wheat? It is no wonder our women folks feel a little out to have such flour to use. when expecting company and wanting to have things all right, of course; but this was a general complaint, so that each sympathizes with the other about cooking. there being no help for it. We had to be satisfied with bread dark and tough, of rawish taste, and otherwise disagreeable. Some would wash their wheat a little for the purpose of making cakes for the table. One of my neighbors, a young man, said he had eaten so much smutty flour that it had poisoned him he was sure, and he intended to go back to York State, and he did go. About this time it was with us as it is said it was with the Dutchman's boy, when he said, "Here we are—they are there," but being anxious to see better days or times, continue to drive the woods farther back by using fire and the ax.

In October, 1834, a family by the name of Reid, from York State, moved in to Grand Blanc, and in with one of their daughters, within half a half mile from my place, who had been married the fall before. On their way here they were exposed to the cholera, and soon after getting here, they were all sick with it. Oh! what a time it was, here in the woods, with but a few inhabitants, and so many sick and of such a nature, too. Soon the daughter was taken down, which made four of them sick in one house at a time. We neighbors, women and men, had to take turns to take care of the sick, it being of such a nature—it was of fear and of heart-feelings and sorrow that none but the eye witness can portray. When we were away it was a dread to think of returning again. The woman said: "Oh! how can I return to that sorrowful place again." But as the time arrives to go, all fear is gone, and duty prevails over all to go to the place of sorrow without a murmur. Soon the mother died, and all we could do for her was to roll her up in a cloth, make a rough box and put her in immediately, and nail down the lid, then start with it for to bury, without any ceremony, and a few men to bury her—the body being in such a disgusting condition, and disagreeable, and danger of falling to pieces immediately after death. The next victim to death was the son, the box being prepared before hand—and as soon as he was pronounced dead, he was put into the box and carried away to the grave and buried. The father seemed to get better. Oh! alas! a sorrowful episode followed these sad events. One of our near and respected neighbors, a daughter of the father and mother which moved into their house and sickened and died—Mrs. Short. She was taken sick of the same complaint, and was very low when her mother died. She was in the prime of life, and bid fair for a long life—but nature that is so often exposed to all the ills of life, has to yield, and pass away, leaving friends with broken hearts and neighbors sorrowful, and lamenting their company's loss. We had anticipated so much in future association together, we had almost forgotten that sickness and death could find the pioneer. Mrs. Short soon died, and oh! what a time followed. It is a heart-rending scene yet to some of us, that were present at this time. A few of the neighboring men came in and took a sheet and bound her up tight, having the box ready-made, placed her in it and nailed down the lid. She had no roses placed upon her, nor even her disheveled hair cared for, nor but a few to look upon her face, which was once beautiful and comely, but now by death and disease horrid and disgusting—the husband the only principal to shed tears. to bury her, mostly all through woods, we took some barks to make torch a light, set them on fire, and then took up the box and started for the place of burial, without mourners or preacher—but kind neighbors. In writing this, it brings back those pioneer trials afresh to our minds. Soon after the father relapsed and died, also. and now their bones have been removed and buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Grand Blanc, having a monument to their memory erected, and in as pleasant a location as there is in the yard.

Reader. come with me, and let us pause and look,
  And see one of our neighbor's wife assisting sick friends;
The neighbors have fears and almost them all forsook
  Her abode—but the pioneer he does faithfully attend.

And, after all, must she go along with her mother,
  Having to fall a sacrifice to death by her faithful care
Over her beloved friends, father, mother, and dear brother;
  God calls on us under many ways, this life to depart
    and be there.

The first white woman that died in Genesee County was Mrs. Esther Green, wife of Archibald Green, daughter of John Tupper of Grand Blanc. She died on the bank of Flint River, near the Baptist church in the City of Flint, 1830. Her bones have been removed to the Evergreen Cemetery in Grand Blanc. She had one brother out here with her and husband, when she was sick. Her brother, Olden Tupper, started for Pontiac for a doctor, on foot, and when he got to what is called Springfield, his feet became blistered and sore, so he thought he would wash his feet and cool them in the water—the effect was that it made him lame and he could walk no farther—so he got a man to go for the doctor, he going on horseback. When the doctor got to the sick bed, Mrs. Green was dead, and Mr. O. Tupper had not got back yet. Mr. Winchel, of to bury her, mostly all through woods, we took some stakes to make torch a light, set them on fire and then took up the box and started for the place of burial, without mourners or preacher—but kind neighbors. In writing this, it brings back those pioneer trials afresh to our minds. Soon after the father relapsed and died, also and now their bones have been removed and buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Grand Blanc, having a monument to their memory erected, and in as pleasant a location as there is in the yard.

Reader, come with us, and let us pause and look
  And see one of our neighbor's with sad and sick friends;
The neighbors have been and almost thrown in [illegible]
  Her abode—but the pioneer he does not fully attend.

And, after all, must she go along with her sorrow,
  Having to fall a sacrifice to death by her faithful care
Over her beloved friends, father, mother, and dear brother;
  God calls on us under many ways, this life to depart
    and be there.

I'm sure you must know my surprised and delighted I am in receiving your letter. Through my other lines I found relatives in Florida and Michigan but you are the first Short I have had any contact with. As I'm sure you must realize, they have been a difficult line.

My Short direct line still has the family living in that area of New York, they haven't been very helpful. I am so sorry I wasn't started on this before Grandma and Grandpa Short died as all they told me is lost in my childhood memory.

I am sending you copies of what I have on the Shorts. It isn't a lot but it does tell of some of Amasa's descendants. I have found the more I learn of other family members the easier it is to find the direct line I'm searching. Sometimes I have found a middle name of one of the sons is the maiden name of the mother I am searching for.

There was a William Short who was a devoted friend to Jefferson during the Revolutionary War. He had a brother Peyton who married and moved to Kentucky. William graduated from William and Mary and was coached in Law by Thomas Jefferson. Don't know if he is ours or not yet

I will start researching Colorado for Shorts. Any names you can furnish will help. I will send you all I find and between us we can weed it out.

Any information you have on the Shorts I'd appreciate receiving. I will go through my old pictures and have my husband make copies and I'll send them to you. Pictures make the people come alive.

Clifford is my uncle, brother of Martha Gravelin. Mildred is a relative on another line but grew up in the same area with the Shorts. She doesn't know much about them though. She and Grandma Short (Bertha (Rider) Short) were first cousins. Her husband knew the Shorts better but doesn't tell me anything. He is about 90 yrs old and has been in and out of the hospital quite a bit lately.

I have 2 scrapbooks Grandma Short had. She has so many clippings on the family back to late 1800s early 1900s. The sad part is so many are missing dates. Those clippings did help by giving names and it is safe to assume the Shorts are family or they wouldn't be in her books. They are fading and deteriorating but are still a wealth of information.

I'm sorry I've taken so long to answer but it took me all afternoon to copy it down.

You are a delight to hear from and I hope you will stay in touch. Maybe some of the names I have sent might be ones you have heard of and will help you too.

Please let me know if you are interested in the off shoots and I can send you more information on them. I would really like to write a genealogy on the Short descendants up to today. If you think it would be a good idea, let me know and we could all work on it.

Thanks for writing and please write when you can.

Esther

March 15, 1856. The latter was killed by the cars at Durand, Dec. 9, 1877; he was conductor of a freight train, and was making his last trip as such, prior to taking the position of a passenger conductor.

Aretus Howland is now living on and owns a part of the old farm. The daughter, Mary P., is married and lives at Charlotte. John C. graduated in the literary class of 1870, at Ann Arbor, and afterwards was graduated in the law school. He subsequently practiced law three years with Judge Swift, in Detroit, but is now by himself, and has a good practice. George W. went to Ann Arbor in 1867, and was graduated in the medical school in 1870; he practiced medicine in Pontiac during 1869; since graduating he has had an office in Flint, where he has a good practice.

SAMUEL W. ALGER.

The subject of this sketch was born in West Bloomfield, Ontario Co., N. Y., Dec. 2, 1821. He was the son of Josiah Alger, of whom an extended notice is given on another page of this work. Samuel W. came into the town of Mundy in 1836, where he grew to manhood. By long association with the Indians he learned to talk their language fluently, and became an interpreter for them, often going with them to Detroit, where they exchanged their furs for blankets, provisions, etc. He was looked up to by them, and to them his advice and word were law. His son Alvah well remembers his being called to their village to settle disputes. Arrived at his majority, his father gave him the east half of the southwest quarter of section 22 in Mundy, which was then all new. There was then no road to it, Mr. Alger going and coming by Indian trails. On this land he built a log house, set out an orchard, and improved it. He afterwards bought the west half of the southwest quarter of section 22, and also the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the same section, which he improved, and part of which is now owned by his son, Alvah W.

In politics, Mr. Alger was a Democrat, although he never took an active part in political matters. He was married April 24, 1843, to Mary Lovejoy, who was born Oct. 27, 1826. There were born to them Alvah W., born April 11, 1846; Albert, born Dec. 25, 1847; and Charles, born March 21, 1857. Mr. Alger died July 18, 1865.

ALVAH W. ALGER was born on the old homestead, and intends to make it his permanent home. He has done much to beautify it, having built a new and handsome house, good outbuildings, fences, etc. He was married April 17, 1867, Miss Roseltha Childs becoming his consort. She was born in Broome Co., N. Y., April 24, 1846. She is a daughter of Jesse and Clara (Hubbard) Childs. There have been born to them two children, as follows: Bennie E., born Aug. 22, 1871; and Alonzo, born Nov. 28, 1875. In politics, Mr. Alger is a Democrat.

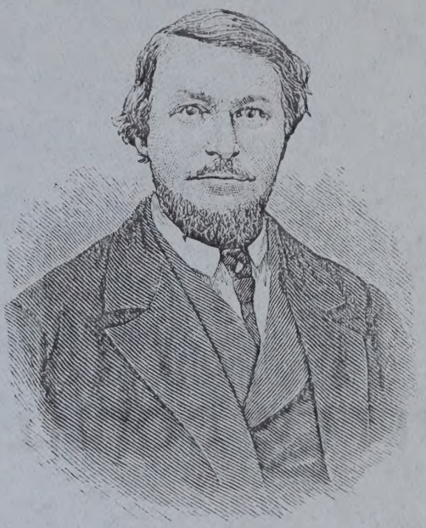
was born in the township of Rush, Monroe Co., N. Y., July 16, 1822. His father, Benjamin T. Reid, came, with his family, to Michigan in 1834, with the intention of locating, but were taken with the cholera on their way, and within five weeks of their arrival Mr. and Mrs. Reid, one son, and a daughter died. John was then a boy of twelve, and was thus left an orphan and without any means. He made his home with his sister, Mrs. Tupper, with whom he resided until after his marriage. The country was then new, and his chances for an education were limited; still he acquired sufficient to fit him for the active and successful business man he afterwards became. He first bought fifty-four acres of land in Clayton, which he afterwards deeded to Dudley Brainard in exchange for the one hundred and twenty acres now owned by his wife, and which is called the Reid farm. One consideration of the exchange was that Mr. Reid should support Mr. Brainard and his sister during their lifetime. This was his start in life. The farm was cleared and improved by his hard labor, and to it he added, until at the time of his death he was the possessor of three hundred acres of land under improvement. He was the owner and proprietor of the Reid House for twelve years, and became widely known. In politics, Mr. Reid was an ardent Republican, and used his influence and money to advance the interests of his party, although he was never an office-seeker or office-holder. He died Jan. 12, 1875, mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.



JOHN REID.

Mr. Reid married, Nov. 20, 1845, Miss Almira Halleck, daughter of Amos and Rachel (Crane) Halleck. Mrs. Reid was born, March 5, 1824, in Chittenden Co., Vt. Their union was blessed with four children, as follows: Adelaide J., born May 27, 1847; Susan A., born April 4, 1853; George W., born Nov. 1, 1857; and Alfred H. born Sept. 3, 1860.

NATHAN W. SELDEN

was born in Haddam, Conn., Nov. 25, 1810. When he was four years old his father moved to Leroy, Genesee Co., N. Y., where Nathan grew to manhood, going to school winters and working on the farm summers. Arrived at his majority, he started out for himself, with nothing to com-farming, but were taken with the cholera on their way, and within two weeks of their arrival Mr. and Mrs. Reid, one son and a daughter died. John was then a boy of twelve, and was thus left an orphan and without any means. He made his home with his sister, Mrs. Tappan, with whom he resided until after her marriage. The country was then new, and his chances for an education were limited; still he acquired sufficient to fit him for the active and successful business man he afterwards became. He first bought fifty-four acres of land in Clayton, which he afterwards deeded to Dudley Brainard in exchange for the one hundred and twenty acres now owned by his wife, and which is called the Reid farm. One consideration of the exchange was that Mr. Reid should support Mr. Brainard and his wife during their lifetime. This was his start in life. He was the owner and proprietor of the Reid House for twelve years, and became widely known. In politics, Mr. Reid was a radical Republican, and used his influence and money to advance the interests of his party, although he was never an office-seeker or office-holder. He died Jan. 12, 1877, mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

JOHN REID.

Mr. Reid married, Nov. 20, 1845, Miss Amelia Hallock, daughter of Amos and Rachel (Crane) Hallock. Mrs. Reid was born, March 8, 1824, in Chemung Co., N. Y. Their union was blessed with four children, as follows: Adelaide J., born May 27, 1847; Susan A., born April 6, 1850; George W., born Nov. 1, 1857; and Alice H., born Sept. 3, 1858.

NATHAN W. SELLERS

was born in Haddam, Conn., Nov. 28, 1816. When he was four years old his father moved to Bergen, Genesee Co., N. Y., where Nathan grew to manhood, getting his education and working on the farm summers. At the age of twenty he started out for himself, with nothing to com-

March 16, 1856. The latter was killed by the cars at Durand, Dec. 6, 1877; he was conductor of a freight train, and was making his last trip as such, prior to taking the position of a passenger conductor.

Archie Howland is now living on and owns a part of the old farm. The daughter, Mary E., is married and lives at Chesaning. John C. graduated in the literary class of 1870, at Ann Arbor, and afterwards was graduated in the law school. He subsequently practiced law three years with Judge Smith, in Detroit, but is now by himself, and has a good practice. George W. went to Ann Arbor in 1867, and was graduated in the medical school in 1870; he practiced medicine in Fenton during 1871; since graduating he has had an office in Flint, where he has a good practice.

SAMUEL W. ALGER.

The subject of this sketch was born in West Bloomfield, Ontario Co., N. Y., Dec. 7, 1821. He was the son of Daniel Alger, of whom an extended notice is given in another part of this work. Samuel W. came into the town of Mundy in 1836, where he grew to manhood. His boyhood days with the Indians he learned to talk their language fluently, and he was an interpreter for them when going with them to Detroit, where they exchanged their furs for blankets, provisions, etc. He was looked up to by them, and his advice and word were law. His son Alvah well remembers his being called to their village to settle disputes. Arrived at his majority, his father gave him the east half of the southwest quarter of section 22 in Mundy, which was then all new. There was then no road to it, Mr. Alger going and coming by Indian trails. On this land he built a log house, set out an orchard, and improved it. He afterwards bought the west half of the southeast quarter of section 22, and also the northeast quarter of the south-east quarter of the same section, which he improved, and part of which is now owned by his son, Alvah W.

In politics, Mr. Alger was a Democrat, although he never took an active part in political matters. He was married April 23, 1848, to Mary Lovejoy, who was born Oct. 27, 1826. There were born to them Alvah W., born April 11, 1849; Albert, born Dec. 25, 1851; and Charles, born March 21, 1857. Mr. Alger died July 15, 1868.

Alvah W. Alger was born on the old homestead, and intends to make it his permanent home. He has done much to beautify it, having built a very good farm-house, good outbuildings, fences, etc. He was married April 17, 1867, Miss Rosetta Childs becoming his companion. She was born in Genesee Co., N. Y., April 24, 1848. She is a daughter of Jesse and Clara (Hibbard) Childs. There have been born to them two children, as follows: Bessie E., born Aug. 22, 1871; and Almon, born Nov. 25, 1875. In politics, Mr. Alger is a Democrat.

JOHN REID

was born in the township of Riga, Monroe Co., N. Y., July 16, 1822. His father, Benjamin T. Reid, came, with his family, to Michigan in 1834, with the intention of

"Besides its obvious attraction for baseball fans, other factors make Cooperstown a very appealing place to visit... 'Norman Rockwell's Idea of America' isn't how the town bills itself, but it could be. What one sees is exactly what one gets - no pretense, no cuteness, no cloying sense that one has been conned into enjoying oneself. And what a soothing way to forget life in the fast lane for a while - even if you have absolutely no idea what a Bowie Kuhn is." San Diego Union

DEER RUN MOTEL

The DEER RUN MOTEL is a privately-owned motel, situated on 46 acres of well-kept lawns, meadows, woods and streams, where you can enjoy a pleasant, relaxing stay any season of the year.

DEER RUN is AAA and Mobil Guide approved, with excellent ratings. Their rooms are large and pleasant. All have individual air conditioning and heat, carpeting, full baths (tub and shower), direct dial phones, color cable television, some radios, and free in-room coffee, tea and ice. A continental breakfast is available.

On the lawns you can play games like croquet, volleyball, boccia, badminton and horseshoes, go jogging, or take a swim in their heated outdoor pool. A trail through the woods leads to a stream where you can do some fishing, or just watch the deer, birds, beavers and other wildlife. In the meadows under the trees, you'll find picnic tables and gas grills free to use. Next door is the Otsego Golf Course where you can play some golf and enjoy the beautiful scenery of Otsego Lake at the same time.

You can be just as busy in the winter, with many outdoor activities such as innertube riding, skating, skiing and ice fishing. Restaurants, stores, boat liveries, public beaches and horseback riding are all nearby. Just ask your hosts Roland and Herta Mistler for information.

For reservations at DEER RUN, call 607/547-8600, or write RD 2, Box 722, Cooperstown, N.Y. 13326.

Dear Helen,

I'm late again writing and do apologize. You have been just fantastic sending me so much information.

I am sending a picture of the Short homestead taken around 1900. Also copies of clippings out of the Oneonta Daily News that my Aunt Martha Gravelin sent. Hope you find them interesting.

Bick will be going on a business trip 10/24 for 2 weeks so I'm taking a couple vacation days so I can go ancestor hunting. I hope to spend one full day at the Archives. I'll also be spending a day at the Denver Library and will see what I can find on Poindexter in South Dakota. I'll also check to see if I can find any Shorts in Colorado they may be ours. I have found Shorts of today but need to check further.

I've also sent for a deed and

Hon. T. G. Smith, Probate Judge.

Dear Sir: Being confined at home by sickness I am unable to attend at the hearing on the petition of John Stevens for his appointment as administrator of the Estate of my deceased mother Eliza Emmire Stearns. Hence I write you this to say that I do not think there is any occasion for the appointment of any administrator, as my mother disposed of all her property in her lifetime. If however you deem that an administrator should be appointed then I desire most earnestly to protest against the appointment of the said John Stevens under any circumstances. I would be satisfied to have Lorenzo appointed or Delos Short or some other unprejudiced person.

Respectfully yours
Eliza J. Benedict

JUSTICE STORY

BY JOSEPH McNAMARA

The 'Black Dahlia' murder

WHEN THE nude body of curvy, movie-struck Elizabeth (Beth) Short was found, severed at the waist, in a weed-strewn lot Jan. 15, 1947, it spawned one of the greatest manhunts in the history of Los Angeles. The gruesome slaying of the raven-haired beauty, nicknamed the Black Dahlia, touched a romantic nerve in post-war America, launched a flood of headlines nationwide and called forth a procession of weirdos and publicity nuts.

At last count, more than 40 persons have confessed to the sensational murder—more bogus admissions than in any other case in the annals of California crime. Legions of helpful amateur detectives offered "solutions" to the puzzling case.

"You can have a theory for each day of the year, and if you divide the days in half you can have twice as many theories," homicide Detective Sgt. Kirk Mellecker, who has headed the case for the last eight years, told The News last week. "We've heard most of them."

Yet, the killer remains at large, unless claimed by death in the intervening 37 years.

It is ironic that the attention and recognition that 22-year-old Beth Short so vainly sought in her quest of a film career came to her only after death. Even the eye-catching monicker "Black Dahlia" seems to have been conferred on her by an enterprising newspaper rewrite man after her slaying, although some acquaintances have come forward to say she was so named because of her fondness for black attire, especially filmy gowns.

To her friends she was mostly Beth, with lovely skin and gray-green eyes that captivated men. She had no name when found in two pieces that Wednesday morning by a horrified pedestrian on South Norton Ave. Her head was bruised. Her mouth and breasts were slashed. Her lower body had been mutilated by knife. And rope burns marked her wrists and ankles. That she had been held prisoner and tortured before death was obvious to detectives.

Why was she dissected, so neatly that vital organs were untouched? One theory was so that she could be transported more easily. Tire tracks nearby indicated she had been taken to the lot by auto. But the Dahlia was only 5-feet-3, 105 pounds. Surely her killer might tote 105 pounds. Unless the slayer was a woman, it was pointed out.

A revengeful lesbian, furious at being repulsed by the Dahlia, was one theory that has been advanced about the slayer. Another was that she had been killed by a sadistic pickup—and pickups were the Dahlia's specialty. Or a possible extortion victim who mutilated the pretty drifter to make it appear a sex-killing. Maybe a mortician helper or someone with a knowledge of anatomy. All theories. One a day.

Even before she was identified, homicide detectives were besieged with requests to see the body, to speculate on who she was. Within 24 hours FBI fingerprint files identified her as Elizabeth Short, born July 29, 1924, in Hyde Park, Mass., one of four daughters of Cleo and Phoebe Short.

Beth's father had divorced her mother in 1939 and moved to California, and two years later the girl joined him in Vallejo. However, Short, a navy yard worker, found it difficult to cope with his high-spirited daughter, who had an inordinate fondness for servicemen. Picked up by juvenile authorities for late hours and sundry peccadilloes, she was shipped back to her mother.

But Beth liked California and she returned soon. In 1943-44 she worked as a civilian employe in the post exchange at Camp Cooke. Her fingerprinting for this job later helped in the identification of her body.

Beth fell in love with an Air Corps major, Matt Gordon, who was later killed in action. There was also an Army lieutenant. And a Marine was in the picture. Beth, it seems, did more than her part for the war effort.

But there was also the matter of earning a living. Though ambitious, she was unskilled and had to compete with hundreds of other stunners seeking fame in Hollywood. She became a familiar figure to bartenders and waiters in cafes there.

With discovery of her body, scores of detectives under homicide's Capt. Jack Donohoe were assigned to the case and they quickly pieced together the last days of the Black Dahlia. She had lived with girl roommates in and around Los Angeles and San Diego, mostly as their guest. Between such stays she often slept in her fetching black clothes in all-night movie houses.

ON JAN. 8, the Dahlia left the San Diego home, where she had been living for about a month with yet another roommate, and was driven to L.A. by a man whom the roommate knew only as "Red." He turned out to be a former Army musician who helped her deposit her luggage at a bus depot in L.A. the next day and drove out of her life. He had an alibi for the time of the slaying.

A girl acquaintance said that six days before the murder she saw Beth in an apartment hotel lobby embracing a young man "dressed like a gas station attendant." She was seen in bars five and four days before she died, and one barkeep said her gay vivaciousness had recently turned to sadness. She was spotted at various other places up until 5:30 p.m. of the day before her body was found. When last seen, she was with a busty 6-foot blond woman who appeared vexed when Beth flirted with men, according to homicide detectives.

But the all-important question of where the Black Dahlia had spent the night . . . and with whom . . . has defied intensive investigation.

Word of the killing was hardly on the street before suspects were being rounded up. One man was hauled off a bus in Merced, Calif., because as he slept in his seat he mumbled, "I forgot to cut the scar off her leg." But he had an airtight alibi.

And then the cranks started confessing. But on Friday, Jan. 24, 1947, postal authorities intercepted an envelope addressed to local newspapers. The address and message were made of letters cut from newspapers and pasted on the envelope.

"Here is Dahlia's belongings. Letter to follow," was the cryptic message. Inside were clippings of the death of Beth's Air Corps major in India, her birth certificate, her ID card and Social Security card, comb and makeup kit and a black address book, all obviously from her purse.

IN THE BOOK were 76 names, addresses and phone numbers of people Beth knew during her hurried, frantic chase of success. It was a motley group; some in the film world, others not. But investigators failed to link any to the sordid crime.

The letter reeked of gasoline. Probers thought of the sighting of Beth in a clinch with a man "dressed like a gas station attendant" in the hotel lobby and the pace of the probe quickened.

Four more pasted-letter notes followed. "Dahlia killer cracking. Wants terms." read one. Another: "I will give up in Dahlia killing if I get 10 years. Don't try to find me."

Shortly after came this: "Here it is. Turning in Wednesday Jan. 29 at 10 a.m. Had my fun at police—Black Dahlia avenger." The last read: "I'm afraid I won't get a fair deal. Dahlia killing justified."

Officials felt that the letter with contents of the Dahlia's purse was from either the murderer or someone with intimate knowledge of the crime, and quite possibly all were from the slayer. With an end to the letters came a distinct setback to hopes of solving the mystery of who killed the ill-starred young woman.

There were flares of police interest. A G.I. at Fort Dix, N.J., admitted that he "thought" he had killed the Black Dahlia because he was fearsome when he was drinking. And, he said, he had been in L.A. drinking at the time Beth Short was slain. Not so, it seemed after investigation. Drinking yes, in Los Angeles, no.

According to Sgt. Mellecker, the calls have trickled to a near stop. It is a rather cold trail.

'WE GET A few calls whenever the TV film ("Who is the Black Dahlia?") plays on the late show," he said. "We'll investigate any worthwhile lead—the case is still open—but there's not much lately.

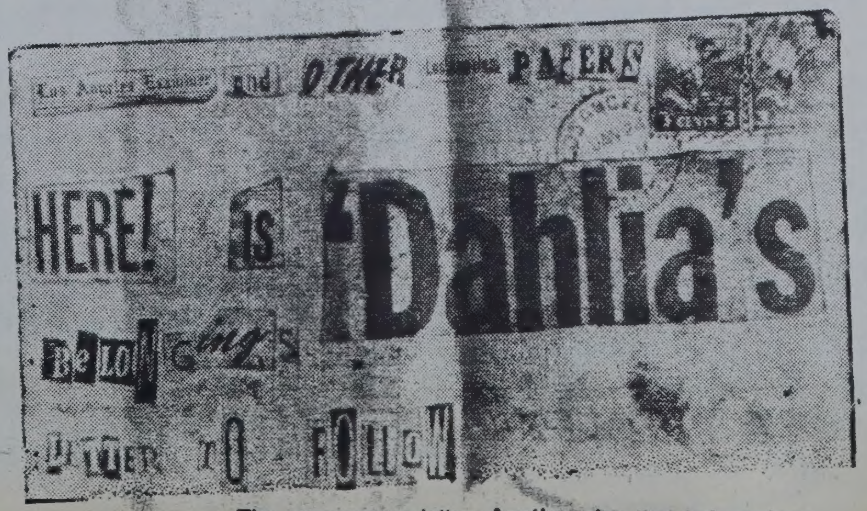
As for the wild surge of interest across the country the case generated in its day, the homicide sleuth sees this as indicative of the times, the post-World War II malaise. He adds that there simply was not as much crime then and we as a people were more easily shocked.

"If it occurred today, the Black Dahlia slaying would be relegated to an inside page," Wallecker declared. "She would not draw nearly as much ink."

Which says something about our reading tastes in the 1980s, perhaps, but even more about the society in which we live.

The lovely victim, Elizabeth Short (the Black Dahlia) is shown with her lover, Maj. Matt Gordon, above, who died in action. Forty people have confessed to her killing, but no one has ever been arrested for the hideous crime that shook the nation.

Who killed the star-struck beauty? A vengeful lesbian, a casual pickup, a mortician, a drifter?



The anonymous letter: Another clue that led nowhere.

DWIGHT BABCOCK

Dwight Babcock - this liberal & public - spirited citizen whose business as a manufacturer of pine & hardwood lumber is one of the best enterprises of Flint, and who is known among his old comrads as one of the bravest boys in Blue who fought for the old flag in the 60's was born in Burton Twp., Feb 25, 1844. His father, Abelino Babcock was a native of Cooperstown, Otsego Co., N.Y. and was a playfellow & associate of the renowned novelist, Fenimore Cooper. His father Samuel Babcock was a farmer and dairyman and lost a leg in the Rev. War.

The father of our subject, came west after marriage and in 1834 settled in Rochester, Oakland Co., Mich. and bought 80 acres of Government land. Built a log house in which there was not a single nail, board or shingle. He came here a very poor man and during the first 18 mos. of his residence, he had only 25¢ in money. He took a 3 month contract on the old railroad from Pt. Huron to Flint, but as that was the time of the Wild Cat Speculation, he lost all that he had put into it. In 1867, he located in Flint, where he had been for some time buying produce as a partner of J.B. Covert. His business was a success, and he became a stockholder in the Genessee County Savings Bank. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Episciple Church, and for 21 years, superintended the Sunday School. He was in his early life an abolitionist and later a Republican and died at age of 64 years. The mother of our subject, was known in her maidenhood as Emeline Shaw. She also was a native of Cooperstown, where her father Sylvester Shaw was a farmer. She died in Grand Blanc and of her 13 children, 12 grew to maturity and 9 are now living. 2 brothers served in the war. David whowas a member of the 27th Mich. Inf. and D.ied at Crab Orchard in 1864. S.S who is now a prominent attorney in Detroit, served for 2 yrs. in a N.Y. Regiment.

In 1862, he enlisted in Co. K, 27th Mich. Inf. and took part in the battle at Bowling Green, Jackson, Champion Hill, The Seige at Vicksberg. After that memorable 4th of July 1863, when Vicksberg surrendered, he went down the Mississippi and afterward crossed the mountains of eastern Tenn. and took part in conflict at Campbell Station and seige at Knoxville. He went about at that time to Harper's Ferry and became a part of the army of Potomac. He was in engagements all the time from the battle of Rapidan to the surrender of Petersberg. His Regiment was the first to place National Colors on the parapet at Petersberg and they were present at Lee's surrender at Appomatox, and took part in the grand review. After the death of Abraham Lincoln, they were placed on guard at ol arsenal prison over the conspirators and were on duty until execution of those prisoners.

After receiving an honorable discharge as Orderly Sgt., Mr. Babcock engaged in farming in Davison, buying about 240 acres of land. In 1867, he began lumbering in which he has been successful. He employs 60 men the year round. Handles 6 to 8 million feet of lumber a year at his different camps. In 1889 he built a saw and grist mill in Flint. He married in Flint in 1871 to Susan Baker a native of Devonshire England and they have 2 children. Abelino who is a member of the class of '92 at Flint High School and Elizabeth. This gentleman is a prominent member of both Masonic order and Methodist. Ep. Church of which he is a liberal supporter. A Republican in politics and a staunch one, believing that in the doctrine of that party will be found the true solution of our political questions.

TORRY J. LUCE

was a native of this county, being born in Middlefield, April 5, 1798, and was the son of John and Sally Luce. His father carried on the business of blacksmithing and farming. His life was passed in the mercantile business.

He was married March 14, 1825, to Huldah Eliza, daughter of Amasa and Sarah Peters, she being born in the town of Hartwick, April 2, 1807. Her father was one of the early settlers of that town, having removed from the State of Connecticut, of which he was a native, about the year 1790. Their family consisted of Rufus P., born in Middlefield, May 12, 1826; Caroline L., born June 13, 1828; Cynthia Ann, born May 17, 1830, who died in infancy; Dolphus Skinner, born March 17, 1832, died Oct. 17, 1876,—the last three were natives of the town of Butternuts; Henry James, born in Hartwick, March 5, 1847.

was born in Hartwick, Nov. 22, 1824, being the youngest of a family of fifteen children. Amasa, his father, was a native of Connecticut, born July 7, 1772, and emigrated to this town in 1794, and was married in 1799. His wife, Elizabeth, was born in Greenbush, Albany Co., Feb. 29, 1782. His father was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and sacrificed his life to establish the independence of his country. He died Dec. 9, 1844; his wife survived him but a few years, she passing away Aug. 15, 1851. Cyrus passed his early life on his father's farm, and has pursued that business ever since, being located on the same farm at the present time which his father cleared and settled when he first came to this town. He was married Oct. 13, 1845, to Mary M., daughter of George and Polly Murdock, old settlers of the town of Hartwick, where she was born Aug. 24, 1827. CHAPTER XLIII.

TOWN OF LAURENS.

Organization—Geographical—Topographical—First Settlers and their Locations—Incidents—Initial Events—First Town-Meeting—Officers Elected—Supervisors and Town Clerks from Organization of the Town to 1878—Present Town Officers—Agricultural and General Statistics—Area—Equalized and Assessed Valuation—Population from 1814 to 1875.

LAURENS was formed from Otsego on the 2d day of April, 1810. It is an interior town, lying southwest of the centre of the county, and is bounded as follows, viz.: on the north by New Lisbon and Hartwick; on the east by Milford and Oneonta; on the south by Oneonta and Otego; and on the west by Morris. Otego creek flows nearly south through a fertile and productive valley. With the exception of this valley the surface is a rolling upland, the soil consisting chiefly of a sandy and gravelly loam, and is generally productive.

Interest always attaches to those courageous spirits who leave the comforts of civilization, and threading their way into an uninhabited region, first erect the standard of civilization in the wilderness. To Joseph Mayall is the honor inscribed of being the first white settler within the boundaries of the present town of Laurens. He located, in 1773, about one mile north of the village of Laurens, on one hundred acres of land which had been given him by the proprietors of the patent. He was a man of great courage, and during the Revolutionary struggle became somewhat celebrated as an Indian fighter. In consequence of his numerous contests with the Indians they learned to respect him and his family. Although by birth an Englishman, he early espoused the cause of the colonists, and at the close of the war was singled out as a victim by the Tories, who resolved to inflict condign punishment upon him for the course he had pursued. While hunting he was accosted by three men, with a request to pilot them to the fording place on the Susque-—FAILED.—The Bull's Head Bank of N. Y. City—an institution which has paid 16 per cent and whose stock recently sold at 250—failed last week, and the stockholders lose their capital. It is thought the depositors will get off with a slight per cent of loss. The trouble was, the bank was "robbed from the inside" by those employed in it. They deserve a severer punishment than burglars.

DEATHS.

On the 16th day of March, 1873, at the residence of his son, JOSEPH G. COOKE, in Saratoga Springs, TIMOTHY COOKE, in the 84th year of his age.

In recording the death of this aged citizen, whose life has extended through so many eventful years, something more than a passing notice is due to the virtues which adorned his character, and the friends and relatives who mourn his loss. Mr. Cooke was born at Stamford, Vermont, on the 23d day of August, 1789. He emigrated to this State at an early age, and was for many years a citizen of Sharon, Schoharie Co., where he was frequently called to fill various offices of public trust. He was a soldier in the second war with England, and bore a portion of the fatigues and privations which our army were compelled to endure at Plattsburgh. In 1824 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Westcott, sister of the late James R. Westcott, a well-known citizen of this place. Soon after he removed to Milford, Otsego Co., where he resided until 1864, when he removed to this village, to be near his children, Joseph G. Cooke and Mrs. Charles S. Lester, who were located here. In 1865 he met with a deep affliction in the loss of his wife, and since that time he has resided with his son, Joseph G. Cooke.

Mr. Cooke was a man of extensive reading, and thoroughly acquainted with the history and politics of our country. He maintained his interest in them unabated until the day of his death, and always held and expressed decided opinions upon political questions, without acrimony or unkindness toward those who differed with him on such subjects. His kindness of heart and integrity of purpose were so unfailing and decided that they won him the esteem and respect of all those with whom he became acquainted. His life was singularly pure and blameless, his character without reproach, and his charitable and Christian spirit was quick to forgive an injury and slow to forget a kindness. He was very fond of social intercourse with his friends, and fonder still of his children and family. The following extract from his private diary, made at the time of the death of his wife, beautifully illustrates this trait in his character:

"When my life shall close, as it will at no distant day, my last thoughts shall cluster around those loved ones, whom I hope and trust God will own and bless. May His will be done."

His last years were soothed by the kindness and attention of his children, and in his last hours his eyes turned with love and affection to them as they all stood around his bedisde. His death was peaceful and serene, as prophetically foretold by the Psalmist: "Mark the perfect man and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."—[Saratoga Sentinel.

NEW YORK, March 20, 1873.

We note a somewhat better feeling in the trade this week, though no very important transactions have taken place. The business has been chiefly in English. The general impression is that prices have touched bottom, and that the dullness which has pervaded the market during the past two months must now give way to more activity, which may soon lead to better prices. The London market is also reported firmer.

NEW YORK WEEKLY HOP REPORT.

Prepared Expressly for the Freeman's Journal, EMMET WELLS, Dealer in Hops exclusively, only on Commission, No. 59 Pearl Street. Consignments respectfully solicited.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24, 1869

Immediately after the issue of our last, a ve spirited demand set in for good grades of last yea growth. Some 4,000 bales were brought up for port, at prices ranging from 6 to 8 cts. ℔ lb. are utterly at loss to know the cause of this sudd and heavy movement in 1868's; the latest advi by cable and mail certainly do not warrant it. T heavy drain upon the stock of 1868's, has resulted an advance of two cents ℔ lb. on choice qualiti while the best new Hops have declined two cents

It is now very evident that our early estimate the new growth (130,000) bales is considerably high. This estimate was made and published bef the picking season had fairly commenced. N that the crop is secured, a more correct estimate be made. It is a well-known fact that the crop New York State was a "top crop;" that is to sa the vines contained comparatively few "arms" a "shoots," the growth of the bur being chiefly c fined to, or concentrated at the tops of the pole yet aside from this fact, all growers with whom have conversed upon the subject of yield, say th are disappointed in the amount; after having ished picking and curing, the yield proves less th they had anticipated. Our advices by mail and t egraph from every district throughout the countr express the one and same opinion, therefore, acti upon the principle that "what everybody says m be true," we cheerfully yield to the public sentime on this point, without however, venturing any op ion whatever as to how much we may have over timated the growth.

While some exceedingly fine samples of new ha been offered upon our market, the supply of inferi samples has greatly predominated and if what have thus far seen affords any criterion of the qu ity of the bulk of the stock back in the country, would like to know where our good Hops for expo are coming from!

The first sale in London, of any importance, new American Hops, is that of 100 bales, just r ported by Cable. Price, 70 shillings per cwt., equ to 14½ cents net U. S. currency.

Receipts of the week, 735 bales. Total receip of the season, 2,307 bales. Export clearances la week, 1,261 bales. Total exports of the season fro the port of New York, 4,860 bales.

Hannah Seacord, of Naples. In his business relations Mr. B. has always ranked "high," and was never asked, as he says, for an endorser till he began to deal with Presbyterians in Naples.

Short, Fayette D., Richmond, was born June 15, 1842. His father was Hiram, a son of Philip. Hiram was born in 1816 and died in 1883. His wife was Elizabeth Happough, of Canadice, daughter of Peter Happough, and they were the parents of six children, as follows: Persis E., Fayette D., Peter A., John, Othello A., and Emma B. (Mrs. Othello H. Hamilton). He settled on the farm now owned by his son Othello A., and there his children were born. Fayette D. Short was educated at Lima Seminary. He married Adelaide E., daughter of Philip Reed 2d, and they have had these children: Myra B., born in 1866, wife of Arthur B. Newton, of Fairport; Clark Reed, born in 1869, a clerk in Livonia; Bessie E., born in 1870 (deceased); and Richmond B., born in 1872, now at Lima Seminary. Wheeler Reed (brother of Philip 2d, father of Mrs. Fayette D. Short) was born in Vermont in 1788. He was twice married and had twenty children, fifteen of whom raised families, among whom are Mrs. Benjamin Coy, of Livonia, Mrs. Emily Longyear, of North Bloomfield, Fitch, of Kansas, and several in Michigan.

Oaks, Nathan, Phelps, one of two children of Thaddeus and Fanny (Dickinson) Oaks, was born in Phelps at Oaks Corners November 9, 1821. His father, Thaddeus, was born in Conway, Mass., and came to Phelps when a boy with his father, Jonathan Oaks, in 1790, and lived and died here. His mother, Fanny Dickinson, was also born in Conway, Mass. Nathan Oaks married, October 18, 1848, Susan Hemingway, of Palmyra, Wayne county, daughter of Truman and Mary (Aldrich) Hemingway. They have four children: Thaddeus, William A., Nathan, jr., and Edward P. Oaks. The farm comprising 170 acres is devoted to general farming products and seven acres of hops. Mr. Oaks has always been an enterprising and representative citizen.

Tichenor, Isaac M., Canandaigua, was born at Newark, N. J., February 23, 1789, a son of Moses Tichenor, of New Jersey. Isaac M. was one of two children. His sister Mary married a Mr. Sexton, who moved to Jamaica in the West Indies, and was never heard of afterward. The early life of our subject was spent in the town of his birth. He was of French descent and was educated by a French tutor. After a few years spent on a farm he went into the shoe business in Newark, N. J., which he followed until about 1837, when, on account of ill-health, he was ordered by his physician to find a quiet home in the country. He was an ardent student of nature, and after inspecting the country all about, permanently located on the west shore of Canandaigua Lake, where he bought the farm now occupied by F. O. Chamberlain. He was there about twelve years, and then bought the farm where the rest of his life was spent. Tichenor's Point on the lake was named for him. He died August 17, 1863, and the church of which he was a member lost one of its firmest supporters. He was a strong Republican. He was also a soldier of the War of 1812, and at his death was one of the last survivors of this war. He married, when but seventeen years of age, Jemima Baldwin, of Newark, and they had eight children, three still living: Henrietta D., wife of S. C. White, of Augusta, Ga.; Harriet P., wife of Rev. A. M. Stowe, of Canandaigua; rey of Phelps. The grandfather was Hugh Humphrey of Phelps, and his father was Oliver Humphrey, one of the early settlers of this locality. They have one son, Harold Hunt. Mr. Hunt has been for ten years on the farm which he now occupies, which he uses largely as a grain farm.

Short, Daniel, Richmond, settled in Honeoye, where Dr. Wilbur now resides, in an early day, coming from Massachusetts. His son, Daniel 2d, and grandson, Daniel 3d, were born in Williamstown, Mass., and all came here. Daniel 3d was eighteen years of age when he moved here, and had been previously drafted into service in the war of 1812 for three months. He and his sister, Speedy, came here in a buggy and both entered into service with their uncles, William and Abel Short, who had come here a little earlier. Daniel 3d married Mary Doolittle, born in Bristol, whose ancestors came from Connecticut. Three of his children died young; the others were: Speedy, Harriet, Daniel 4th, Clarissa, Lucy, Adaline, Spencer D., Nancy, and Emeline. Daniel 3d was commissioner of highways fourteen years. He died in 1867, and his wife in 1869. Daniel 4th was born in 1823. He was educated in the common and select schools, taught two winters after his majority, and worked by the month on his father's farm until twenty-seven years of age. He then married Persis E. Doolittle, whose father, Dr. Willard Doolittle, was a practicing physician here forty years. She had been a school teacher for several years and died in 1889. They had five children, two of whom died young; the others are: Louis Daniel, born in 1864, graduated from Rochester University, class of 1888, and has been mostly employed since in newspaper work; Mary D. was born in 1869, graduated from Lima Seminary and is now at home; and Willard Scott, now a student in Lima Seminary. Mr. Short was a revenue assessor two years, county superintendent of the poor in 1889, town assessor four years, and has been an auctioneer for thirty years, and a farmer all his life. He is a Republican and a member of the Congregational church here. His farm consists of 125 acres. Spencer D., son of Daniel 3d, was born in Livonia, July 31, 1832. He was educated in the schools of Honeoye, and his residence has been on the homestead, first taken up by Philip Short, a cousin of Daniel 2d, about 1792, then owned by Philip 2d, then by Daniel, and now by Spencer D. The latter has been assessor, commissioner of highways, and supervisor 1869–70–71 and '72, and was chairman of the Board during the the latter two years. He is a Republican. In 1861 he married Lorinda A., daughter of Gideon Pitts, whose father, Gideon, was one of the founders of the town. Six children have been born to them: Abbie L. (Mrs. E. O. Terry of Nunda); Nellie E. (Mrs. James B. Bothwell of Missouri); Spencer Wells, a banker in Iowa; Florence N., lives at home; Ralph Richmond and Gideon Pitts, both students at Lima Seminary. Mr. Short's farm consists of 160 acres. He makes a specialty of sheep, and for several years has been purchasing agent for large breeders of sheep in the South and West.

Gatchel Family, Origin and Descendants of the.—1st, William Gatchel, grandfather and great-grandfather to the generation of descendants now living, was born April 13, 1733, birthplace not known, but lived in the town of Chazy, near Lake Champlain, in northern part of New York State. At an early date he married Eunice Graves, by whom he had the following children, to wit: William, Nancy, Don A., Harvey, Saph-

In the Matter of Mary Short an applicant for a pension.

State of New-York
Otsego County ss:

Mary Short of Cooperstown Otsego County being duly sworn says: This deponant is the widow of Samuel Short who died in Cooperstown aforesaid on the 21st day of March 1847: about 82 years of age. Said Samuel Short and this deponant were lawfully Married over fifty years since and about fifty five years ago according to this deponants best recollection, knowledge and beliff, and lived together as husband and wife until his death: the family record of said marriage having been distroyed or lost accidentally more than thirty years since. Said Samuel Short for about 16 years previous to his death drew a pension of $80. a year for his services as a soldier in the revolutionary war. The papers and evidence in relation to his services in said war are on file in the pension office, as this deponant is informed and believes true, and are hereby refered to as a part of the evidence in this case. Said Samuel Short was about 18 years of age when he left the army as this deponant is informed and believes true. Said Samuel Short died poor leaving no property for this deponant except a small house and lot in Cooperstown worth about $200 and producing a rent of only about $20. a year which this deponant has the use of during her life time: which is all the income this deponant has for her support, and the remainder of this deponants living is derived from the charity of her children and friends who are also poor. This deponant is now 75 years of age of sound and good mind; but in feeble health and unable to labor and so helpless that she requires the help of a female servant to take care of her continually. From the time of this deponants marriage with said Samuel Short until his death said Short with the exception of a very few years was out of health and not able to labor. poor and destitute of property and was supported mostly by the daily labor of this deponant and her children with the exception of said pension which was not one half sufficient to supply him & his family with the necessaries of life. Said Short and this deponant have raised a family of 11 children all of whom are poor and have no property over and above their own necessary living and are not able to do much if any thing for the support of this deponant.

This deponant therefore humbly petitions that she may be permitted to recieve the pension of said Samuel Short from and after his death during her life together with his back pay from the time of his discharge from the Army until he commenced drawing his pension as aforesaid making about 49 years at $80. a year, amounting to $3900. besides interest, on the 21st of March 1848.

RAUH SAYS HE IS GUILTY.

One of Would-be Kent Furniture Company Robbers Gives Up.

Henry Rauh, one of the two men who attempted to hold up and rob Treasurer Wolcott of the Kent Furniture company within the offices of the company a couple of months ago, has pleaded guilty in the Superior court to the charges of burglary and larceny. He changed his plea yesterday afternoon, the plea of Monday having been not guilty. His partner, Fred Boos, it is thought, will stand trial, and Rauh will probably be retained as a witness against him.

HE DROPPED DEAD

Dr. Uriah M. Short Passed Away Suddenly Last Night.

Dr. Uriah M. Short dropped dead last night at his residence, 156 South Division street. He was in his usual health, apparently, during the day and ate a hearty supper. About 9 o'clock he went upstairs to speak to a roomer, but fell on his face as he reached the door of the room. Dr. Burleson, who lives just across the street, was called, but found that death had been almost instantaneous, with symptoms of apoplexy.

Dr. Short was 5[illegible] years old and had been a resident of Grand Rapids for twenty-five years. He leaves a widow but no children. At the request of the widow Coroner Luton was summoned and it was decided to hold a post mortem today to determine the cause of death.

A Drug Clerk's Experience.

The following letter from Mr. H. B. Stark, 10-2 Pine St., Scranton, Pa., explains itself and will be of interest to thousands who have suffered the tortures of that common trouble, hemorrhoids or piles.

Mr. Stark says: "I feel it my duty to write an unsolicited testimonial regarding the Pyramid Pile Cure. Since a boy I have suffered untold agony from piles. I have tried all available remedies, consulted many physicians, but without help or even relief. I have been employed as a drug clerk for the past fifteen years, consequently have been in a position where I could try all of the new and old remedies for piles, but as before stated to no avail.

We commend the action of Farmer B. to the imitation of many others who have "money to invest." But few of our farmers should buy more land—but let them improve what they have ; money spent in putting up good buildings, setting out fruit trees, enriching the soil, building neat and substantial fences, improving the quality of stock kept on the farm, in the purchase of books, &c., is money well invested. Farmers, make your homes attractive to your children, by spending more money on your farms—render them "model" farms. Depend upon it, the investment will "pay."

Sanitary.—The Republican of last week accompanied the official report of the recent Board of Health of this village with a characteristic article of a column and a half. That print has been persistent in its efforts to throw ridicule and contempt upon whatever was done or attempted by those of our citizens upon whom the unpleasant duty devolved of endeavoring to arrest the spread of a dangerous and loathsome disease. This course has been persisted in to an extent which has fully revealed the ill nature attempted to be concealed by a flimsy vail of humor, and has justly called forth the censure of our citizens. The "animus" of the Repub. is explained in the remark that "These sanitary officials being the persistent disciples of Buchanan," etc.

The Republican never omits an opportunity to assail the official action of a Democrat, and hence its abuse of the "sanitary officials" of this village. Doubtless its motive will be correctly appreciated. In any similar emergency, it is to be hoped the village Trustees will act more considerately, and place upon the "Sanitary Board" at least one of the "officials" of the Republican office—then every thing will be "O. K."

Life Insurance.—As a case in point, illustrating the advantages of the system of Life Assurance in one of its peculiar forms, we state from personal knowledge that a man recently died in one of the western States, indebted to one of our citizens in the sum of five hundred dollars, which he had no means to pay, and which the creditor had taken the precaution a few years since to protect himself against, by effecting insurance on the life of his debtor for $500 in the "New York Life Insurance Company," and has been promptly paid that amount through F. A. Lee, Esq., the Agent of the Company, in this village.

Donation Visit and Oyster Supper.—The friends of Rev. J. L. Wells, are respectfully invited to attend a Donation Visit and Oyster Supper, for his benefit, at the M. E. Church of this village, (the parsonage being impracticable for such an occasion) on the Evening of Wednesday, Jan 23d, 1861. Those wishing to attend in the afternoon, are requested to meet at the parsonage. By Order of Committee.

at the position in which he found his daughter and the Captain, seized the latter and actually threw him overboard from the yacht into the sea. In an instant, regreting his conduct, the Marquis and the crew got out the yacht's boat and made every endeavor to save the Captain's life, but without avail. He was drowned.

The Marquis forthwith returned to England and gave himself up to the authorities, and he is to be tried by his Peers, for which purpose the Hall at Westminister is to be fitted up as a High Court of Justice. The trial, if the circumstances stated are correct, will probably result in a conviction of manslaughter ; in which event, as in the case of Lord Byron in 1765, the Marquis will plead his privilege as a Peer and be discharged.

DONATION VISIT.—The friends of Rev. R. A. Spafford are invited to make him a Donation Visit at the Baptist Church, in Hartwick, on the evening of Tuesday, January 15th, 1861—accompanied with good music. By order Committee.

DIED,

In Hamilton, Madison Co., on the 21st of December, NELLIE A., aged 9 years; on the 25th, ADA M., aged 13 years; and on the 30th, LUCRETIA, aged 16 years, all of Diptheria—children of R. A. and Roxana Robinson, formerly of this county. Mr. R. moved to Hamilton about two years ago, for the purpose of educating these three daughters.

Mrs. MARY SHORT, relict of Samuel Short, departed this life, in the eighty fifth year of her age, Dec. 23d, 1860, at the residence of her son Erastus Short, in Cooperstown.

She was a resident of this county over sixty years, maintaining a commendable position as a wife, parent, friend and neighbor, and died a member of the M. E. Church, to which she had sustained a consistent relation for more than fifty years. Her funeral sermon was preached by Rev. J. L. Wells, her pastor, from Matt. 25: 10, on the Sabbath following her death. She now rests in the burying ground contiguous to the Baptist Church to await the resurrection of the just.—[Com.

Cooperstown, Jan. 2, 1861.

TO THE SUPREME COURT.—In the matter of a petition of Elihu Phinney for a partition of lands.

The petition of Elihu Phinney, of Otsego county, showeth, That your petitioner is seized in fee and in possession of the undivided seventy of seventy-two parts of the premises hereinafter described, the same having been purchased by your petitioner under a foreclosure and sale on a mortgage given by Jonathan Furlong, who is now dead, to your petitioner. That the said Furlong in his lifetime was, and his heirs at law now are, seized in fee of the undivided two of seventy-two parts of said premises, the same having conveyed to said Furlong by deed from Caleb Thayer. Said premises are situated in Cooperstown, in said county, and described as follows: "All that certain lot and building formerly known as the Saxton Academy lot, but now known as the Otsego Academy, and bounded on the east by lands of the Baptist church, on the south by lands of L. I. Burditt, on the west by lands of Erastus Short, on the north by the highway, containing between two and three acres of land." That the lands above described are all the real estate owned in common with the said Furlong, or his heirs at law.—That the heirs of said Furlong are wholly unknown to, and cannot, after due diligence, be ascertained by your petitioner. That your petitioner is of full age, and that there are no specific liens upon said premises to the knowledge of your petitioner. That Pierce Bowden is now in possession of two of seventy two parts of said premises, and claims to occupy and hold possession under said Furlong's title of his undivided interest of two of seventy-two parts.

Your petitioner therefore prays that a commission may be issued out of this court, and a partition of said premises be made according to the respective rights of the parties therein: or if the same cannot be done without prejudice to the owners, then that the premises may be sold according to law, and the proceeds, after deducting the expenses for the sale of the premises, be divided according to law, or that your petitioner may have such other or further relief as may be equitable in the premises. Dated Dec. 22, 1860.

S. Crippen, Att'y. ELIHU PHINNEY.

Otsego County, ss.—Elihu Phinney being duly sworn says, that he has heard read the foregoing petition by him subscribed, and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true of his own knowledge.

ELIHU PHINNEY.

Sworn to before me the 22d day of December, 1860.

Jayne's Vermifuge has gladdened the heart of many a mother, who had expected soon to follow her child to the grave, but found it restored to life and rosy health by this celebrated specific. It expels worms without irritating the coats of the stomach and bowels, and combines the virtues of a tonic, with those of an alterative. The Barometer.

HITHERTO the Barometer has been but ... known in common use in this vicinity; and ... asmuch as some of our citizens begin to consider ... sufficient importance to be induced to purcha... would beg the privilege to point out from good ... thority, those which are considered the best, and wh... the poorest, so that persons who may hereafter ... to avail themselves of one, can be able to judge of ... true merits of the instrument.

The Cistern Barometer has ever been conside... the best in use by all who have given their opin... in books. "Brande's Encyclopædia of Science, L... erature and Art," a late popular work of near ... pages, contains a description of ten different kin... beginning with the Cistern Barometer as the best, ... puts down the Wheel Barometer as the poorest: ... is thus described: "Fig. 5 is the Wheel Barom... proposed by Hooke. A small weight floats on ... surface of the mercury in a siphon barometer, wh... is very nearly counterpoised by another weight, co... nected with the former by a string passing over a p... ley. When the mercury rises, the weight descen... and turns the pulley. An index attached to the a... of the pulley shows on the dial the quantity of revol... tion. This Barometer, though very commonly ... with, is a mere toy; and indicates neither the abs... lute height of the mercurial column, nor its variation... with sufficient accuracy to be of the slightest use ... any philosophical purpose whatever. Even as ... weather-glass it is the worst of all the common for... of the barometer." Dr. Lardner also expresses him... self in nearly the same terms.

I would here state, that I have the Agency for ... sale of an Improved Cistern Barometer, by E. ... Byram, of Sag Harbor, N. Y., containing the im... provement for which the Royal Society of Lond... at one time offered a premium, which I shall be hap... py to exhibit and explain to any person who feels su... ficient interest to look at it. It is adapted to the mea... urement of heights, and all philosophical purposes, ... which the Barometer is considered useful. It is no... liable to get out of order, and operates much quicke... than the common Barometer, which gives it superiori... ty as a weather-glass, and may be transported in an... position without injury. The price will be ... from $15 to $18, and warranted to perform as recom... mended, or they may be returned and the money re... funded. E. T. BYRAM.

CHICAGO:
WESTERN HISTORICAL COMPANY.
MDCCCLXXXII.

Walworth County, and in 1852 purchased a farm in Geneva, where he resided, with the exception of two years that he lived in Elkhorn, until 1868, in the Spring of which year his wife died, leaving five children — Delia (now Mrs. O. C. Chase, of Furgus Falls, Minn.); Adelbert, also living at that place; Florence (now Mrs. Allison Beach, of Onalaska, La Crosse Co.); Mary, living at Furgus Falls, and H. Orlando, living at home. He then sold his farm, removed to Elkhorn, and in December, 1868, was married to Adalaide Merrick, of Spring Prairie. In March, 1869, he purchased his present farm of 200 acres, which is now valued at $60 per acre. He is a Liberal Republican in politics, and has held local offices.

JOSEPH POTTER, farmer, Sec. 19; P. O. Elkhorn; was born in Dutchess County, N. Y., July 25, 1823; was brought up on a farm, and received a common school education. In 1843, he came with his parents to Wisconsin, landing at Milwaukee, June 9. The family at once proceeded to Walworth County, and here his father, Robert K. Potter, purchased 200 acres of land on Secs. 19 and 18, LaFayette. In 1851, Joseph was married to Miss Rosina Ellsworth; then rented his father's farm for five years, after which, in 1856, he purchased the same at $35 per acre, on which he has built a fine brick house, valued at $3,000, and made other improvements, so that the farm is now worth $60 per acre. His wife died May 19, 1869, leaving six children—Gilbert, now a resident of Nebraska; Laura A. (now Mrs. George Young. of Elkhorn); George, Julia, Mary and Josie. In March, 1872, he married Caroline Randall. They have two children, Lurena and Maud. Mr. Potter is a Republican in politics, and has held local office.

J. P. POTTER, farmer, Sec. 34; P. O. Elkhorn; settled where he now resides in 1846; is a native of Rutland County, Vt., born Feb. 28, 1812. When he was thirteen years of age his mother died, and as his father broke up house-keeping the family became separated, and the subject of this sketch was left to take care of himself. He worked at farming by the month; also attended school for a few terms. In 1839, he, becoming tired of shifting about in single life, was married to Sylvia Goodspeed; continued farming by renting land and cultivating the same until 1842, at which date he removed to Sandy Hill, Washington Co., N. Y. Here he worked in a saw-mill during the Summer until 1846. He spent the Winter seasons logging in Essex County. He then came to Wisconsin, purchased forty acres of his present farm, for which he gave $100, to which he added from time to time, so that his real estate now amounts to 184 acres, valued at $8,500. The children are: Sylvia (now Mrs. E. W. Gray, of Geneva); Erwin E., a farmer in Kansas; Lola M. (now Mrs. M. Wright, of Darien); Hiram H. and Elmer E. Politically he is a Democrat.

E. S. SHEPARD, farmer, Sec. 29; P. O. Elkhorn; is a son of W. S. and Caroline (Beach) Shepard, the former a native of Hartford, Conn., and the latter of New York, and where, in Ontario County, of the latter named State, on the sixth day of July, 1832, the subject of this sketch was born. In 1844, the family removed to Little Fort (now Waukegan), Ill., near which place they purchased a farm. Here E. S. helped till the soil, and, in 1854, was married to Abagail Chandler, then of Waukegan, but a native of Pennsylvania, born in 1831. He still followed farming until 1865, in which year his parents purchased 140 acres of land in Walworth County, Wis., and as they were moving from Illinois to their new home his wife was thrown from the wagon, thereby receiving a fractured arm and fractured hip, which made her a cripple for life. E. S. therefore removed to Walworth County, and took charge of the farm until 1873, at which date he purchased the homestead. His parents then removed to Elkhorn, where they resided until 1880, in which year they went to Beloit, Kansas, where the mother still lives, but the father died Dec. 26, 1880. E. S. resides on the homestead, which is valued at $50 per acre. He has one daughter, Ellen A. (now Mrs. Edgar Wales, of LaFayette).

ZEPHANIAH SHORT, farmer, Sec. 27; P. O. Elkhorn; one of Walworth's earliest settlers; is a native of Otsego County, N. Y., born in 1815; brought up on a farm. He received a common school education, and, in 1835, was married to Sally Cockett. In 1842, he came to Wisconsin, and purchased the southwest one-fourth of Sec. 27, LaFayette, but returned to the Empire State, where he remained until 1846. He then removed to his new home, and resided on the land he purchased in 1842, until 1854, when he purchased the east one-half of the northwest one-fourth of Sec. 27, LaFayette, where he has since resided. He now owns 240 acres of land, valued at $50 per acre. The children are: Sally M. (now Mrs. J. V. Hicks, of LaFayette); James, a resident of Glendon, Minn.; George W. (deceased), having enlisted in 1862, in Co. I, 28th Wis., and died at Helena, Ark., in the Spring of 1863; Esther L. (now Mrs. George W.

Farrar, of East Delevan); Benjamin F., the only one of the children born in Wisconsin, died in 1856, at the age of 6 years and 4 days.

A. L. VANDERPOOL, farmer, Sec. 32; P. O. Elkhorn; was born in Albany County, N. Y., in 1843. In 1853, the family came to Wisconsin, and settled in Spring Prairie, where they resided until 1860, when they removed to the town of Delevan. In 1862, the subject of this sketch enlisted in Co. I, 28th Wis., and served three years. He then returned to Walworth, and, in 1867, was married to Miss Frances Harriman, daughter of Dudley and Mary (Corbett) Harriman. He then followed butchering for one year, at Delevan. They then removed to Clarence, Cedar Co., Iowa, where he continued in the same business for one year. Then he returned to Walworth, and served as a traveling agent for one year. In the Fall of 1871, he again went to Clarence, Iowa, and was engaged dealing in agricultural implements about one year, and since he has been engaged in farming where he now resides. The children living are Harry and Georgia. Politics, Republican.

JOHN VOSS, farmer, Sec. 34; P. O. Elkhorn; is a native of Germany, born in 1835; emigrated to the United States in 1858, and first settled in Onondago County, N. Y., where, in 1861, he was married to Sarah Ann Pridmore, a native of England. In 1864, he came to Wisconsin, and, in 1873, purchased his present property. He now owns 110 acres of land, valued at $40 per acre. He has one son, John F. Politics, Liberal.

DAVID T. VAUGHN, farmer, Sec. 13; P. O. Spring Prairie; one of the old land-marks of Walworth; is a native of Bridgewater, Vt., born Feb. 28, 1810. When he was but eighteen months old his father died, and his mother died in 1820. He was, therefore, at the tender age of ten years left to the mercy of the world to take care of himself. At the age of seventeen he went to Carver, Mass., where he learned the joiner's trade with his brother Samuel, but as his health did not permit him to continue the same, he returned to Bridgewater, and soon after went to Pittsfield, and here, on the 20th day of January, 1833, he was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony with Miss Rebecca Dinsmore. In the Spring of 1834 he left his wife with her folks and went to Michigan, and as he was well pleased with that State, he returned to Pittsfield to get his wife; but as she was an only daughter her parents did not wish to have her go West. So Mr. Vaughan remained in the East, digging away among the stumps and stones for three years, which was very discouraging, as he knew there was much better farming land in the West. He, therefore, sold what property he could spare for $50, and on June 10, 1837, started with his family for Michigan, where they lived one year, then they came to Wisconsin and settled in Walworth County, Aug. 31, 1838. And now came the trials which only the pioneers of a new country can comprehend. When they arrived in Walworth County the family was all sick with the ague. They lived with Mr. Vaughn's brother Dike until November, who cared for them as well as he could. Mr. Vaughn then rented a house, worked at his trade somewhat during the Winter, and the next Summer worked at Perkin's grist-mill at $1 per day, leaving his wife and two children to take care of themselves. She did sewing for Ansil Salisbury, and bought one bushel of beans and two bushels of buckwheat flour. In the Fall of 1839 the house they then occupied was destroyed, which left them almost destitute, as they simply saved the clothes they wore, a brass kettle, and a few minor articles. But they did not despair, and Mr. Vaughn at once went to Burlington, Racine Co., where he ran a saw-mill on shares, and in this way procured lumber to build a house. In the Spring of 1840 he purchased forty acres of his present farm, and to pay for it he borrowed money of Ansil Salisbury at twenty per cent. interest. The first eighty acres of land he purchased by selling a yoke of cattle for $72, to which he added his cash, but still lacked $10, for which amount he gave his note of offering twelve per cent. interest, payable in gold. In the Spring of 1840 he purchased a threshing machine, which he ran one year with success, lived in the most economical way, and has now succeeded in accumulating a goodly share of this world's goods, as he now owns 570 acres of land, valued at $40 per acre. His wife died June 14, 1876, at the age of sixty-three years and twenty-one days, leaving six children, five of whom are now living—George, Henry, Alonzo, William and Joseph.

JOSEPH VAUGHN, youngest son of David T. and Rebecca (Dinsmore) Vaughn, was born in the town of La Fayette, Walworth Co., in 1850; received an academic education, and in 1875 was married to Miss Alice Sheffield. He is a farmer, lives with his father, and at present has charge of the homestead, which contains 240 acres.

S. T. WEBB, farmer, Sec. 24; P. O. Spring Prairie. He is a native of Columbia Co., N. Y. Born in 1824; received a common-school education, and in 1844 was married to Miss

The town of Lafayette, at first included in Spring Prairie, was set off March 21, 1843. It is town 3 north, range 17 east, less section 31, set off in 1846 to form the town of Elkhorn. Beginning on its north line, and following the direction of the sun, it is bounded by Troy, Spring Prairie, Geneva and Elkhorn, and Elkhorn and Sugar Creek. Sugar creek crosses from west to east a little north of the middle line of the town, and affords a small amount of mill power. In earlier years, it was well wooded with the several varieties of oak, and at points along the creek with sugar maples from which the Indian occupants of the county hunting ground derived a noteworthy supply of crudely mad e sugar.

Before the establishment of rural free delivery, there was a post office at Bowers, near the junction of two highways from Spring Prairie to Elkhorn, east side of section 26. In earlier times this office was a few rods distant and was name Grove. There was also an office at Fayetteville (which railway men persistently call "Peck's Station").

Isiah Hamblin and family led the immigration to Lafayette in June 1836. He settled on section 25 and built his cabin immediately. Within the year Solomon A Dwinnell, Elias Hicks, Alpheus Johnson, Charles Cauncey Perrin and Isaac Vant followed. Other early followers include: Nathaniel Bell, William Bohall, Alexander H Bunnell, Morris Cain, Harvey M Curtiss, George W Dwinnell, David S Eltin, Thomas Emerson, Daniel, McDounogh and Samuel Harkness, Riley Harrington, Daniel Hartwell, Charles Heath, Mason A Hicks, Henry Johnson, Dr Jesse C Mills, Anthony Noblet, Emery Singletery, Duer Y Smith, Sylvester G Smith, Daniel Kingsley Stearns, David Tower Vaughn, John Wadsworth, Stephen Gano West and Jesse Pike West.

In 1884, there were seven school districts, a church in section 10 at the Bishop farm, its service usually supplied from the Congregational church at East Troy, and near it is a well kept burial ground laid out in 1848. There are also graves at "Westville" in section 6 and at the Seymour farm in section 18, laid out in 1844.

SPRING PRAIRIE

At the division of the county into five towns, January 2, 1838, the two townships, each numbered 3 north, lying in ranges 17 and 18 east, were included in the town of Spring Prairie, and were so joined until March 21, 1843, when the westernmost town was set off as Lafayette.

Palmer GARDNER came in April, 1836, to section 25. Others who followed shortly include: HARVEY, HEMINWAY, PRATT, BENTLEY, CHASE, SALISBURY, HUNT, HOYT, CLARK, BILLINGS, PEARCE, BAKER, BELL, CLEMENT, COLEMAN, CRAIN, McNAY, MERRICK WHITMORE, VAUGHN and others.

Honey Creek lies partly in Racine county. It had a postoffice and cemetery in 1884.
Vienna, on Sugar creek, was at first called Martinsburg. Voree was the creation of Jesse James Strang, who came in 1844 and began to build a city and temple. It is not known whether he found the name for the town in the book of Mormon. He had about 300 disciples.
Spring Prairie was also named Franklin for a short time. The Baptist church organized in 1841. Congregationalist met in 1840. The Methodist society formed in 1837. There is a German Methodist church in section 2. The first known teacher was Juliette Merrick who taught in 1837-38.
There is a cemetery named Hickory Grove in section 30 on the southwest corner. the first burial was the wife of William Baumis.

2. Range Direction - "East" or "West" of the vertical line to the left of the township reference numbers
3. Range Number - Numbers are oriented horizontally in the map above and identify rowns of townships roughly aligned with lines of longitude

he was accompanied by Wells Warren and his family, and his brother, Cornelius Van Velzer, who is now living on the farm with his nephew George, in Walworth Township. Mr. Van Velzer continued farming until his death, which occurred at the age of fifty-five years. His wife survived him a few years, when she too was called to the home beyond. He was a Universalist in religious faith, and she was a Methodist.

To this worthy couple were born ten children, five sons and five daughters, of whom eight are yet living, namely: William H. of this sketch; Harriet, wife of Earl Crowfoot, of Delavan, Wis.; George, who is living in Walworth Township; Mary Jane, wife of John Beemsley, of Delavan; Ansel, who makes his home in Clinton Junction; Washington, of Delavan; Sarah Janet, wife of John Berry; and Ferdinand, who is also living in Delavan. Orcelia is deceased.

Our subject was a child of only three years when his parenty came to Walworth County, where he has since made his home. In the usual manner of farmer lads the days of his boyhood and youth were passed, and early in life he was inured to the arduous labor of developing a farm. On the 28th of September, 1856, he was united in marriage with Miss Sarah Crowfoot, daughter of Sylvester and Caroline (Root) Crowfoot, who were natives of the Empire State. Five children have been born of this union. Cora died at the age of one year. Henrietta is the wife of Zaver Bashaw, of Lake Geneva, and to them have been born four children: Clarence, Frank, Ethel and Essie. Harriet Belle is the wife of Albert Trumblee, of Genoa Junction, by whom she has three children: Florence, Bertie and Beulah. Edith is the wife of Harry Van Slyke, of Lake Geneva, and they have one child, Neta; and Maud completes the family.

Mr. Van Velzer is a member of the Odd Fellows' fraternity and of the Temple of Honor. He exercises his right of franchise in support of the Democracy. He and his uncle Cornelius are the oldest male residents in Walworth County. He has witnessed its entire development from the time when it was inhabited by Indians and wild animals, bears, panthers, wolves, deer and game of all kinds. At that time the grass grew about seven feet tall, and afforded hiding-places for all kinds of game. In the fall the Indians would set fire to it and burn it for miles and miles, and the people were obliged to burn a tract around their homes in order to protect them from the fire. Mr. Van Velzer has experienced all the hardships and trials of pioneer life, has seen the wild lands transformed into beautiful homes and farms, and has ever borne his part in the work of development and improvement.

GEORGE W. FARRAR.

GEORGE W. FARRAR has for almost twenty years resided upon his farm on section 35, Delavan Township. He there owns a valuable tract of land of two hundred and ten acres, which is neat and thrifty in appearance, for the fields are well tilled, the fences are well kept, and everything about the place is in good repair. There may be seen good buildings, together with the latest improved machinery and all the accessories of a model farm.

Mr. Farrar was born in St. Lawrence County, N. Y., July 7, 1840, and when a boy of fourteen summers came with his parents to Wisconsin. The family is of English origin. His father, Henry Farrar, was born in Norfolk, England, in 1804, and in that country was married to Miss Jemima Hawes, also a native of Norfolk. In 1835 they crossed the Atlantic to America. They became the parents of twelve children: John, who now resides in Wayne County, N. Y.; Timothy H., who is living in Indiana; Ann, now the wife of Frank Dixon, who makes his home in Delavan; Jane, wife of Robert Cheney, who is living in La Fayette, Walworth County, Wis.; George W. of this sketch; Elizabeth, wife of James Clark, of Nora Springs, Iowa; Mary, wife of John Clark, who is located in Rock County, Wis.; Sarah, who died, and was buried in Geneva Township; Maria, wife of A. B. Myers, of Milwaukee; Eliza, wife of J. Harriman, of Milwaukee; William Henry, who died and was buried in St. Lawrence County, N. Y.; and Hattie, wife of Theodore Stearns, of La Fayette Township, Walworth County.

The gentleman whose name heads this record remained at home until twenty-two years of age, and then responded to the country's call for troops, enlisting on the 21st of August, 1862, as a member of Company I, Twenty-eighth Wisconsin Infantry. He served throughout the remainder of the war, and held the office of Second Sergeant. In January, 1863, he went to Helena, Ark., and then on an expedition under Gen. Gorman up the White River, returning on the 25th of January. On the 24th of February he joined the Yazoo Pass expedition, and in April returned to Helena. On the 4th of July a hot engagement took place, in which the odds seemed fearfully against the Union forces, but the result was favorable. Our forces killed and wounded more than their own number in the engagement—one of the notable facts of the war.

On the 11th of August, Mr. Farrar and his company joined the expedition that was to capture Little Rock, and after this was accomplished their next service was at Benton and Rockport. On the 7th of November, 1863, they were ordered to Pine Bluff, Ark., and on the 30th of March, 1864, went on the expedition up the Saline River, where a hard battle occurred under the command of the gallant Brig.-Gen. Powell Clayton. In April, 1864, the regiment again returned to Pine Bluff, but soon after went on another expedition up the Saline River, and thence to Little Rock, where they remained until February 1, 1864, when the regiment was ordered to New Orleans. On the 28th of March it went to Port Morgan, where it was attached to the Thirteenth Army Corps, under Gen. Gordon Granger, and took part in the battle of Spanish Fort. A hot fight ensued, which continued thirteen days, and on the night of the fourteenth day the capture was accomplished. On the 9th of April occurred the battle and capture of Ft. Blakely, after which they were ordered back to Mobile Bay. The Twenty-eighth Wisconsin was then sent up the Tombigbee River about one hundred miles. In April, 1865, Gen. Lee surrendered his army to Gen. Grant, and on the 23d of May the regiment returned to Mobile, whence it was ordered to Santiago, Tex., and thence to Brownsville, where, on the 23d of August, they were mustered out of service.

On the 25th of August Mr. Farrar boarded a steamer northward bound, and on the 22d of September he was honorably discharged at Madison, Wis. He was in the service for more than three years, and was ever a valiant defender of the Old Flag and the cause it represented. He went through nearly all the experiences and hardships of army life, yet was never sick in the hospital, and was always found at his post of duty, faithfully performing the task allotted to him.

On the 13th of February, 1866, Mr. Farrar was united in marriage with Miss Esther Short, a native of Otsego County, N. Y., and three children were born of their union: Elsie, wife of George Hickson, of Delavan Township; and Austin and Elva, at home. Since his marriage, Mr. Farrar has devoted his time and attention to agricultural pursuits and has met with good success in his undertakings, securing thereby a comfortable competence. On April 2, 1888, he was called upon to mourn the loss of his wife, who was laid to rest in East Delavan Cemetery.

Our subject is identified with the Republican party, which he has supported since casting his first Presidential vote. He is a member of the Board of Supervisors of Delavan Township, and by the prompt and faithful discharge of the duties devolving upon him, he has won the commendation of all concerned. Socially, he is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and of Olive Branch Lodge No. 9, I. O. O. F. He is true to every trust reposed in him, whether public or private, and manifests the same loyalty in days of peace as when he wore the blue and followed the Stars and Stripes on southern battlefields.

SALMON G. ARNOLD.

SALMON G. ARNOLD, one of Sharon's most highly respected citizens, has for many years been one of the leading and influential men of Walworth County. Being both widely and favorably known, we feel assured that the record of his life will prove of interest to our readers. The family is of English origin, and was founded in America by three brothers who came from England to the United States in early Colonial days, one settling in Rhode Island, another in Massachusetts, and the third in Connecticut. The last-named was the great-grandfather of our subject.

Luther Arnold, father of our subject, was born in Pollock, Rutland County, Vt., in October, 1789, was there reared, and then removed to Hubbardton, Vt. He owned the ground on which was fought the battle of Hubbardton, during the Revolutionary War. He was a soldier of the War of 1812, serving with distinction in that struggle, and after its close he returned to his farm, where he resided until his emigration to Walworth County, in 1850. He was married in Vermont to Mary Prouty, and four children graced their union: Luther, Fayette, William and Salmon G. Luther made his home in Glens Falls, N. Y., where for many years he edited a paper, and served as County Superintendent of Schools of Warren County. In 1868 he came West on a visit, and after a brief illness died at the home of his brother Salmon, on the 28th of January of that year. Fayette came to Walworth County in 1850, and the other brothers came in 1851, all making their homes in Sharon Township. The father resided upon his farm in this county until his death, which occurred March 26, 1856. His wife passed away March 9, 1861.

Mr. Arnold whose name heads this record was born in Hubbardton, Rutland County, Vt., July 15, 1820, and when six months old was taken by his parents to Washington County, N. Y., where he grew to manhood, working on a farm through the summer months, while in the winter season he attended school. During his winter vacations he engaged in threshing grain on the old barn floor with a flail. On attaining his majority, he embarked in farming for himself in Washington County. There, in 1848, was celebrated his marriage with Ann Eliza Hotchkiss, who was born in Hampden, Washington County, N. Y., May 11, 1826. She is a daughter of Chester Hotchkiss, who spent his entire life in that county, dying at the age of about forty years. Her mother, who bore the maiden name of Betsy Gillette, died in Sharon, Wis., March 31, 1884, at the age of seventy years. In the Hotchkiss family were seven children: Ann Eliza, now Mrs. Arnold; Hulda, wife of Alva Wilkins; Rufus; Ruel; Hiram; David and Mrs. Susan Searles. All came to Walworth County except Hiram, who is now living in Rutland County, Vt., and all are yet living except Ruel, who died in Adams County, Wis.

Five children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold: Mary, wife of N. Davis, of Watertown, S. Dak.; Maria, wife of H. Wilcox, of Vinton, Iowa; Alice, wife of Jonas Wise, of Sharon; Luther, who married Minnie Brigham, and lives in Sharon; and

Subject: Regards to Zeps family

Hi Helen!
It was mentioned in Zephaniah's bio, that his son George W. Short died in the Civil War. I found him listed in the Wisconsin Civil War Volunteers Index S, along with his brother James Short.

George W. Short, Corporal, Company I, 28th Regiment, Infantry
James Short, Pvt., Company I, 28th Regiment, Infantry

Wisconsin Historical Society, on the Internet
Digital Library and Archives
Lists more fully, some more details:

George W. Short, Residence La Fayette, enlisted Aug. 21, 1862, died on April 21, 1863, Helena, Arkansas--Disease

James Short, Residence, La Fayette, enlisted Aug. 21, 1862, mustered out on August 23, 1865

There are probably some pension papers available for these boys. Perhaps a Mother's Pension ? or Parents pension?, especially if his pay was helping to support the family. Worth asking for, in George's Case. Might be worth a try for either of them? If Zep died before Sally, she may have later applied for a Pension through son Geo.?

Subject: Hi

Hello!
It's me again. I checked to see if the LDS Family Search had anything on Zep. Someone had submitted info, that said he was born about 1804 to Amasa & Elizabeth, but nothing else.
I checked for James Short, nothing.
I then checked for Loren. Someone has submitted paperwork for Loren. It is a sealing. Must get permission to view it. You can go on line & double ck. it.
Loren Judson Short born 22 Dec. 1862 in Elknor, Walworth, Wis. son of James Zephaniah Short and Geraldine Calista Ranney.

Another Lorin is listed too. Spelled different. from LDS record, and SS#
Lorin Ernest Short born 24 Oct. 1891. He died 14 Dec. 1973. (Wisconsin, probably where he got his social sec. card) It said actual death was in Minnesota. He was a son of Charles Morton Short and Minerva C. Kepford
This record was submitted to the LDS from David Nyman, 32505 South, 250 W. Nibley, Utah-84321. He maybe or may not be a relative. Could have just been researching???
Most of the time, I can not figure out the LDS submission listings! My pea brain has trouble figuring out whats what with the LDS. ha ha
I finally got around to submitting my book to them in August of 2000. They asked if they could copy it on film, and I gave the ok, but only to be used within their libraries. They were still filming it, when I checked on its status last June, and she gave me a reference number for it. I checked on it the other day. All the items surrounding the numbers are recorded, but mine is missing. I did find me in authorship but it gives no reference as to what the author/authors refer to? I e-mailed about it, but so far haven't heard a thing. Maybe I e-mailed the wrong section? Could be they got interrupted too?
Maybe if I can go to Salt Lake City, someday, I'd have a better feel for finding information and things, & understand how to use their materials. I get overwhelmed and feel really stupid trying to research things through them, most of the time. ha ha
Perhaps you can find additional info or what these entries mean? I do know that someone else has been working on the Shorts, but don't know who! ha ha
Take care,
Linda

Subject: Re: James Z. Shorts' wife

Hi!
There is an entry for James' wife with the LDS family search, on line. That's http://www.familysearch.com
Geraldine Calista Ranney was born to Reuben and Lucia (Rockwell) Ranney. They are the neighbors listed on the Census records you sent.
Type in Reuben Ranney, born 31 Oct. 1811, Stockbridge, Vt. Click on his family sheet. Birth order of children is out of order. Or get the fam. sheet thru Geraldines listing.
This was submitted to the LDS, by Helen D. Johnson, 22222 Oxford Street, Dearborn, Michigan-USA48124
She is probably tracing the Ranney/Rockwell lineages. Only had the initials J.Z. Short listed for James Zep.
There is still the possiblity, that she is not the one who sent that other listing, mentioned in the last e-mail.
Anyway, there's thorough info on her family.
-Linda

Subject: Zep

Hi Helen!
Just a note to let you know that I received your packet! Thank You!!
That was neat that you found a bio on Zep! I got the impression he may have still been alive, when it was printed? Didn't see the year when the History of Walworth Co. was printed? Zep was still alive in June 1880 from the Census (Age 64?)

Somehow my e-mail messages got into old mail, and I didn't see you e-mail till Sat. morning. The packet came in the afternoon. I was busy for a couple days, and didn't get to my mail, so it either rolled itself over or...very likely, Ken moved my e-mails to old mail without thinking. Probably the latter. I will talk to him "bout" that!

Glad to hear you had the chance to go to Ft. Wayne, but sorry to hear those Shorts are trying to be illusive. I had a round about thought on Zep. In regards to his grandson that died in Walworth Co. Perhaps, they are buried in the same Cemetery as Zep? I don't know exactly about the size of the Community? On second thought, Zep is most likely buried in a rural cemetery closest to his farm, or Lafayette Cem? Maybe there is a visible marker for him, but cem has not been published yet? The sexton may have a record of earlier burials, with or without markers? Could this grandson have had a ss#? Wonder if Walworth Co. has a library with a local history section? Did Zep have a Will or estate papers? With so much property he probably had one or the other.

I tried to review a few of the property deeds from N.Y., but I got interrupted to baby-sit. I'll get back to them today. I never retyped them, they are sometimes hard to read. I'll write again soon. I was going to double check some things on line too.
Hang in there!

28th Regiment
Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry
1862 - 1865

August 15, 1862. "Today I enlisted as a soldier in the army of the United States. How changed everything seems to me now.... I must soon leave home, friends, and the old familiar things of boyhood days, to go forth amid the dangers, privations and hardships of the soldier's life.... I am going under Capt. Williams in the 28th Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteers, Co. A. We go into camp at Milwaukee on the 13th day of September, 1862."

-- Diary of Corp. Charles H. Wildish

The Twenty-eighth Regiment was recruited during the summer of 1862 in Waukesha and Walworth Counties, Wisconsin, and was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, under the command of Colonel James M. Lewis of Oconomowoc. Ten companies of a bit less than 100 men each had responded to President Lincoln's second call for volunteers. Six companies were recruited from Waukesha County and four raised in nearby Walworth County. Many companies carried their own descriptive names, such as the Lewis Guards (Co. A), Waukesha Minute Men (Co. B), Whittaker Guards (Co. C), Whitewater Co. No. 3 (Co. D), Federal Guards (Co. E), Badger Guards (Co. F), Hodgson Guards (Co. G), Sigel Guards (Co. H), and the Wylie Guards (Co. K).

The 28th Regiment was mustered into United States service on 13 October 1862. They spent the next nine weeks training at Camp Washburn, near Milwaukee, before boarding railcars and heading south on December 20, 1862.

Dear Helen,

Enclosing the results from my brain storm. Do they tell you anything they don't tell me? I have a feeling it is difficult to track early property with metes & bounds descriptions and the clerk merely checked grantee, grantor records.

The Samuel in this deed could be Samuel, Jr., b 1720's or your Samuel (b 1762) brother of your Amasa.

Nothing new here since my last letter.

Going to Mt C for Rick's birthday and Easter. Weather forecast not promising. I'm ready for spring weather & expect you are too.

Wishing you and your family a lovely Easter.

Cheers,

Helen

Dear Town Clerk:

Enclosed is my check for $4.00. I'm hoping you may be able to provide me with copies of three deeds, and that this amount will cover copy and postage costs. If it isn't sufficient, please let me know.

*First, Samuel Short bought a piece of property under the deed recorded in Volume 6, page 547, written 11 Apr 1761 and recorded 15 Apr 1761. A copy of this deed is enclosed. I would like a copy of the deed showing the next sale of this property.

*Second, Asa Short refers in a deed (Volume (12?), page 397, written 23 Sep 1793, recorded 5 Oct 1793) to purchasing land from Samuel Short. I would like a copy of this sale by Samuel Short to Asa Short.

Third, If there is any other deed of property sale with Samuel Short as grantor between 1770 and 1810 I would like a copy also.

Thank you so much for any help you can provide.

Dear Mrs. Heyart:

In response to your request, I was unable to find either the first or second deed you mentioned. I researched both the Grantor and Grantee indices for that time period. I did find, however, a deed from Samuel Short to Eli Moffit dated August, 1788. Since we cannot issue refunds by check, I am enclosing $2.00 in cash for the overpayment that you sent.

Thank you

Some of the children may of been born in Tioga County, Penn. I can not find Samuel or any of his children on 1860 census - checked Chemung County, NY, Tioga County, PA and Shiawassee County, MI. George was married in 1861 in Middlebury, Tioga County, Penn. George entered the Civil War, 1863 from Michigan. 1870 census showed Samuel, 80 and wife Harriett 49 living on a farm next to son George. Daughters Lucinda and Clarinda were in the same county. Daughters Prudence and Charlotte were in Linden, Genesse County, Mich. Not sure of exact year that Samuel moved - but I have found nearly all of his children in Michigan as young adults.
